Accident Elem. Class Stages Play And Puppet Show

Students in Mrs. Maxine K. Miller's fourth grade at Accident Elementary School recently performed a play and a puppet show for their parents and for the other two fourth grade classes. The school is currently piloting the Riverside Reading Program, from which the play and puppet show were taken.

Following an introduction to the play given by J.J. Serbia and Michael Sullivan and an introduction of the characters by Aaron DeWitt, the Star Show reading group performed "The Mystery of the Stone Statues." This play involves Dr. Chilling, a mad scientist portrayed by Jason King, who plots to rule the world. Dr. Chilling's plan is to have the president of Wackowacko, played by Misty Callahan, unwittingly sign governing privileges over to him. After officially gaining control of Wackowacko, Dr. Chilling plans to offer the president a beverage which is actually a potion which will turn her to stone.

Two detectives, Sidney Stalwart, played by Tommy Tusing, and Amy Truegood, played by Jessica Perry, know Dr. Chilling is up to no good. As Sidney explores Chilling's home, he finds stone statues everywhere. They are all holding drinking glasses. He deduces that this must be a clue. Amy, however, puts two and two together and keeps Sidney from drinking the potion offered to him by Chilling. Amy escorts the president of Wackowacko out of Chilling's residence to safety. She then returns to confront Chilling with Sidney. During this time, Chilling's chronic cough worsens and he unwittingly drinks a glass of his own potion. He turns to stone thus ending this dangerous threat to world safety.

At the conclusion of the play, John Ortiz invited audience participation by asking a few questions about the mystery. After this brief discussion of the play, the Gold Medals reading group Nugent, Shaun Savage, and Danny Sweitzer used puppets which they had created in class.

In this puppet show, the wide-mouthed frog thought himself too dignified to eat common mosquitoes and flies. He inquired of each character in the play — including an owl, a deer, a fox, an egret, a turtle, a squirrel, an opossum, and a raccoon — what types of food they thought most delicious. However, the foods they offered were not suitable for him either. At last, he was directed to an alligator who after a brief discussion tried to devour the wide-mouthed frog. The frog hopped frantically away and upon reaching safety decided that mosquitoes and flies weren't so bad after all.

Following the puppet show, Heather Malcomb led a brief discussion of the events and moral of the story.

Lifeguard Course Set At Canaan

Canaan Valley Resort Recreation Area Supervisor, Nanette Seligman, has announced that a lifeguard training course will be offered in June at the resort's pool. Ms. Seligman is an authorized Red Cross instructor in water safety, lifeguard training, standard first aid and back injury prevention.

Lifeguard training is a new class offered through the American Red Cross. This replaces the life saving class which for many years had been recognized as training for working as a lifeguard. The purpose of this new class is to provide necessary minimum skills training for a person to qualify to work as a non-surf lifeguard. Course pre-requisites include: student must be at least 15 years old, be able to swim 500 yards continuously, surface dive at least nine feet, retrieve a 10-pound diving brick and bring it to the surface, surface dive at least five feet and swim underwater a minimum of 15 yards and also tread water for one minute. The length of the course is a suggested minimum of 27 hours.

Students must also complete the required training in first aid and adult CPR prior to receiving the lifeguard training certificate. These classes will also be offered in June. In addition, a week-long upper level swim class will be offered a week prior to the Lifeguard Training Class to help refresh swimming skills.

For more information, persons may contact Nanette Seligman at 866-4121, ext. 2645.

Northern Students Hold Alcohol Awareness Day

The students of Northern High School were involved in Alcohol Awareness Day on Thursday, May 11.

The school experiment was conducted by the students of Mrs. Jacqueline Davis's Contemporary Problems classes. In order to make students aware of the dangers of drinking and driving, 69 students were chosen randomly by computer to represent those people who die each day on the nation's highways because of drunk driving. Those students were asked to wear signs and white arm bands which indicated they were victims. The students attended classes, but did not participate in class activities. The students were also asked to not socialize with their friends for the day.

Sergeant Steele of the Anne Arundel Police Department gave a presentation on May 10 to the student body about the dangers of drinking and driving. Jodi Broadwater and Jerry Schlossnagle, seniors at Northern, also talked to students about the experiment. Amy Walsh, Deanna Bailey, Donn Upole, Marvin Murphy, Kevin Selby, and Sandy Dolan conducted the experiment throughout the day.

experiment seriously, and the vast majority of students expressed the same thoughts about the day. One student said, "The experiment made me feel upset and lonely because nobody talked to me and I couldn't talk to anyone. It gave me a feeling that if I ever did drink or drive that I could be killed or hurt seriously and all my friends would be upset."

Another student said, "This experiment made me think that drinking is not the only thing there is to do to have fun."

Another response from a student was, "It made me think that drinking and driving is no laughing matter and that it can happen to me, just like it can to any other person."

Another student summed it up with the following: "This experiment really brings it home that this could happen to anyone, whether it's his fault or not. I would never drink and drive. But it makes me mad to think that others would, and that their decision would endanger innocent people."

Lyn To Perform At Walnut Bottom

Literacy Council Acquires Computer

Michelle Lyn, teenage country gospel artist, will be appearing in concert at Walnut Bottom Assembly of God Church on May 28 at 7 p.m.

Miss Lyn began her singing career at the age of nine, singing a duet with gospel songwriter/performer Dotty Rambo during the Washington, D.C. premier of Rambo's children's musical, "Down By The Creek Bank."

Since that time, she has performed in concert and appeared on local and nationally syndicated radio and television shows, and has released two recordings, "Sweet Anoining" and "Travailing". Both albums were produced by Connie Hopper.

Miss Lyn resides with her family in Alexandria, Va., and shares her musical testimony in churches, concert halls, nursing homes, school assemblies, or wherever the opportunity is offered.

Virus Enters Fight Against Gypsy Moths

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that a virus called Abby shows promise of being an effective killer of foliage-eating gypsy moths. The agency and the Forest Service plan to field-test the Abby virus this summer in Western Maryland under the leadership of Dr. Ralph Webb. "We will begin the tests as soon as the egg masses hatch and the leaves come out," Dr. Webb said, referring to the late spring this year in Western Maryland.

Dr. Webb said he is working closely with the state, and will be testing in areas not sprayed during the state's gypsy moth spray program. Since the virus only affects gypsy moths, it will be used in some areas where rare butterflies have been found. The virus has no impact on anything else, and for that reason can be used in fragile environmental areas, according to Webb.

Webb said the virus can be used in a number of ways. At this time, they are looking at it as an insecticide on individual trees. Scientists will then count the dead moth larvae and measure the amount of foliage that was protected.

This particular virus is a development of entomologist Martin Shapiro of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. Once the virus is applied, it is transmitted to each new generation of moths — a "second wave" advantage. This virus is registered with the EPA for use against gypsy moths, and compares with the standard strain of the virus which is natural.

Shapiro said if Abby passes the tests, the virus could become an alternative to either Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt) or diflubenzuron, a chemical currently used to keep the moths from reaching adulthood. Dr. Webb adds that at the moment, the virus is almost cost effective. In general use, it is not far away from Bt. "The potential is there for it to be cost effective," Webb said.

Shapiro, who has worked on the virus strain for about seven years at the agency's insect pathology laboratory in Beltsville, named Abby after the town where it was found — Abington, Mass.

The Abby virus showed up early in studies as one of the most effective of 19 different strains of nuclear polydrosis virus (NPV) around the world. The NPV strains infect gypsy caterpillars but may not prevent them from defoliating trees.

Shapiro said the Abby virus demonstrated in laboratory tests that it can kill more caterpillars 10 times faster than the standard NPV, which has been used for two years by the National Park Service in Rock Creek Park in Washington, D.C.

The Garrett County Literacy Council recently acquired a Bios Model G Plus computer through grant monies and a donation by David Moe of TCI (Total Concepts in Information), Oakland. The donation was in honor of former Literacy Council activist Joan Sprangel. According to a Literacy Council spokesperson, Mrs. Sprangel was instrumental in fostering the Council and in initiating the grant proposal. Sprangel moved away from the Garrett County area in the fall of 1988.

The Council applied for and received $2,500 in grant money from the Library Services and Construction Act under State Division of Library Services and Maryland State Department of Education. In addition to the computer, the Literacy Council was able to purchase zigzag bookshelves (a display system for books), Litmas software (management, recordkeeping system), and Core Reading and Vocabulary Development software.

The Core Reading and Vocabulary Development program is designed for older students who read at beginning levels. It features a menu of 18 lessons, ranging from simple to complex. Each lesson offers nine activities which are accessible from the main menu. Tutors are then able to monitor and review the student's

French Exchange Teacher Speaks To Alpha Alpha

The Alpha Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma recently held a dinner meeting at the Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

Featured speaker was Anne-Marie Gouhier, French exchange teacher at Southern High School. A Fulbright teacher, she teaches English in Paris, France. Her students there are college preparatory students studying advanced courses. Continuing with the position of women teachers in France, she mentioned there is equity among men and women, that they are chosen by exam and jobs are competitive. She also felt that teachers are more respected in France.

Barbara Flinn, president, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Flinn, Rosanne Sherwood, and Anna-Marie Miller gave reports from the State convention held at Solomons Island. At the convention, Dr. Ruby Matthews, International First Vice President, was one of the guest speakers. Dr. Alice Manicur, Frostburg State University, conducted a workshop "Key Educational Issues." Barbara Flinn was elected to the State Nominations Committee for Region I.

Delta Kappa Gamma Society International was 60 years old on May 11 of this year. Sheila Russell and Rosanne Sherwood gave an overview of those 60 years, beginning with the dedication that founder Annie Webb Blanton had toward women teachers. Twelve women educators met on May 11, 1929, at Austin, Texas. The Society is now international and is hoping to continue expansion in Japan and West Germany. A special birthday cake was prepared for the occasion.

It was announced that Jeanne Whitehair, diagnostic/prescription teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education was awarded the International Foreign Study scholarship for 1990-91. Jeanne will use the scholarship to study in France during the summer of 1990.

The next meeting will be a picnic supper and workshop on June 20 at Lillian Reckner's residence.

Forestry Board Committee Meets To Discuss Moth

The Ad Hoc Gypsy Moth Committee from the Forestry Boards in Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties met Wednesday, May 17, at Greenbrier State Park to continue their efforts to establish a cost share program to assist private landowners in treating their woodland to prevent damage by gypsy moth. Dr. Charles Puffenberger, Maryland Department of Agriculture, and James Roberts, state forester, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, discussed ways of increasing the funding available for the present state spray program, which is operated by the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

This year the Maryland Department of Agriculture is anticipating spraying approximately 170,000 acres in the state for gypsy moth. Approximately 35,000 acres will be sprayed in Garrett County this year. The tentative plans for 1990 and 1991 indicate that there will be a reduction in the acreage that will be sprayed in those years to 125,000 - 130,000 acres. This reduction in the acreage to be sprayed is anticipated because of a reduction in federal monies.

The Ad Hoc Committee had

A BRASS ENSEMBLE opened National Pike Festival celebrations at the Casselman Bridge State Park in Grantsville Saturday night, with County Commissioner John Braskey serving as master of ceremonies. The wall of the bridge appears in the background. A large campfire burning nearby contributed to the relaxing atmosphere. Ivan Miller, of Grantsville, who writes frequently on the subject, spoke about local history.

WINNING FORM — David Pickard, Somerset, Pa., demonstrates his skill in the tomahawk throw event during National Pike Festival demonstrations at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club in Grantsville Saturday and Sunday. The youngster defeated all adults entered in the competition, the objective of which was to embed a tomahawk in a tree stump by throwing the implement from a given distance.

discussed at a previous meeting holding a tour for legislators to show them the problems created by gypsy moth. John Forman, chairperson of the Garrett Forestry Board, suggested this tour as a way of bringing attention to the gypsy moth problem. The tour is tentatively scheduled for the second week in July in eastern Allegany County.

March Motor Fuel Consumption Up

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said motor fuel consumption jumped by 9.5 percent in March, 1989, compared with the same month a year ago, the fastest growth in over a year. Drivers used 223.6 million gallons of motor fuel during March, 1989.

The March fuel use resulted in $42.9 million in motor fuel tax revenue, up 7.3 percent over the $39.9 million collected during April last year. Goldstein attributed the increase to mild March weather and speculated that oil companies may have purchased large amounts of gasoline during March, anticipating higher April costs due to stricter federal environmental protection regulations.

"We do not see the same kind of growth when we look at the revenue for the fiscal year to date, however," Goldstein said. "That's because the Comptroller's Office has refunded $9.6 million to trucking companies and independent owner/operators who paid the state's $25 decal registration fee after it was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court in a case involving the state of Pennsylvania. That's about 94 percent of the total amount we expect to refund."

The Maryland General Assembly has since reduced the fee in line with the court's decision.

Taking into account the refunds issued to truckers, net motor fuel tax revenue for the first 10 months of fiscal year 1989 totaled $382.4 million, up two-tenths of one percent from the $381.7 million collected during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

WVU To Host Major Symposium

The 30th U.S. Symposium on Rock Mechanics, a prestigious academic and industry conference, will be held at West Virginia University this year.

WVU's College of Mineral and Energy Resources (COMER) will host the June 18-22 conference that focuses on engineering aspects of rock structures on top of mineral beds. Assisting WVU will be the U.S. Bureau of Mines and Consolidation Coal Co.

The symposium is sponsored by the International Society of Rock Mechanics and the U.S. National Committee for Rock Mechanics. About 500 participants from approximately 20 countries and 40 universities are expected to attend.

Royce Watts, associate dean of COMER, said competition among schools to host the symposium is tough.

"The schools compete and put in bids 3-4 years in advance of ever being chosen," Professor Watts said. "The school that is chosen has to show that it has the facilities and the people on campus engaged in relevant activities."

Grandfather Clocks Made By Area Man Bring Back Sense Of Awe

by Sandra Cusack

The pendulum swings back and forth, creating a comforting ticking noise that provides a soothing feeling that can lull one to sleep. Every hour, on the hour, the chime rings out the time of day.

As a child, one looks up at a grandfather clock with a sense of awe, like the feeling many children have about their grandfathers, wondering what makes it chime every hour, and that sense of wonder stays with one into adulthood. There is also a sense of comfort, knowing that as long as the clock continues to tick, everything is all right with the world.

Grandfather clocks are defined in the Random House College Dictionary as "a pendulum floor clock having a case as tall as, or taller than, a person."

The grandfather clocks made by Paul A. Eary of Lake Ford bring back that sense of awe STANDING TALLER THAN A MAN is the definition of a grandfather clock given in the Random House College Dictionary and Paul Eary's grandfather clocks are definitely taller than a man, as demonstrated in the above photo. Eary has been making grandfather clocks for about 15 years now and estimated that it takes him six weeks of seven hour days to complete a clock.

and comfort one felt as a child. Each one stands over six feet tall and is a work of art in itself.

The cabinets are hand-made by Eary, usually out of the wood of walnut trees, occasionally a wood such as oak, cherry, chestnut and one was even made from a locust tree.

He has made 37 clocks since he first began to do wood-work 15 years ago. He received plans for a grandfather clock through a catalog and modeled his first clock on those plans.

He has been altering and changing those plans since then, until now each clock is a custom designed work of art. Each clock takes about six weeks of seven hour days to construct. The clock-work, imported from Germany, has different designs, some with revolving moons or suns or just scenic views, depending on what the customer requests.

"I have the person that has ordered the clock select the wood. I tell them to give me a picture or sketch of how they want the clock to look," Eary explained.

"First I build the sides and the back. I always finish the back of the clock so that it will look nice if someone doesn't want to place it against a wall. I design the shape for the bottom front piece of the clock. Usually I put in the person's initial in this piece, but if they don't want that, I design something else," he said. The shape of the design of this piece is carried over to the sides and top of the clock.

"The first plans that I had called for a piano hinge on the top to provide access to the clock-work. I decided that it would be easier to be able to remove the whole top for access. (The clock remains stable and the surrounding frame comes off.) I then finish the wood and install the glass and the doors," he said.

Depending on how he wants the clock to look, he selects the appropriate finish, usually using Minwax sealer, Minwax wax and satin finish polyurethane.

The clockwork and movement are the last to be installed. "This is time-consuming, but not really difficult once you've done a few," he laughed. The chime rods and hammers have to be adjusted so that each piece does not hit another piece.

"I followed the plans for my first clock and have since altered the plans until now each clock is customized," Eary said. "It's pretty interesting, especially since many of the ideas have come from mistakes."

Eary pointed to a china cabinet that had a unique design around the glass doors. He had been cutting a piece of wood on a lathe and had cut too deep. Rather than throw the wood away, he decided to continue the pattern throughout the cabinet. He uses a lathe, an electric router and other tools to cut and shape the wood for his clocks.

Although the grandfather clocks are the largest and most expensive item he constructs, he also does many other wood-working projects.

He has built knick-knack racks, magazine racks, candy dishes, wedding plaques and picture frames, just to name a few. He doesn't like to have to throw wood away and has come up with many creative items from wood that many might otherwise find impossible to find a use for. On the landing of the staircase in the Eary home, the wall is covered with wood shaped into different distinct

"I had some wood that was in many different sizes and shapes and I wasn't sure what to do with it. Finally I decided to shape it together, as if it were a puzzle, and mount it on the wall," he explained.

One item made by Eary that can be seen throughout Garrett County is the Garrett County Seal plaque, which was designed by Aza Stanton. Eary carves each one by first tracing the pattern on to the wood, then using the router to carve the pattern into the wood. The plaque is then coated with finish, signed and numbered. He has built about 80 of the plaques. Each one takes between 16 and 24 hours to finish.

Eary has kept track of each of his clocks and other items that he has built and designed, and with each clock taking six weeks of seven hour days, it is no surprise.

"I would like to go into business, but it is hard to find someone with an interest in working with wood. The younger people all seem to be busy with their careers and the older people, if they want to be busy, already seem to have something they enjoy doing," he said.

In the meantime, he plans to keep building clocks and designing other knick-knacks and furniture, and maybe to catch up with the customers on his two year waiting list.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army Pvt. Tammy L. Crocco, daughter of Sandy K. and Charles L. Plessinger, Route 2, Oakland, has arrived for duty in West Germany.

U.S. Marine Cpl. Christopher W. Friend, son of Gerald W. Friend, Route 1, Friendsville, recently completed the Journeyman Engineer Equipment Operators Course.

During the course at the Marine Corps Engineer School, Camp Lejeune, N.C., Friend received instruction on engineer equipment operations, maintenance and supply, rigging and camouflage. Additionally, in practical application periods, he received training on tractors and tractor drawn equipment, graders, excavating equipment, cranes and forklifts.

A 1985 graduate of Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, he joined the Marine Corps in October 1985.

Restaurant Meals Up, Easter Finery Purchases Down

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says Marylanders apparently ate out in restaurants more, but spent less on Easter finery during March. "Analyzing April, 1989 sales and use tax revenue, which is based on March retail activity, we see a significant increase in revenue from taxable food and beverage sales, especially from restaurants, but little or no growth in the apparel and general merchandise categories," Goldstein said. Taxable food and beverage sales produced $23.8 million, or 8.2% more revenue than during April a year ago.

He noted that Easter fell in March this year, and on April 3 last year, meaning that most traditional Easter purchases were made during March each year. "Our analysis shows that the apparel category produced $6.9 million in sales and use tax revenue during April, 1989, an increase of less than one percent over the same month a year ago," he said. The general merchandise category actually declined by six-tenths of one percent to $20.9 million." Goldstein pointed out that the lower growth in the Easter shopping related categories had an effect on overall sales and use tax revenue. Total sales and use tax revenue for April, 1989 totaled $121.5 million, up 2.7% from the $118.2 million collected in April a year ago.

For the first nine months of fiscal year 1989, sales and use tax revenue totaled $1,122,787,701, a 6.3% increase over the 1,056,600,132 collected during the same period last year.

"For the nine month period, each category of collections posted an increase," Goldstein said. Among the largest revenue producers, the taxable food and beverage category produced $216.5 million, up 6.4%, while the general merchandise category produced $216.4 million, up 5.4%.

The furniture, fixtures and appliances category yielded $134.3 million, an increase of 7.3%, while the building and contractors category, yielded $170 million, up 5.4%.

Trash TV's hosts no match for early talk personalities

By John Haakenson

Talk shows long before the advent of "Trash TV" (see Morton Downey Jr.) there were talk shows. And long before Oprah, Geraldo and Phil ruled the afternoons, there was Garry Moore. And Arthur Godfrey. And Jack Paar. And many others. Here are some little-known, frequently amusing tidbits about the early days of television and radio talk shows.

Playwright George S. Kaufman was temporarily banned from TV when he said on a talk show during the Christmas season that he would throw up if he heard "Silent Night" played one more time.

Garry Moore, host of his own variety talk show, once sent a nickel to one of the women he talked to in the studio audience. Within a week, the woman, back home in Michigan, received an avalanche of nickels, amounting to about $12,000.

Jack Paar, predecessor to Johnny Carson and successor to Steve Allen on The Tonight Show, walked off the show when his producers wouldn't let him use the words "water closet" on the air. "Water closet" is the common British term for "bathroom."

TV personality Hugh Downs, who became known through his role as Paar's straight man on The Tonight Show, became extremely gun-shy as the result of a freak accident when he was a boy, in which he got shot.

Downs is also totally color blind, and cannot dress sensibly without someone else's help.

During an interview on a talk show, an old-time comic named Red Skelton died. No one knew who was responsible for moving the body, so while a commercial was run, the comic was left slumped in a chair off-camera. When it was finally decided that the corpse could be classified as a "prop," the prop department moved him. During another commercial.

J. Fred Muggs, a chimpanzee co-host of The Today Show, had to be retired at age 4 when he started biting people—including his co-host, Dave Garroway.

'Donna Reed Show' family has undergone many changes

By Polly Vanetes

Q: My family and I are faithful watchers of Nick at Night. They have wonderful family shows, but our favorite is The Donna Reed Show. What can you tell us about the cast, where they are now, what are they doing, if married, etc.? —Lisa Moore, Valley Head, Ala.

A: The adventures of the Stone family on The Donna Reed Show entertained American families from Sept. '58 'til Sept. '66. As with all families, through the years there are changes. Donna Reed, who starred as Donna Stone, portrayed Miss Ellie on Dallas for one year before succumbing to complications of pancreatic cancer in January, 1986. She was 64. Carl Betz, well-known as the husband/father Dr. Stone, died at age 57 of lung cancer in January, 1978. Shelley Fabares, daughter Mary, had a short but successful recording career after the series ended. In 1971 her acting career was rekindled and she has been appearing regularly in TV movies and episodic series. She can currently be seen in the ABC series Coach. Paul Petersen, son Jeff, also had a short recording career during the '60s. He is currently devoting his time to his new career as a writer. He has written a series of James Bond-type books and scripts. Patty Petersen, who portrayed daughter Trisha, has quietly retired.

Q: I was wondering what happened to Peggy Ann Garner. She was in the movie Junior Miss in 1945. Has she been in any other movies? Is she still living? —Elaine Reiner, Livingston, Mont.

A: Peggy Ann Garner died of cancer in 1984 at the age of 52. She made her film debut in 1938 in Little Miss Thoroughbred. Throughout the '40s she appeared in such films as In Name Only, Abe Lincoln in Illinois, The Pied Piper, Jane Eyre and A historical drama about the explorer, John Fremont. Will it be shown again? —Donna Robinson, West Salem, Ore.

Donna Reed not that high to warrant another seven-hour commitment by CBS. However, write to: CBS Audience Services, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, N.Y. They may be able to tell you if it has been sold into syndication.

ABC's fall slate ranges from 'Beetlejuice' to Nixon

By Steve McGraw

ABC is calling attention to one of its new Saturday morning kids' shows for next fall, a cartoon version of Beetlejuice. Here's hoping it offers the same wit and originality that was evident in the hit movie.

ABC also has some interesting telefilms in various stages of development (no airdates as yet). Look for Northwest Passage, a murder mystery about the grisly killing of a small-town high school homecoming queen. Stars will include Kyle MacLachlan, Michael Ontkean, Joan Chen and Piper Laurie. Another project in the works for next season is The Final Days, based on the riveting sequel to All The President's Men, by Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein. Starring in the bizarre saga of Nixon's downfall will be Lane Smith, as the President, David Ogden Stiers, as Al Haig, Ed Flanders, as Leonard Garment, Alan Fudge, as Gerald Ford, and Susan Brown, as Pat Nixon. Finally, Lloyd Bridges, Michael Woods, Kathryn Harrold, Tippi Hedren and Helen Slater will all appear in Capitol News, a drama about the internal dynamics of a major newspaper in Washington, D.C. Add all of the above to the previously announced Preppies Murder Case and the sum is an impressive slate of upcoming projects. Bravo, ABC!

Interesting casting: Daryl Hannah will star opposite John Malkovich in the romantic comedy Crazy People. Writer Mitch Markowitz will direct.

Basketball playoff games highlight week on CBS

By Jeff Thompson

The highlight of the week on CBS are the NBA playoff games, which air Sunday, Monday and Saturday afternoon, Thursday and Friday during primetime, and Tuesday late night.

The best-of-seven match leads up to the four final games, which are tentatively set to begin June 6, and air June 8, 11 and 13, also on CBS.

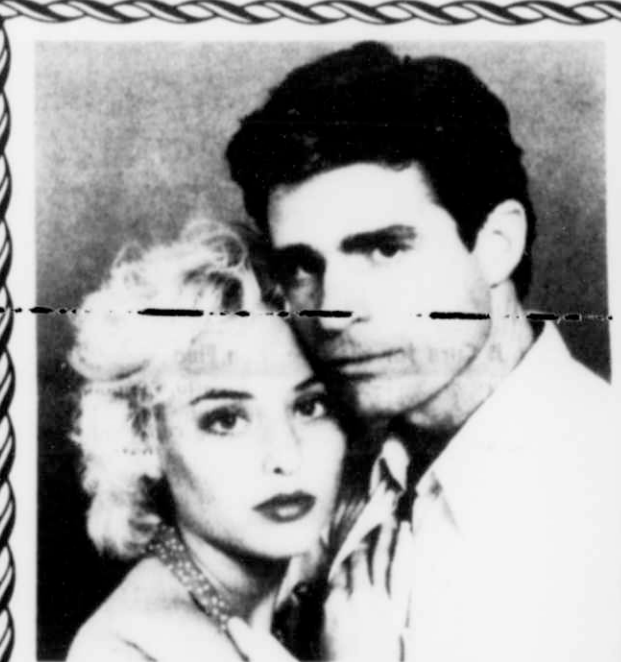

Golf is also big on that network this week as the final round from the BellSouth Atlanta Golf Classic airs live from Marietta, Ga. on Sunday.

NBC features its Baseball Game of the Week on Saturday with split national matchups between the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals, or the San Francisco Giants and the Atlanta Braves, depending on viewing area.

Live coverage of the French Open airs Monday through Friday on ESPN. The total sports network will also present live coverage of the NCAA College Baseball World Series Friday and Saturday.

ABC is buzzing with revved motors as the Indianapolis 500 and the International Race of Champions get underway Sunday. On Saturday, ABC presents coverage of the Symphony of Sports, a wide World of Sports special featuring gymnastics and figure skating.

Virginia Madsen and Treat Williams play a bored housewife and the private eye sent to trail her in Third Degree Burn, debuting Sunday, May 28, on HBO.

Two brothers discover relationship

By Stoney Black

With the Disney Channel premiere of Looking For Miracles on June 3, a young Canadian actor, Greg Spottiswood, makes his feature film debut.

Spottiswood plays Ryan Delaney, an industrious 16-year-old who suddenly finds himself in charge of his estranged, younger brother. It is the Great Depression and Ryan is in desperate need of a summer job to augment a scholarship he received from a local university.

Looking For Miracles is created by Kevin Sullivan, the writer, producer and director of the successful Anne of Green Gables miniseries.

Based on A.E. Hotchner's memories of his adolescence during the Great Depression, Looking For Miracles depicts the growing bond between two brothers who don't know each other," said Sullivan of his film.

Though Looking For Miracles marks his screen debut, Spottiswood has a long history on the stage, beginning with his early years in high school. "I was on the basketball team in grade nine, what they called the midjet team, and they had auditions for The Madwoman of Chailiot and I got the part of the doorman," he said. "So, I quit the basketball team and played the doorman and really never looked back."

Series delves into 'The Wonder Years'

Fred Savage brings unique role to life

By Mary Ann Townsend

Fred Savage, 12-year-old actor, has managed to pull off one of the most refreshing characters in current primetime TV—that of Kevin Arnold, a pre-teen growing up in 1960s suburbia.

What makes his role in ABC's The Wonder Years so unique is that Savage has very little dialogue, his thoughts instead being conveyed through a narrator who is supposed to be his character grown up and reminiscing about his youth.

Savage, therefore, must rely heavily on facial expressions to round out the character. He said he sometimes makes faces at himself in the bathroom mirror after reading the script.

"I look at the scripts and when there was a bit of narration, I do, sometimes, try to figure out what my reactions would be to it," he said. "When he does the narration, it's like me talking. So, it's just—I'm talking, but I'm not moving my lips. But I'm still having the same face reactions."

Daniel Stern, who provides the grown-up voice of Kevin Arnold, said the young actor has another trait that makes him good at the part.

"Fred's a really good listener," Stern said. "They have a gentleman who reads the narration when I'm not there, and Fred's actually, I think, a great listener, which is the key to being a good actor."

Charles Kuralt keeps traveling 'On the Road'

Segments give slice of American life

By Anne Wheeler

Charles Kuralt slows the hectic, fast pace of the news world with his feature segments "On the Road."

The segments, which originated in 1967, were originally conceived as a series of "postcards" to Walter Cronkite to be shown on the evening news. Now, Kuralt said, it's more "to get me out of the office."

"In 'On the Road,' Kuralt 'avoids the relevant and the significant' to find ordinary people in out of the way places practicing odd trades. He and his crew travel around the country—they have gone to every part of every state except Hawaii and Alaska—in a fully equipped motorhome to talk to common people about their everyday, but unique, lives. In fact, Kuralt is real laid back about 'hard' news stories he may run across in his travels. 'If I come upon a real news story out there on the road, I call for a real reporter to come cover it,' he said.

The newsman had been a real reporter for CBS in Rio de Janeiro, Los Angeles, Vietnam, the North Pole and other distant locales for 10 years before beginning his "On the Road" segments. He now sheds the typical reporter image to make people feel at ease with him. "On the Road" has appeared continuously in various formats on CBS for the past 22 years. It can currently be seen on CBS Sunday Morning, which Kuralt also anchors.

Light Comedy
 When Grant Shaud flew to L.A. to audition for the role of Miles Silverberg in Murphy Brown, he traveled light, really light. "Grant had no expectations of getting the role," revealed co-executive producer Joel Shukowsky. "He read for us, we liked him, and he was working the next week. That's when he told us, 'I didn't bring any luggage, but I'll get my roommate to send out some underwear.'"

Popular Perks
 Star perks are many and varied, but the following isn't one of them—yet. Lisa Patrick, who made her television debut this season in Live In, says that when she first got the script to read for the part of Lisa Wells, she thought the producers had inserted her name in as a courtesy. "I didn't realize until I got here that the character's name actually was Lisa."

'Good' Connections
 Supervising producer David Burke was asked if he ever runs into any of the "connected" guys like the ones who sometimes mingle with undercover agent Vinnie Terranova on Wiseguy. "Yes," he said, "and they're all pitching me stories."

Casting Call
 Ana-Alicia, who recently returned to Falcon Crest, spent her time away from the show filming Romero, about the life of assassinated Archbishop Romero of El Salvador. She starred with Raul Julia in the film.

Fred Savage stars as typical 12-year-old Kevin Arnold on The Wonder Years, Tuesdays on ABC.

whether his hair is right and stuff like that."

One difference, however, is technology, he said. "If I were to go inside and play video games, he would go outside and play football on the street or something," he said, comparing the two 12-year-olds.

After doing numerous commercials and voice-overs, the young actor made his feature film debut in the summer of 1985 at age 8 in The Boy Who Could Fly. He made his television debut on the CBS series, Morningstar/Eveningstar, which brought him to work, but not to live, in L.A.

Savage received wide critical acclaim for his performance as the bed-ridden grandson in The Princess Bride, directed by Rob Reiner. His latest big screen venture, Vice Versa with Judge Reinhold, was a big success last summer. He said he's going to keep acting while he is still having fun at it.

"I'm having a lot of fun. That's why I act," the actor said. "The minute it stops becoming fun or being fun, then it's time to stop."

Although obviously written by adults, Savage said the scripts still apply to the 12-year-olds of today.

"What I'm going through and what the boy in the '60s is going through is the same thing, to be totally honest," Savage said. "He's worried about girls and school and

Sacred Heart To Spend Million On Cancer Services

Responding to this region's growing need for comprehensive cancer services, Sacred Heart Hospital announced last Thursday that the Sacred Heart Foundation made a one million dollar commitment to the hospital's Comprehensive Cancer Center for the purchase of a linear accelerator. The linear accelerator is the state-of-the-art treatment form to deliver radiation therapy to cancer patients.

"The purchase of the linear accelerator is the cornerstone of a planned expansion of Sacred Heart's cancer services. The addition of the linear accelerator is imperative for Sacred Heart Hospital to continue to fulfill its mission of providing effective and efficient cancer services for the patients of this area," explained Young C. Bae, M.D., radiation oncologist and director of the hospital's radiation therapy department.

The linear accelerator, used for the treatment of all types of cancer, allows the radiation oncologist and therapist to administer radiation therapy in varying degrees of energy that are determined by specific clinical conditions and the type of cancer. "This type of treatment limits and reduces side effects and permits us to deliver radiation more effectively with less damage to surrounding tissue," explained Dr. Bae. "One of the most advantageous aspects of the linear accelerator is its high cancer cell kill rate."

The linear accelerator is a major enhancement to the hospital's Comprehensive Cancer Center which combines many disciplines to deliver cancer services including diagnosis, treatment, prevention and support groups. The equipment acquisition is just one phase of the complete expansion project that also includes enlargement of the center's facilities and the purchase of a simulator and computer.

"The expansion and enhancement plan for our cancer services, that received the pital. "We are always striving to provide optimal care for out patients and their families. This expansion will not only add tremendous medical technology, but will also enhance the overall care and convenience provided to the patient."

Construction for the center's expansion will include more examination rooms and larger waiting areas to accommodate the increasing volume of patients. The entire project is estimated at $2.5 million dollars and is scheduled for completion with 12-18 months.

Local Frostburg State Students Awarded Honors

Eighteen local students including three from Oakland, were named as recipients of departmental honors at the annual Honors Convocation at Frostburg State University. Each year the University accords honors to a graduating senior from each department for superior academic achievement.

Chairs of the various academic departments presented the honors, while Dr. Daniel C. Pantaleo, vice president for academic affairs, presided over the ceremony. Dr. Maureen P. Connelly, associate professor of sociology and director of the honors program, presented the event's keynote address.

Local students receiving the honors were: Barbara Elliott Hogan, foreign languages and literature (French); Robert Liller, computer science, and Deborah Wynn, psychology.

Hogan graduated with a double major in elementary education and foreign languages and literature with a concentration in French. With an overall GPA of 3.78 and GPA of 3.93 in French, she is a member of the French Club and Pi Delta Phi, a national French honorary. She will serve as an interpreter for the upcoming Canoe/Kayak World Championships and its festivities. She has studied in Quebec and has tutored in both French and Russian. During the spring semester, she served as a substitute teacher in the Garrett County School System. Her future plans include establishing a career in teaching.

Liller, who earned an overall GPA of 3.84 and GPA of 4.0 in computer science, transferred to FSU from Garrett Community College. In addition to his studies at FSU, he worked part-time at Bausch and Lomb in Oakland developing graphics software packages. Liller intends to pursue graduate studies at West Virginia University to become an applications programmer.

Wynn, who transferred to FSU from Garrett Community College, achieved a perfect 4.0 GPA in psychology as well as overall. A December graduate of FSU, she now works as a rehabilitation counselor with the Garrett County Mental Health Organization. Hoping to pursue a career as a practicing psychotherapist, she plans to attend graduate school.

Vietnam Veterans Memorial To Be Dedicated Sunday

Veterans Memorial will be dedicated to all Marylanders who served in the war Sunday, May 28, Middle Branch Park. Dedication day activities commencing with a Memorial March at 1 p.m., will be open to the public. Spencer Schlosnagle, mayor of Friendsville, will be the grand marshal of the parade. Friendsville sustained one of the highest casualty rates in the Vietnam War per capita of all towns in the nation.

The Dedication service will follow the March at 4 p.m., after which the Memorial will open for public visitation for the first time. Governor William Donald Schaefer, former Governor Harry Hughes and Baltimore's Mayor, Kurt Schmoke will take part in the Dedication Services. The Honorable Fred L. Wine-land will Emcee the Services. He is the Chairman of the Maryland Vietnam Veterans Memorial Commission and will present the Memorial to the citizens of Maryland and Vietnam Veterans. Captain Thomas E. Bratten Jr. (Ret.), who was seriously wounded in Vietnam will accept the Memorial on behalf of the citizens of Maryland and the Vietnam Veterans.

At 7:45 p.m., a Memorial Service will be held for the 1046 Marylanders who lost their lives. More than 3500 next of kin are expected to attend. Families will participate in the Memorial service during the roll call of the 1046 names inscribed in the granite by placing a rose next to their family member's name.

The Memorial is located in Baltimore's Middle Branch Park, between the Harbor Hospital Center (South Baltimore General) and the Hanover Street Bridge. The street address is 2825 South Hanover Street at Waterview Avenue. South Hanover Street is also designated Maryland Route 2 which can be reached by using the Baltimore Beltway (I-695), Exit 3 North or Interstate 95, Exit 54 South. The site is also accessible by MTA bus and boat.

Sitting on a hill overlooking the Patapsco River on a 3½ acre site, the Memorial is a waist high granite wall, on which is inscribed 1046 names of those who lost their lives, 38 of whom are still missing. Towering over the Memorial, will be two flag poles from which the Maryland flag will be flown.

Under construction since October 19, 1988, the Memorial was designed by Paul Sprei-regen, Architectural Consultant. The Memorial ring is made up of 64 triangular granite name stones. Each stone is inscribed with 16 names. Names of the 38 Missing in Action are designated by a triangle. Should those missing be recovered alive, the triangle will be made into a square. The triangle will become a circle if the missing are recovered dead.

Open 365 days a year, 24 hours a day, the Memorial cost 2.5 million to build. Construction funding came from the State. Funds were also raised from individual and corporate sources.

Comp. Goldstein Cautions Bankers On Deregulation

"Federal government deposit insurance should not be read as government subsidized risk," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told members of the Maryland Bankers Association at their convention in Toronto, Canada, May 22. "It's a real paradox; when you have deregulation, you have to have better regulators."

Noting that withdrawals from savings and loan institutions in the first three months of 1989 totaled $28.5 billion nationwide, Goldstein said, "That offers an opportunity for all of you. But as you compete for those funds, I urge you not to forget some of the lessons that the savings and loan crisis should teach us that deregulation doesn't turn lead into gold and that federal bail-out coffers aren't bottomless."

The comptroller noted that, despite all of the innovations and product development seen in recent years in the banking industry, "what a bank really has to offer to win customers is service...not just in the executive suite, but in each and every branch office in Maryland."

Goldstein told the bankers that Maryland customers are a prize worth pursuing. "The Maryland customer has the fifth largest per capita income in America, and they live in the fifth largest retail market. Residents of the Baltimore-Washington common market area have an effective buying income of $98.4 billion."

"Your customer is a prize worth having. He or she deserves to be treated with respect. Your customer deserves personal service. The buck doesn't stop with an automatic teller or a central computer. It stops with an individual — whether that is an individual at a drive-in window or an individual sitting behind the branch manager's desk."

In Celebration Of 75 Years;

4-H Clubs — Extension's Best Creation

by Bernice Kepple
The Cooperative Extension Service and 4-H Clubs offer youth and young adults the same learning experiences and fun activities today that was offered in the early years of Extension. On this, the 75th anniversary of The Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H plays an expanded role, with club membership in urban areas as well as rural areas. The photos on this page are a celebration of Garrett County 4-H Club work throughout the years. If possible, individuals have been identified. Many of the young women in the pictures are identified by their maiden names, so we leave it up to you to guess who they are today. Look for yourself. Look for your parents. Enjoy the photos. (But don't laugh too hard, kids. Remember, you'll have kids of your own some day, and what do you think they'll think of your old 4-H photos?)

North Glade 4-H Club Leader Debbie Friend advises Luther Dale Lohr on the care of his pig sometime in the late 1970s or early 80s.

This "handsome" group of 4-H'ers are enjoying an Older Youth Weekend Camp in 1965.

In 1939, this very active 4-H member, May DiGustino, of Kitzmiller, was the winner of the State Style Revue, held during the Annual 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland.

Glotfelty. The boy in the center is unidentified.

It has been said that 4-H Clubs were the best thing to come out of the creation of the Cooperative Extension Service 75 years ago. I think all of us who remember our years in 4-H, and those of us who have children or grandchildren in 4-H will certainly agree.

Promotions And Media Relations Team Busy Preparing For World's

Nancy Nemith

Carl Lash

When the 1989 Whitewater Canoe/Kayak World Championships come to the Savage River in June, the WCI Promotions and Media Relations team will be ready to inform and guide.

"Our preparations are completed. There's no more planning to be done. This is it. We're ready," said Nancy Nemith, vice president of promotion and media relations.

Nemith and Carl Lash, associate vice president of promotion and media relations, plus 30 volunteers are planning to set up a media center/photographers' center on the site and have available daily press releases on activities and events. Press conferences with opportunities for interviews will also be available and will often require a certain kind of volunteer — the interpreter.

Nemith and Lash say they are well aware of the impact that this event will have on Western Maryland. Economically, the 1988 and 1989 Whitewater races are estimated to generate between 12 and 15 million dollars. For two weeks, people from all over the world will be coming to Garrett and Allegany counties, and the promotions and media team want to help get businesses and organizations ready.

Inc. has planned and will conduct over 25 events such as fairs, festivals, concerts, art shows and other events for the June 11-25 period.

Lash emphasized that this is a World Championships. "Many of these athletes are competing for seed positions in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona (Spain)." He states that whitewater will become an event for the first time in Barcelona.

WCI expects thousands of athletes, volunteers, and spectators to visit the area while attending the Championships. They are inviting government, businesses, and civic organizations to participate.

Mrs. Nemith is the manager-external affairs of Allegany/ Garrett counties for the C&P Telephone Company of Maryland. She has served on the board of directors of the Cumberland Rotary and Garrett County American Cancer Society. She is a member of the Allegany County Chamber of Commerce, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and the County United Way Allocation Committee.

Lash is the executive director of the Sacred Heart Foundation. He has served as CEO of two psychiatric centers for emotionally disturbed youth and as an administrator of the fund for the Challenger astronauts families and trusts.

Lash and Nemith are planning reports on the tremendous support of each other and the committee, but feel that their employers, C&P Telephone and Sacred Heart, deserve recognition for their support as well.

Both businesses have assisted Nemith and Lash to help get the Whitewater Championships in order.

Lash, who moved to Cumberland in 1985, feels that the best kept secret in America, Western Maryland, is about to be found out. "And that's not humility; it's a fact," he said. The Savage River and Western Maryland is the envy of American and European race sites, he claims. "People who were here for the 1988 event can't wait to get back. They say they've never been treated more cordially and been made to feel more welcome than they have been in Western Maryland." And the river, with 1500 gallons per second spilling over its bed, is enviable to whitewater standards.

As beautiful as the country is in Western Maryland, Nemith and Lash both feel that it is the people of Western Maryland that are its real attribute. And in June, the people of Allegany and Garrett Counties will get an opportunity to show the World its secrets.

Senior Writers To Be Honored By Gov. Schaefer

Governor William Donald Schaefer will formally recognize the 24 grand winners of the Second Annual Statewide "Maryland You are Beautiful" Senior Citizen Creative Writing Contest at a public awards ceremony on Thursday, June 1, at 1 p.m. at St. John's College Auditorium in Annapolis. The awards ceremony is free and the public is encouraged to attend. The ceremony will include special appearances by Ms. Senior Maryland 1989, Marguerite Zietak of Garrett County, and Ms. Senior Maryland 1985, Zelma Pritchett of Prince George's County.

Garrett County's winner in the contest was Betty Y. Naylor, Oakland.

"These written recollections are an exciting and heart-warming history we will treasure for future generations," Governor Schaefer said. "These gifted writers have created a new volume on Maryland's heritage and I praise the contest sponsors for giving Older Marylanders the opportunity to express their state pride."

The creative writing contest is sponsored annually by the "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program, the Maryland Office on Aging, and county and city elected officials. The Area Agency on Aging in each county promoted and coordinated the contest locally. Area judges reviewed the local entries and selected one outstanding winner to represent each subdivision at the statewide awards ceremony. All entrants were honored locally by their elected officials. In addition to the statewide awards ceremony, the grand winners are also invited to a private luncheon with Governor Schaefer, their chief elected officials, the Area Agency on Aging directors and the county appointed coordinators.

Floraine Applefeld, Governor Schaefer's director of Special Promotions and director of the "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program, echoed the Governor's enthusiasm. "This contest received unparalleled support from our senior citizens. We will continue to make this contest a cornerstone for senior pride in Maryland."

Special Services Committee Ready For '89 Worlds

Sgt. Bill Graham

First Sergeant Bill Graham and his Special Services Committee, a volunteer arm of Whitewater Championships, Inc., take pride in the low-incident record they have established during the two previous preliminary canoe and kayak racing competitions held in 1987 and 1988 on the Savage River. With the showcase event of whitewater racing — the 1989 Canoe and Kayak World Championships — just a few short weeks away, Sgt. Graham, the vice president of the committee, says he is confident that the same first-class police and emergency medical services will once again be provided by the volunteers of his committee.

Sgt. Graham, who had dedicated more than 22 years of his life to law enforcement, explained the first two lesser-scale racing events helped to establish and build an effective, working program in relation to police-related traffic and security matters and emergency medical services. "We have fine-tuned the details to make this year a success too. We're not expecting anything unusual to happen; but if it does, we are prepared to handle it," stated Graham. He described crowds attending the past events at Savage River as family oriented and well-be-

Just what are the responsibilities of the more than 30 Special Services Committee members? According to Steve Hamilton, associate vice president of the committee, traffic control, crowd control, on-site security for participants, spectators and area residents, road access control and emergency medical services on site are the main areas of concern for the group.

"Our committee (special services) is in charge of coordinating the various law enforcement agencies to be sure the proper service is provided for the well-being of those attending or participating in the event," Graham outlined. Participating law enforcement groups include the Cumberland Police Department, the Allegany County Sheriff's Department, Frostburg City Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Luke City Police, Westernport City Police, the Maryland Department of Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service Police of the Department of Natural Resources, the Natural Resources Police, the Security Department of Westvaco and the FBI.

Security will be provided at the race site around the clock, Graham said, adding that a mobile command post will be set up at the river to coordinate all involved police units. The DNR Forest, Parks and Wildlife Police, with assistance from the State Police, will police the actual race site itself since it lies within Savage River State Park. Other law enforcement agencies will provide services in additional areas, primarily controlling traffic, noted Graham.

"We will have enough emergency medical personnel on site during the races to handle most of the usual problems that may arise," Graham said of the EMS services. Certified EMT's and ambulances will be on site each day, along with a physician to provide a high level of emergency medical care. In addition, the American Red Cross will be on-hand to offer general first-aid for minor injuries. According to Graham, most of the area ambulance squads are expected to lend a helping hand during the race weeks.

Both Graham and Hamilton, who have been working with the World Championships from the start several years ago, became involved because of their expertise in their respective fields. Graham, who is detachment commander for the Garrett County Maryland State Police, is also a long-time resident of the local area. Before joining the Garrett County barracks of the Maryland State Police, he worked in the Prince Georges County and Allegany County barracks. He also worked for the FBI in Washington, D.C. for four years.

Hamilton, who Graham

SCENES OF THE JAZZ AGE will come to life at the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Gala Benefit to be held at the McHenry House of the Wisp Resort on Saturday, June 10, at 6:30 p.m. With a theme "And All That Jazz," the evening will include social hour, dinner, live jazz combo, and art auction. Pictured above, appearing as characters from an F. Scott Fitzgerald novel, are members of the planning committee and two of the musicians who will entertain. From left to right are: George McDowell, Gail Getty, Fern Belmonte, Ann Englander, Diane Thayer, and Charles Morris. Musicians not present for the photo were Susan Williams, piano, and Jim Davis, drums. For ticket information, persons should call 334-2515.

credits as being the driving force behind the Special Services Committee, also chairs the group's law enforcement subcommittee. For the past 15 years, Hamilton has served as assistant forest manager at Savage River State Forest. In his off-duty hours, he is a paramedic with the Northern Rescue Squad. Born and reared in southern Michigan, he moved to Maryland after he graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in forestry. He now resides in Keyser's Ridge with his wife and three children.

Graham praised his committee for their "tireless dedication and commitment."

"Our committee is made up of professionals in the fields of police work and emergency medical service. They have all been committed to making this a safe event. My job has been made easier because of their dedication to the task at hand. We intend to make this a safe and orderly event," assured Graham.

Health Planning Group Acts On Swing Bed Issue

The Governing Body of the Western Maryland Health Planning Agency met recently at the Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown. Lawrence Beck, first vice-chair, presided.

The Governing Body discussed and approved the proposed "Exemption from Certificate of Need (CON) Review for Swing Bed Program." The proposed amendments to the Certificate of Need regulations would permit a small hospital located in any of these rural Maryland counties to establish a "swing bed program" without a Certificate of Need.

A "swing bed program" allows a hospital to provide either acute care or skilled nursing care under conditions spelled out in an agreement between itself and the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services. At this time, three Maryland hospitals qualify to enter into an agreement because they have fewer than 100 beds and are located in rural areas. The public comment period on these amendments ended on May 18.

In other business, the agency approved reappointments to the Governing Body, to be submitted to the respective Boards of County Commissioners. Norma Bolding is the designate for Garrett County.

York Kiltie Band Will Perform At Highland Festival

The Kiltie Band of York, Pa., will perform bagpipe concerts during the second annual McHenry Highland Festival Saturday, June 3, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry.

Forming a band was first considered by Col. Richard F. Yost, a military police sergeant with the American 3rd Army in Genoa, Italy, in 1918, who first heard the skirl of pipes when a band was on its way to entertain troops in a convalescent hospital. When the White Rose Post of the VFW, of which Col. Yost was a member, lost its drum corps, he proposed forming a bagpipe band. The band marched in its first parade on Armistice Day, November 11, 1928, then in a parade in Wilmington, Del., a man named Jack Craig fell in step with the band; he became their instructor. In the fall of 1930, Col. Yost led the band at the National Convention of the VFW parade in Baltimore, and in 1936 the band was adopted as the official band of St. Andrew's Society of Baltimore. The band plays annually at the Society's Annual Dinner, the Tartan Ball, the Family Picnic and other functions. Their association with the St. Andrew's Society is unique, because it began with a handshake in the 1930's and has continued ever since, being renewed annually in the same manner. The band has also been named the official band of the City of York, Pa., the St. Andrew's Society of the Eastern Shore, the St. Andrew's Society of Harford County, and the Susquehanna Scots.

The Kiltie Band of York has played at the Chicago, New York and San Francisco World's Fairs and in 1938 won the Band Championship in Gettysburg, Pa., at the 75th Blue and Grey Reunion. They have played in most major cities in the U.S., and recent participation includes the 1974 Canadian Exposition in Toronto, Ontario; the Grandfather Mountain Highland Games in 1967; annual appearances at the July 4th parade in Towson, and many more. Their most noteworthy and memorable appearances were at the White House in 1938 and 1978.

Col. Yost was president of the band until his death in 1946. The band is presently under the direction of Pipe Major Donald T. Crawford, only the fifth pipe major in the band's history. For information on the Highland Festival, a free brochure, or advance tickets, may be obtained by contacting the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Turney Finds Three Guilty Of Bad Check Charges

Three persons were found guilty of uttering bad checks by Judge Jack Turney during recent trials at Garrett County District Court.

Christopher L. Shade, 24, Garrett County Jail, was found guilty of four counts of uttering bad checks. Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Four counts of theft were not prosecuted per plea agreement. Charges were filed against Shade by several area business owners, after Shade apparently uttered checks for amounts of less than $300 to businesses between December 30, 1988 and April 4.

Phyllis Donaldson Glatfely, Oakland, was found guilty of three charges of uttering bad checks. Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Three charges of theft were not prosecuted per plea agreement. The charges were filed by area business owners after Glatfely wrote checks to businesses for amounts less than $300 between January 4 and 28, 1989.

Robert J. Simmons, Mt. Lake Park, was found guilty of uttering a bad check. He was fined $25 and sentenced to 90 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and placed Simmons on 12 months probation. Four charges of theft and three charges of uttering bad checks were not prosecuted. ## TRUST AWARENESS MONTH

Are you sure you know how your assets will be distributed upon your death?

There are many stories of people I know who felt they had made specific provisions for their loved ones upon their death. But, when they died, their assets were not distributed as they had wished. Or, they created a great tax burden for their family members.

First United's Trust Department may assist you in your estate planning. We may even help you develop your personal objectives and goals for your estate. Then, based on our experience in estate planning, we will work with you to set up an estate plan that will meet your needs. We will pay particular attention to potential tax problems, probate problems, and asset management problems which may exist. We would of course be happy to work with your attorney, your accountant, and/or your insurance advisor to make sure all these issues are considered.

We'll be sure to double-check the ownership of your property, to avoid misunderstanding and problems at a later date. This is a common problem with many estates.

First United's estate planning service may offer you many other benefits, too! To find out more about estate planning, please contact me at 334-9471. I will be happy to meet with you at your home, to discuss your personal financial needs.

Creative Writing Winner Honored At Flowery Vale

An Oakland resident was honored recently at Garrett County's Creative Writing Awards Dinner, Flowery Vale Senior Citizens' Center, Accident. Betty Naylor was selected Garrett County's winner in the State's "Maryland You Are Beautiful" creative writing contest for senior citizens.

Mrs. Naylor accepted the honor at a special dinner hosted by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging. The dinner was attended by about 50 persons from Garrett County, including Commissioners Elwood Groves and John Braskey. Mrs. Naylor was accompanied by her husband, Arthur.

Also in attendance was William Cooper, Community Service Program Manager, representing the Maryland Office on Aging. Robert Lyons, president of Community Action Committee Governing Board, gave the invocation.

The award, consisting of a bronze plaque complete with scroll and quill, was awarded by the Garrett County commissioners and presented to Mrs. Naylor by Commissioner Groves and Adina Brode, director of the Area Agency on Aging.

Prior to the presentation of certificates to all entrants, Ms. Brode noted that each entrant was "a winner" and had submitted "wonderful" essays. She said the judges had a difficult task in selecting just one entry.

SENIOR WRITERS HONORED — A number of local senior citizens who participated in the Maryland Senior Citizen Creative Writing Contest were recently honored at a special program at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident. Betty Y. Naylor, a resident of Oakland, was declared Garrett County's winner in the contest and will be honored by Governor William Donald Schaefer at a ceremony in Annapolis early next month. Pictured left to right above are Stella Edwards, Hilda Sturtz, Margaret Chaney, Cora Bowser, Edith Browning, Lula Brown, Maxine Ross, Eleanor Deal, Betty Naylor, Nellie Wilburn, Thelma Bittinger, and Edgar Letz. Mrs. Deal, Mrs. Bowser, and Mrs. Browning were all runners-up in the contest.

In her essay, Mrs. Naylor, a native of Baltimore, recounts her childhood days in that city and recaps how she became captured by Western Maryland's scenic beauty and genteel people when she married and reared her children in Oakland. The essay continues to depict many of the reasons why Maryland is important to her, which was the theme of some 25 entries written by seniors throughout the county.

Second-place winner, also recognized at the dinner, was Eleanor W. Deal, McHenry. She received a certificate as did Cora Bowser and Edith Browning, who tied for third place. Other entrants and recipients of certificates include Thelma Bittinger,

Margaret Chaney, Ruth Pyle, Stella Edwards, Edgar Lotz, Gladys Betley, Virginia Kelso, Ralph Kelso, Lula Brown, Nellie Wilburn, Charles Ross, Maxine Ross, Betty Vitez, Roberta Millard, Lena Broadwater, Rita Zietak, Dora Harvey, Genevieve Bittinger, Hilda Sturtz, Beulah Mickle, Alice Howard, and Dora Sweeney.

Mrs. Naylor will travel to Annapolis on June 1 for special recognition by Governor William Donald Schaefer. Other entrants who will travel to the Governor's reception include

THE COMEDY "CUZZINS" (Cousins) will be presented at Zion School, Grantsville, on May 26 and 27. The show begins at 7:30 each evening in the Zion School auditorium. The farce takes place in the hills of Kentucky among a less-than-knowledgeable family of ridge runners. The hilarity starts when their city cousins come to visit. The play is a series of misunderstandings and culture shock as the two companies try to appreciate one another. The cast includes Kimberly Cuchey as "Petunia," Tammy Woodward as "Flora," Michael Will as "The Sheriff," Conrad Maust as "Pa," and George McDowell Jr. as "Clem." Stacy Downton, Elaine and Tom McDowell, as "The Chills," George McDowell Sr. designed the set and Linda Stanton is costume. The propmaster is Mary Downton and Conrad Maust is serving as stage manager. The play was written by George McDowell Jr. The public is invited to attend. Zion School is located off New Germany Road east of Grantsville.

Scottish Country Dance Society To Perform At McHenry Highland Event

The Pittsburgh Scottish Country Dance Society will perform at the second annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 3, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

The Society originated in the early 1940's as a small group of friends getting together to dance in each other's homes; today the group is affiliated with the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society, which was founded in 1923 to collect and revive the old authentic Scottish country dances. There are hundreds of branches of the Society throughout the world, including many in Holland, Japan and Sweden.

The actual steps of Scottish country dancing have their origin in the French ballet, while the manners came from the French court. This type of dancing originally belonged to the Court. Scottish country dancing is not folk or peasant dancing, but actually the ballroom dancing of Scotland.

Members of the Pittsburgh group have participated in the Pittsburgh Folk Festival for many years, the Ligonier Highland Games and performed in the Pittsburgh Opera's production of "Lucia Di Lammermoor" which was based on the novel "The Bride of Lammermoor" by Sir Walter Scott. In addition, they have also performed for the Greensburg Historical Society's Rite and the Oliver Miller Homestead Christmas celebration in 18th century costume, as well as for Scottish Reformation Sunday at Southminster Presbyterian Church, the President's Anniversary Ball at Carnegie Mellon University, and the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie held at the Carnegie Museum in Oakland, Pa.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over. The Society will also participate in the ceilidh on Saturday evening at 8 p.m. at the McHenry House at the Wisp, sponsored by Ski Wisp (admission, $3.00). This festival also includes a Kirkin' o' the Tartans at St. John's Episcopal Church, Route 135, Deer Park, at 10:30 a.m., Sunday, June 4.

This festival is sponsored in part by the Royal Oaks Inn and the Villages of Wisp at Deep Creek Lake, and is funded in part by a grant from the State of Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development. For more information, a free brochure, or advance tickets, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Heck's Sponsoring Effort To End Drunk Driving

In an effort to support a chemical-free graduation, Heck's Discount Stores are offering free video rentals to all graduating seniors on graduation night.

The Heck's store in Oakland is participating in the free video rental promotion for Garrett County and Preston County high school students. In addition to receiving a free movie rental, graduating seniors will receive a free two-liter bottle of Pepsi or Coke and a free bag of microwave popcorn.

"We believe that graduation should be a time of celebration not a time of mourning because of a drunk driving accident," said Donald R. Bain, vice president of operation. "We feel this is one of the most important promotions we will do all year."

Many high school graduations are marred because of a drunk driving accident on graduation night, and we hope, through this promotion, we can help prevent any of the seniors in our area from becoming a statistic.

Graduating seniors attending Garrett or Preston county high schools may pick up a coupon for their free video rental at their high school.

Garrett County History Book To Be Re-Published

The very popular history of Garrett County, Maryland, will be re-published by the Garrett County Historical Society. First published in 1978 by the Society, it has enjoyed much success as a general history of the county. The re-published book will be very similar to the original one, containing 400 pages in a "hard back" binding.

The original book had 75 photographs of locations, people, and activities in the county. They will be reproduced in the new book.

Many readers of the first book suggested that a map of Garrett County should be included in the history book for quick reference to towns and communities mentioned in the text. Following on this suggestion, the new addition will have a map of Garrett County included in its binding.

At the present time the Historical Society is conducting a "pre-publication" sale of the book. Cost is $15.00 plus $2.00 for postage and handling. If a copy is desired at this pre-publication price, persons should contact Mrs. Randall R. Kahl, Rt. 4 Box 89, Deer Park, Md. 21550.

Local Student To Attend Space Camp In Orlando

David Jones, a seventh grade student of Southern Middle School, will be attending the U.S. Space Camp in Orlando, Fla., from May 24-29. He is the son of Thomas and Alana Jones, Oakland.

The U.S. Space Camp, under the direct support of the NASA-Kennedy Space Center, is a program that allows students and teachers alike an opportunity to approach the aerospace field methodically and correctly. This program is jointly sponsored by the Mercury Seven Foundation which was established by the original American astronauts and the U.S. Space Camp Foundation.

Students are given the opportunity to explore all fields, from the design of rockets and spacecraft to how astronauts conduct microgravity experiments beyond Earth's atmosphere. Students learn firsthand what it's like to be on a shuttle crew. They size up a full-scale orbiter, climb aboard a simulator, and suit up for flight. They learn firsthand about careers in the space program of the 21st Century.

Students travel to the Kennedy Space Center, Spaceport USAs Rocket Garden and assemble their own rocket models. Students participate in a variety of astronaut training activities from packaged food and waste management systems of life-support systems for living in space.

Microgravity Day puts the student in the role of astronauts preparing for space walks and coping with the zero gravity of space. They practice in the microgravity trainer which simulates the sensations of walking on the Moon.

The week climaxes with Mission Day, focusing on each "teams" simulated flight at the training center. Based on the weekly training, the "teams" mission control and flight crews conduct a simulated mission from countdown to orbit and landing.

The U.S. Space Academy also offers a college accredited 10-day program which emphasizes the academic foundation for space-related careers for grades 10, 11, and 12.

A Teachers Program and Adult Program are also offered. These programs are designed for educators interested in remaining abreast of the space program and the resulting technology benefits. It offers innovative ideas which can be used in their classrooms.

Scholarships funded by corporations and individuals are matched by the Space and Rocket Center to make the programs in Alabama and Florida available to as many youngsters as possible. Schools can receive special group rates. Ben Thorn, guidance counselor at Southern Middle School, can provide further information and assistance in admission to the various programs offered. He can be reached for appointment by calling Southern Middle School at 334-8861.

Council Of The Alleghenies Notes 1989 Program

Jessie G. McCullough, president of the Council of the Alleghenies, Inc., revealed recently the events planned for the current year. The Council, founded nearly 30 years ago on Frostburg State University Campus, is dedicated to the history, culture and quality of life in the four-state area that includes the Allegheny Mountains. They lie across the western counties of Pennsylvania and Maryland, much of West Virginia, and that part of Virginia which borders the W.Va. Eastern Panhandle.

Each year, in addition to the Annual Meeting and publication of the Journal of the Alleghenies, the Council sponsors tours to areas of historic, geographic, cultural and educational interest. Seminars are devoted to similar concerns, as well as to the music, art and skills of forebears, still practiced by residents who have accomplished proficiency in them.

The first activity this year will be a round trip ride on the Allegheny Central Railroad. At noon this Saturday, May 27, 75 members and guests will pull out of Cumberland's restored Western Maryland Station bound for Frostburg. After time for lunch or visiting in Frostburg, they will return to Cumberland three hours later. Members are alerted to the fact that they must be at the Western Maryland Station no later than 11:30 a.m. in order to obtain tickets and see their departure at noon, sharp. Council members aboard will be available for questions and to inform generally concerning the former uses of the new line.

Council members will join the Elderhostel visitors on Frostburg State University Campus Tuesday, June 7, for a program devoted to the National Road. While historical in nature, it is intended to disclose details of the actual operation of the Road as it carried tens of thousands west to the promised lands of the Ohio and Mississippi. Elizabeth (Betty) Van Newkirk, an active Council member, currently is engaged in an intensive study and research of the famous highway. Her activity, an assignment in connection with the Bi-Centennial of Allegheny County, has revealed many fascinating anecdotes in connection with the wide variety of cargo and persons jolted over the long miles from Coast to Mid-America. The schedule for the afternoon, Mrs. McCullough announced, begins with a meeting of the Council Board of Directors at 2:30 p.m. The program will be presented at 4 p.m. to the Elderhostel and Council members. Following adjournment at approximately

5:30 p.m. they will participate in the buffet dinner provided by the University Caterers, all in Chesapeake Hall.

The only motor tour scheduled so far is set for Monday, July 24. Uniontown will be the highway destination, with two maintained turn-of-the-century dwellings near or in that city as the objectives. The town house reflects the wealth and taste of that community when coal, coke, timber, transportation and farming combined to create great fortunes. ... The second is a 100-acre estate still well cared for by the Sisters of St. Basil, an order of the Orthodox Catholic Church. Lunch will be served there, followed by a tour of the house, chapel and grounds. A hoped-for plus will be the company on the tour of a man who lived and worked there for the lay owners many years ago. Notices to members will be mailed in June, according to Jane Grindel, in charge of transportation and arrangements. Docents aboard the bus will inform as the tour travels over the former National Road/National Pike/U.S. Route 40 from Cumberland to Uniontown.

Unless an opportunity of unusual interest presents itself, the closing general membership activity for 1989 will be the Annual Meeting, scheduled for Saturday, September 30, according to President McCullough. Lunch will be served at noon in the meeting room of Silver Tree Inn on Deep Creek Lake. The program arrangements still are incomplete, she added.

Sullivan Attends Damages Seminar

Local attorney, Paul C. Sullivan, recently attended a two-day seminar sponsored by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America which was conducted in Baltimore May 12-13. The program was co-sponsored by the Maryland Trial Lawyers Association.

Sullivan is a sustaining member of the American Trial Lawyers Association and also holds membership in the Maryland Trial Lawyers Association. The continuing legal education program concentrated on the proof and argument of damages in personal injury cases. It explored the role of witnesses infrequently used by attorneys in injury cases, demonstrative evidence and the law of damages related to the effective presentation of the personal injury case.

Among the faculty were nationally recognized experts in personal injury litigation such as Russ Herman, the incoming president of ATLA, and Robert Habush, David Shrager and Peter Perlman, all former presidents of ATLA.

Sullivan is the managing partner of Sullivan & Sullivan P.A. which has offices in Cumberland and Swanton and which will be opening a new office in Westernport in November. Sullivan has limited his practice to cases involving accident victims in motor vehicle collisions and work related accidents, otherwise known as worker's compensation. ## Farm Bureau Criticizes CBS "60 Minutes"

The head of the nation's largest farm organization has criticized CBS' "60 Minutes" for rekindling consumer fears over the safety of American food products. The program of Sunday, May 14, "did a disservice to American consumers and farmers," said Dean Kleckner, American Farm Bureau Federation president. "Our food is safe," Kleckner maintained. The farm leader warned that the attack on Alar is an "opening shot. The anti-chemical critics are only beginning. We can't let up. We — the American Farm Bureau, American farmers, American agriculture — have to say over and over again that the food supply in this country is safe."

Joining Kleckner at a news conference at the Farm Bureau's headquarters in Park Ridge, Washington State apple grower Burt Chestnut explained that "farmers use chemicals judiciously. We have technical guides that detail application procedures. Besides, those chemicals are too expensive not to use them correctly."

Dr. Sorell Schwartz, toxicologist with Georgetown University, said, there is "virtually no risk" with the apples, currently in the nation's supply pipeline.

"Consumers have nothing to be concerned about," he said, adding that they shouldn't equate EPA's cancellation process "with a body count among children."

Another scientist, Dr. Lloyd Witter, University of Illinois microbiologist, also participated in the news conference. According to Witter, "Alar is a trifle less dangerous than drinking chlorinated water as far as carcinogens are concerned. This is a very unpotent carcinogen and the risk is quite small."

"We are putting undue emphasis on pesticide residues. Micro-organisms or nutrition are more serious concerns in food safety. We are misdirecting our attention toward pesticides," Witter said.

The nation's largest farm organization is going to work with other agricultural and consumer groups to address the food safety issue, Kleckner said.

"It took Alar to make us wake up. We are going to have to sell the safety of our food and our agriculture," Kleckner concluded.

Planting Progresses On Maryland Farms

Drier conditions after mid-week enabled Maryland farmers to advance planting of field crops during the week ending May 21. An average of 3.1 days were suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Farmers had prepared 68 percent of the acreage for spring planting, 22 percent behind last year, and 27 percent below normal. Topsoil moisture was 62 percent adequate and 38 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 67 percent adequate and 33 percent surplus.

Wheat, barley, oats and rye were in good condition overall. Powdery mildew continued to be present in many small grain fields. Wheat was 52 percent headed, seven percent behind last year but one percent above the average. Barley and rye were 100 percent headed, slightly ahead of the 97 percent average. Barley and rye were just starting to turn color.

Farmers had planted 47 percent of the corn, 22 percent behind 1988 and 31 percent behind the average. Soybeans were four percent planted compared to last year's 11 percent. Tobacco was eight percent transplanted, six percent behind last year and seven percent behind the normal. Watermelons were 75 percent planted, one percent behind 1988 and the average. Cantaloupes were 56 percent planted, four percent ahead of last year but 12 percent behind the average. Tomatoes were 67 percent planted, equal to the average. The first cutting of alfalfa was 10 percent complete, 15 percent behind the average for this date. The first cutting of clover and other hays was three percent complete compared to the normal of 14 percent. Alfalfa weevils continue to infest hay in most areas.

WEATHER

Maryland's weather for the week was cool with varying amounts of rainfall. Precipitation averaged 1.63 inch, Western and North Central Maryland received 2.32 inches and 2.31 inches respectively, southern Maryland west of the Bay received 1.31 inch and the Eastern Shore averaged 0.74 inch. Temperatures averaged 61.3 degrees, 1.9 degrees below the normal of 63.2 degrees for this week of the year. Minimum temperatures were mostly in the low to mid 40's. Maximum temperatures were mostly in the low to mid 60's.

Pre-Measurement Of Acres Urged

Garrett County ASCS Official William F. DeWitt says farmers may want to request pre-measurement of their acres before planting spring crops covered under the 1989 Acreage Reduction Programs.

To be eligible for full program benefits, farmers must report actual planted acreages to ASCS.

DeWitt says pre-measurement is important also in helping farmers decide which land to devote to the Acreage Conservation Reserve and which fields to plant.

Before crop planting time, ASCS will stake and measure any type of acreage, or portions thereof, that a farmer requests. DeWitt says producers must plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is pre-measured.

To request pre-measurement, farmers should contact the Garrett County ASCS Office.

Acreage Reports for wheat, barley, rye and other small grains must be filed by June 1 and June 15 for oats. DeWitt says some producers reported these crops when they enrolled in the 1989 programs. Those who fail to report by the deadline will be ineligible for farm program benefits.

ASCS uses Acreage Reports to determine compliance with farm programs and also for history purposes. The reports contain crops and acreages planted. The uses to be made of these crops and cropland acres to be devoted to Acreage Conservation Reserve. The agency randomly spot-checks a minimum of 15 percent of farms to verify Acreage Reports.

Farm Program participants must report their crop acreages to be eligible for Price Support Loans, Deficiency Payments and other program benefits on their 1989 crops.

Fall Seeded Crops Must Be Reported Soon

Now that the sign-up period has ended for the 1989 Feed Grain Programs, Garrett County ASCS Official William F. DeWitt says farmers who enrolled should be prepared to report their crop acres.

Cattail Control in Ponds

Cattails are very common in farm ponds and they are extremely hardy. Spring is the time to effectively control cattails with herbicides. The herbicides of choice are Dalapon and Rodeo. Use 7.5 pounds of dalapon, 8 ounces of liquid detergent and 50 gallons of water per surface acre. Use 1.5 quarts of Rodeo, 1 quart of a label-approved nonionic surfactant and 50 gallons of water per surface acre. Mix the materials well and apply evenly over the plants. Because of the extensive root system, cattails may require several treatments to completely control. Read labels carefully.

Are You Putting Your Soil Insecticide on Right?

Many of you will be again treating for the corn rootworm. It is very important that you apply the recommended rate. Too little of the insecticide will not do the job. Too much applied hits you in the "pocketbook." First of all and most important, you should know your travel speed. An easy way to determine or calculate your speed is to set two markers 88 feet apart and record the amount of time it takes to drive between them. The following chart shows the corresponding miles per hour. You may have to repeat the run until you have found the right throttle setting.

Time Required To Drive 88 Feet (seconds)	Speed (MPH)	Speed (FT per minute)
12	5	440
10	6	528
8.6	7	616
7.5	8	704

Planter Calibration For Using Lorsban 15G

Many of you will be using Lorsban for control of rootworms. If you need the gauge settings of speed and application rates, I have the information for the following planters: Gandy, John Deere 7000 Maxi Emerge (odd and even), John Deere 71 Flexi-Planter, Allis Chalmers 70-78-79 Series, Nobel (new and old), International Harvester, Buffalo All-Flex. You may obtain the information by calling my office at 334-1990. If I am out of the office, I will leave the information with the secretaries.

Comments On Common Program Rules Invited

Since many of the provisions for the 1990 Wheat, Feed Grain, Cotton and Rice programs are the same, USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service invited comments on common provisions of the commodity programs.

"All written remarks received by May 16 will be considered before final program decisions are made," Garrett County ASCS official William F. DeWitt said.

Farmers and other persons interested in the 1990 programs are asked to comment on 0/92 and 50/92 conservation use acreage (CU), acreage conservation reserve (ACR), off-setting or cross compliance, soybeans and sunflower plantings, crop acreage bases and other related program provisions.

DeWitt said the 0/92 optional acreage diversion program will allow wheat and feed grain producers to devote all or a portion of their permitted acreage to conservation uses and receive deficiency payments on the acreage. The 50/92 program will allow upland cotton and rice producers to plant between 50 and 92 percent of their permitted acreage to a program crop and designate eight percent of the permitted acres to conservation uses, and become eligible for deficiency payments on the underplanted acreage.

"We are asking for comments on whether the production of approved nonprogram crops should be allowed on these acres," DeWitt said. Non-program crops include sweet sorghum, sesame, safflower, sunflower, castor beans, mustard seed, crambe, plantago ovate, flaxseed, triticale and rye. DeWitt said other commodities which could be approved are those for which no substantial domestic production or market exists but that could yield industrial raw materials which might be imported, or commodities grown for experimental purposes.

"Producers are also invited to comment on whether the production of alternate crops should be allowed on acreage conservation reserve land." The alternate crops are the same nonprogram crops previously listed, as well as other commodities, he said.

Other 1990 farm program determinations to be made include: whether to permit haying and grazing on CU and ACR land, whether to require limited cross compliance or off-setting compliance, whether an advance recourse commodity loan program should be made available and whether soybeans or sunflowers should be allowed to be planted on 10 to 25 percent of the permitted acreage.

The ASCS official said producers should also express their opinions on whether to permit an increase in a crop acreage base by up to 10 percent of the farm's acreage base if corresponding decreases in one or more crop acreage bases are made, and whether interest payment certificates should be issued when price support loans

Hints To Growers

by Jim Simms

Be Prepared for Flea Beetles!

All indications are that this could be a "bumper" spring for insects. One of the favorite foods of the flea beetle is the young tomato plant. There are many species of the flea beetle. The black species is the most common to our area. It is small about 1/16 inch long, and jumps when you touch the plant. Not only does it like tomato plants, but they also feed on potatoes, eggplant, pepper, beet, spinach, turnip, radish and cabbage, and related plants. Young plants, especially transplants, can be severely damaged and may be stunted or killed. The leaves look as if they had been shot full of holes. Flea beetles can be controlled by applying Savin as a dust or spray. Eliminate weeds from surrounding areas that may harbor the beetle.

Trouble in the Rhubarb "Patch"

I have had several calls concerning the dying of rhubarb. Growers have complained that the leaves were wilting and a browning at the base of the leaf stalk leading to decay. This condition is called "Crown Rot" caused by a fungus. It was brought on this year due to the excess moisture. There is no effective means of control. When you plant rhubarb, make sure it is in well-drained soil.

Tips on Pruning Ornamental Plants

•Evergreen shrubs such as yews, arborvitae, junipers, etc. can be pruned anytime during the growing season. They should be pruned whenever the growth gets out-of-hand. Pruning often keeps the plant more attractive.

•Pine trees should be pruned by removing part of the new growth. Species vary in the times the new growth occurs.

•Flowering shrubs should be pruned right after they are through blooming. Some should be pruned in the spring, others in the fall. Older canes should be removed.

•Annual flowers can be kept colorful until a killing frost in the fall, by pinching off the old blossoms.

Seed Maggots

We have had ideal conditions for the seed maggot. This insect will bore into the seed and eat the embryo before the seed germinates. They can be controlled by using Diazinon granulars in the row. Diazinon will also control many other soil insects such as wireworms and cabbage root maggots. Read the pesticide label carefully and follow the directions.

Persons interested in commenting on these and other related 1990 commodity program provisions should write to the Director, Commodity Analysis Division, USDA-ASCS, Room 3741-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Horse Health

or when resident horses come into contact with other horses through attendance at shows, fairs or trail rides.

In fact, you can reduce the likelihood of a new disease entering your herd if you prevent physical contact between your resident herd and any newly acquired horse or horse returning from an exposure to other horses. However, the minimum period of time to keep horses separated is two weeks. In some farm situations, such as stud farms and boarding stables, owners may want to consider blood testing incoming horses for various diseases in addition to following strict isolation procedures.

Eradicate It

The next level of disease containment is eradication of a disease agent once it has been introduced into the herd. Again, this is difficult because of the same reasons listed above for keeping diseases out of a farm. However, an example of a disease whose eradication is being attempted is Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) or "swamp fever." The Coggins test is a blood test for antibodies to the EIA virus that all states use, in a coordinated effort, to eradicate EIA.

In Maryland, any horse nine months of age or older must be Coggins tested annually. A horse with a positive test must be permanently identified as an EIA reactor, quarantined on the farm, and segregated from all other horses in approved isolation facilities for the remainder of its life. Alternatively, the owner can have the horse destroyed, but without indemnity. Test and slaughter is a common approach to disease eradication.

Control It

Since it is impossible to eradicate most disease agents or keep them from infiltrating a farm, the next level of disease containment is to minimize the incidence and severity of disease that undoubtedly occurs on every farm. Deworming and vaccinating horses are the two main methods used to control disease. However, control of disease due to parasites, viruses, and bacteria involves a lot more than just selecting the right dewormer or vaccine. These diseases are best controlled by eliminating or altering as many of the previously mentioned risk factors as possible.

Dewormers and vaccines are important management tools, but they are not panaceas. Even the selection of specific dewormers and vaccines is a complex process that is based on many criteria such as safety and efficacy, cost, and state and federal regulations. Although most dewormers and vaccines are available over-the-counter, your veterinarian should be involved in developing and implementing a disease control program for your specific farm situation. Local veterinarians know which diseases are problems in the area and which vaccines are most effective in your given situation. Veterinarians can demonstrate the proper techniques for storing, handling, and administering drug and biologic products. And veterinarians can advise you on precautions, warnings, and proper retreatment intervals for the products selected.

Minimum deworming and vaccination guidelines include routine deworming of all animals, especially foals from two months to two years of age, and routine vaccination of all animals against tetanus and Eastern and Western Equine Encephalomyelitis. Other vaccines to consider using include those against influenza, rhinopneumonitis, rabies, botulism, Potomac Horse Fever, and strangles.

Treat It

Despite your best plans and actions, and those of your veterinarian, farrier, or anyone else you involve in disease control management, horses are going to get sick or injured and need to be treated. The first step in dealing with a sick or injured horse is to get a prompt and accurate diagnosis. Next, provide prompt and appropriate treatment. This means treating for a long enough period of time (at least three to five days if using antibiotics), and using the correct amount of drugs prescribed. Carefully read and follow labelled instructions.

It is apparent that a preventative health program must be designed for each farm on an individual basis, because of that farm's unique set of circumstances. Programs developed for one farm may have a detrimental effect on the next farm. Specific plans should be developed and modified in consultation with your veterinarian or other health related professionals. You, the horse owner, have the ultimate responsibility for assuring your horse's health by guaranteeing that the plans developed are fully implemented.

Alter Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Contract Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security: An acceptable Bid Bond, payable to the Owner, in the amount of five percent of the total bid must accompany each Bid. A certified check in the amount of five percent of the total bid, drawn on a solvent bank chartered in the State of Maryland, and payable to the Owner, may be substituted for the Bid Bond.

Attorneys in fact who sign Bid Bonds, Performance Bonds, Payment Bonds, or Defective Materials, Workman and Equipment Bonds must file with each Bond, a certified and effective copy of their power of attorney.

The Bid Bonds, except the bonds submitted with the three (3) lowest acceptable bids, will be returned within a fifteen (15) day period following the time of opening of the bids. The Bid Bonds accompanying the three lowest acceptable bids will be returned after the Contract has been awarded to and executed by the successful Bidder. Provided the Owner, for any reason whatsoever, determines that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Bidder will not be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner, the Bidder and Bidder's Surety.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement and Bond within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be delivered to the Bidder by the Owner. In the event of a failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at its option, consider the Bidder in default, in which case the Bid Bond accompanying the proposal shall become the property of the Owner.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of acceptable Bonds and Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner. A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder. All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the project shall apply to the Contract through out.

Time for Completion: The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within three hundred sixty-five (365) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of a formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract: The award of any contract will be made by the Owner. Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Contract Documents, however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or Contracts which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner.

A Worldwide Event Is Coming To America — And Garrett County

The World Championships of Whitewater Canoe and Kayak racing will be held on the Savage River in Garrett County, as racers from over 30 nations will be competing in the 21st Slalom and 16th Wildwater Canoe races over a two-week period from June 11 through June 25.

World Championships races consist of two separate events: the Wildwater competition and the Slalom competition. The Wildwater competition is a 7-km sprint, from start to finish. The Slalom competition is 600 meters in length and the racer must pass through 25 predetermined gates. The Savage River is a superb location that enables both events to be conducted at the same site. This permits spectator viewing of all the competition from prime locations along the entire course. Spectator events are also planned for the area during the events.

In 1989 the International Canoe Federation's World Championships will be hosted by the American Canoe Association. The organizing committee for the championships is Whitewater World Championships, Inc., headquartered in McHenry. This non-profit, volunteer organization is made up of representatives from government, businesses, civic organizations, and interested individuals. State and local governments and many private sector sponsors are lending considerable support to development and implementation efforts for these events.

Spectator attendance and viewing of the event will be unprecedented. The site, centrally located in the Mid-Atlantic Region of the United States, is readily accessible via interstate highways and is within a one day's drive of nearly one-third of the American population. Planned television and other media coverage will bring the event within reach of millions of people throughout the world. The sport, closely followed in many countries of Western and Central Europe, is anticipated to draw large numbers of foreign visitors. The re-entrance of the Slalom event in the 1992 Olympics will generate increased interest in the sport.

Detailed information about the 1989 World Whitewater Championships, including race schedules and ticket prices can be found elsewhere in Summer Sensations and in various articles in The Republican Newspaper.

Bill Endicott, Coach Of U.S. Whitewater Team, Reflects On Trip To Soviet Union

The summer of 1989 will mark the appearance of Russian athletes in Western Maryland for the World Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Championships.

Since whitewater sports have been included in the 1992 Olympic Games to be held in Barcelona, Spain, the Russians may well feel that participating in the 1989 Championships is necessary if they are to compete satisfactorily in the Olympic Games.

Bill Endicott, coach of the U.S. Whitewater Team, had a close-up view of the Russians and their attitude about whitewater when he visited the country last summer to conduct a training camp on whitewater in Russia.

"Our trip to Russia coincides with the policy of Glasnost, or 'openness,' of the new regime," Endicott explained. "Ten to 12 years ago we would not have been able to make a trip like this."

"Our trip was the first part of a two-part exchange," Endicott said. "We went there at our own expense, and they provided everything else. It is now our turn to do the same for them. We told them it would be more convenient to have them stay in private homes here, as we have several people who are interested in participating. The Russians said that would be fine.

"I'm excited that they are coming for the World Championships this summer," he said. "They will probably come a week early and stay after for awhile. The Soviets were very interested when we were there last summer, but the trip had to be cleared with their officials."

The training camp was attended by American and Russian athletes, as well as an athlete from France and one from Great Britain. The group spent two weeks in Russia, from the end of August to the beginning of September.

The first day of the trip was spent in Moscow, then they flew on to Tbilisi. From Tbilisi, the athletes had to take a bus to Shovi, where they spent the remainder of the two weeks training on the Rioni River. The Rioni River is in the Caucasus Mountains area of the Soviet Union between the Black and the Caspian seas.

After riding for six hours on a bus from Tbilisi to Shovi, the group arrived around midnight to find that the Russians had prepared a banquet for the athletes, coaches and the Russian Delegation.

Nikolai Korotkov, the head of the Russian Delegation who welcomed the American visitors, was no stranger to Endicott.

"As it turned out, Korotkov had participated in the 1971 World Championships. We had been in a C2 (a canoe for two people) together and he remembered me. I didn't remember him, but I had also pulled him out of the water at one point during the training camp," Endicott said. "The speech he gave about the two of us working together in 1971 started the camp off on a good, friendly basis."

"The Rioni River is as good as the Savage River, but much longer," Endicott said. "I was told that it is 250 kilometers long. It is world class whitewater but in a very remote area. Being so remote, it would make holding a major race there very difficult.

"The Rioni was chosen because East Germany and the Russians held a training camp on it around the time of the 1972 Olympics. One of the Russian coaches remembered it," said Endicott.

The Russian athletes were apparently in very good shape, but Endicott said that their equipment was generally three to 15 years out of date. He said that the boats were made from old designs and construction and materials were generally obsolete.

A few of the Russians had modern boats that were built in the Latvian Soviet Socialist Republic (one of 15 constituents of the U.S.S.R., in the eastern part of Russia). The most current were from a company in Latvia.

The Savage Is Great, But Have You Tried The Yough?

With the upcoming 1989 World's Canoe/Kayak Championships, the world has focused attention on Garrett County and the world class whitewater of the Savage River.

But there is another river in Garrett County which kayakers and canoeists from all over the nation come to paddle. This river, which has very little vehicle access, has drops of up to 200 feet per mile, averaging around 113 feet per mile, creating almost continuous class V whitewater. The Youghiogheny River, or Upper Yough, was once considered non-navigable, but is now run on a daily basis by rafters and kayakers.

The section of the river known as the Upper Yough is approximately ten miles long. It is a very narrow river, with tight, technically difficult rapids. Because of the narrowness of the river, the largest raft that can be used is a four person boat. Most rafters and kayakers put their boats in at Sang Run, near the Sang Run bridge.

The first section is mostly flat water, with a few riffles and an occasional minor rapid. The river enters very remote forest land, and occasionally wild animals, such as deer, woodchucks, and beavers can be seen.

Then as the raft or kayak floats another turn, there is a loud roaring noise and a large, flat rock can be seen to the right of the river. This area is known as Gap Falls and signals the beginning of four miles of almost continuous whitewater.

The first major rapid is Gap Falls and the next few rapids are known as the Warm-Ups, with the rapids becoming continuously more challenging as the boaters paddle their way down the river.

One of the most difficult sections of the river is a series of three rapids, beginning with Bastard Falls, continuing into Charlie's Choice and ending with National Falls. This section of the river drops about 200 feet.

At Charlie's Choice, there is a large rock in the middle of the river that is legendary for causing pins (when a raft gets pushed into the rock by the force of the river). The river then cascades through the rapid known as National Falls, where it forms a large pool. To the bottom right of the pool, there is a large rock that, on hot summer days, many enjoy jumping from into the pool for a swimming break.

After successfully negotiating this section of the river, one may relax a little and look around at the scenery. The river works its way through a steep, narrow gorge with deep forests and thickets of rhododendrons. There are several small streams and waterfalls that feed into the Youghiogheny, all providing breathtaking scenery.

But don't relax too much, because there are still several difficult rapids ahead. With names like Powerful Popper, Meat Cleaver and Double Pencil Sharpener, each rapid provides a thrill of challenge for the adventuresome. One rapid is so wild that it has an obscene name and is well known for causing many paddlers to take an unwanted swim.

At Meat Cleaver, there are two large boulders, known as Wally and Beaver Cleaver, which the main force of the water flows through, forming a large chute of water in which a small raft can just slide through.

After Meat Cleaver, there are three large rapids, interspersed with several smaller rapids:

Cheeseburger Falls, Wright's Hole and finally, Double Pencil Sharpener. Wright's Hole is named for the hole which is created in the center of the rapid. If the boat hits the middle of the hole, it will often flip over.

After Double Pencil Sharpener, the final large rapid, there is about a mile of easy water into the Town of Friendsville.

Most of the rapids have been named over the years for a particular experience of a boater, or for certain characteristics of the rapid.

The Upper Yough has been run commercially since 1980. It is unknown who was the first person to test his knowledge of boating against the river, but sometime in 1980 several people got together and began to take commercial

Robert Mosley To Bring World-Renowned Talents To Garrett County August 25

A special music event sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival this summer in addition to the regular schedule of events will be a concert of Favorite American and English Songs by world renowned baritone Robert Mosley. The program, which will feature a variety of popular numbers and show tunes, will be held August 25, 8 p.m., at Garrett Community College.

Mosley has performed several times in Garrett County with the Garrett Choral Society, the most recent of which was the Society's presentation of Handel's "Messiah" last December.

Mosley is regarded as one of the most gifted and experienced performers on the American stage today. Whether he appears as Joe in "Showboat," Porgy in "Porgy and Bess," or as Amonasro, Scarpia, or Wotan in the operatic repertoire, Mosley's is a powerful voice and riveting presence.

He recently returned from a three-month run of "Porgy and Bess" in Italy and Germany, where he once again received rave reviews as the crippled beggar. Mosley had just previously completed two seasons at the Metropolitan Opera as Porgy in the widely acclaimed production conducted by Maestro James Levine. He also starred in the most recent Broadway and Radio City Music Hall productions of "Porgy."

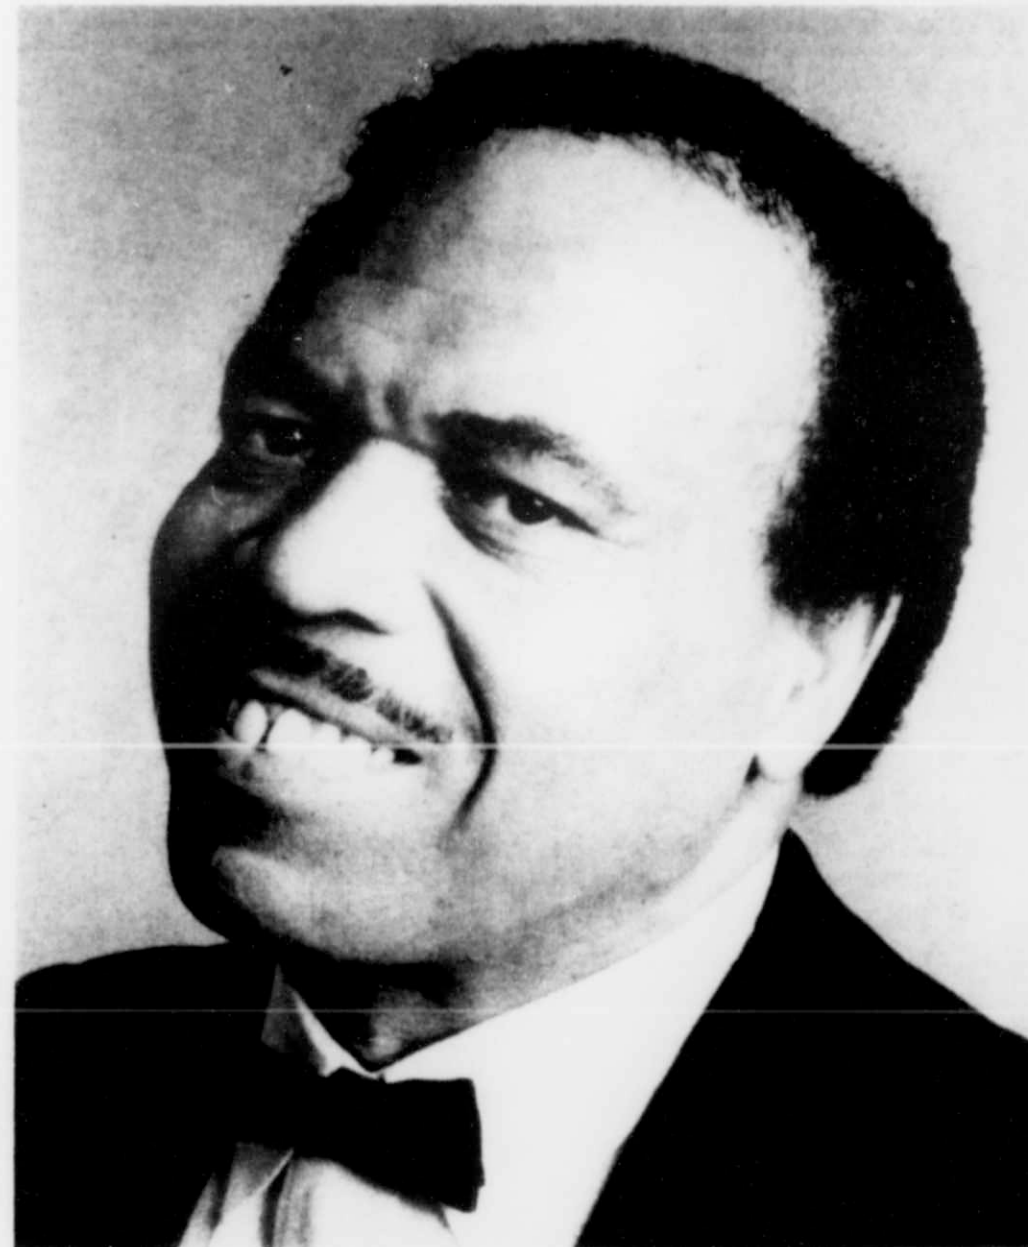

Mosley has sung with the leading U.S. opera companies, including Seattle, San Francisco, Boston, Houston, New York City Opera, and the "Met," and he has been a soloist with the Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and New York Philharmonic orchestras under such maestri as Ormandy, Kostelanetz, Bojanowski, Stokowski, Allers, Steinberg, and Schermerhorn.

He has sung most of the oratorio works of Handel, Bach, and Beethoven. Most recently, he sang several performances of Beethoven's Ninth with the Lisbon Symphony and the Opera Chorus of Barcelona in Lisbon and Porto to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the Portuguese Revolution.

Mosley has toured extensively

Who needs mortgage approval anxiety?

So very much hinges on the approval of a mortgage loan application. One family is wondering whether its new dream home will be possible. Another family might be awaiting the answer so it can buy the vacated home. And the realtor is anxious to "tie down the deal."

There's lots of anxiety. Certainly a lengthy wait for approval of the mortgage application should not be a factor.

The folks at Garrett National Bank are keenly aware of the need for fast turnaround. When you deal with Garrett National, you will find our service to be better and quicker because we're true experts at processing mortgage loans.

But fast processing is only half our story. Garrett National also has a commitment to a great combination of low rates and flexible terms. Both fixed and variable rates are available. Payback? Ten years, 15 years, 20 years. Other terms can be arranged. And we're committed to a low point schedule.

When important home-buying decisions are being made, it's in everyone's best interest to seek out the best deal. We feel both the best deal and best service will be found at Garrett National Bank. Visit any of our 10 convenient offices today and find out for yourself.

throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Europe. He possesses a strong international conscience and has contributed his talents in several concerts for various United Nations ceremonies.

Mosley is married to the former Rita Shrout, a native of Mtn. Lake Park, who has also carved for herself an impressive show business career.

Ms. Mosley has toured the United States and Canada with many national companies, including "1776," "Shenandoah," "Sound of Music," "Bubblin' Brown Sugar," "Showboat," and "On the Twentieth Century." She has worked with a variety of celebrities, including John Raitt, Forrest Tucker, Butterfly McQueen, Eddie Bracken, Frank Gorshin, and Imogene Coca. Her most recent New York credits include "Allegro," "Gypsy," "On the Town," "Barnum," "42nd Street," "La Cage Aux Folles," and "Anything Goes."

Ms. Mosley also works as a vocal coach and accompanist and says she most enjoys working with her husband, with whom she has twice toured the world.

Tickets for the Mosley concert will be $10 per person. GLAF season tickets may not be used for this performance.

Cornish Manor

Cornish Manor Restaurant, owned and hosted by Bob and Patty Bobo, located one-half mile off Route 219 on Memorial Drive, is a delightful country place reminiscent of Colonial Williamsburg.

Fine dining with homemade fare is offered for lunch and dinner at the serene Cornish Manor which is rich in history.

The house, located on 7 acres of land covered with 200 large, sturdy oak trees, is comprised of 18 rooms and three large halls.

The Victorian home was built in 1868 by Judge Lambert of Washington, D.C. It was later purchased by L.L. Loar who named it "Ethelhurst" for his daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cornish then purchased it, thereby establishing its present name.

Lunch begins at Cornish Manor at 11 a.m. where there's always a tempting luncheon special. They are famous for their Bobo burger, served with grilled onions on toasted homemade bread, as well as their homemade soup du jour, select sandwich menu and luncheon platters and fresh salads.

Dinners are served from 4-10 p.m. which delight the lightest to the heartiest palates.

A luscious offering of appetizers like oysters on the half-shell and escargot are available at Cornish Manor. ## Mime Robert Rivest Among '89 Garrett Lakes Performers

One man, face painted white, eyes and mouth heavily outlined, tells a story. He never says a word, but captivates the audience with gestures and movements of his body.

This ability to tell a story without words is the magic of mime, which Robert Rivest will be bringing to the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival when he appears on July 14 and 15 at Garrett Community College with two special performances, one for adults and one for children.

An evening program to be held Friday, July 14, will be a variety of tragic and comic situations. Rivest's art allows the imagination to take one into colorful, fantasy environment that is brought to life by a cast of imaginary characters.

The audience is offered a humorous look at today's world through original sketches, such as "The Skier", "Dieter's Nightmare" and "Wide World of Sports, while in sketches such as "The Slave Ship" and "The Factory", Rivest offers insight into his view of the human condition.

The children's program scheduled for Saturday, July 15, is an introduction to the magical and mysterious world of mime. Rivest begins the program with a series of short character sketches which show the basic techniques of mime, followed by more involved skits.

Rivest occasionally breaks the silence to share different aspects of the art form as compared with arts using speech and give a title of a skit.

For the last segment of the show, Rivest interacts with the audience and does a few improvisations on stage.

Rivest has trained in mime, dance and acting at a variety of theater schools: Ecole Internationale De Mimo Drama in Paris; the World Centre for Mime in Michigan; the Goldston School for Mime in Ohio; the Performance Theatre Center; Herbert Berghof Studios; the Broadway Dance Center in New York City; the Dance Conservatory of New England in Massachusetts. He currently attends the Fice College Dance Department.

During his many years of study, Rivest has trained with many famous artists, including: Marcel Marceau, Maximilen DeCroux, Moni Yakim and Yves Casati. He has entertained in Europe and America, performing shows at colleges, hospitals and homeless shelters, in a variety of performances.

Rivest has taught classes in mime, creative movement, acting for dancers and theatre games to students of all ages, from preschool to senior citizen. He has performed in several video productions and movement consultant for numerous theater and dance performances.

Along with running the Robert Rivest Mime Theater in Enfield, Conn., he is currently assisting dance/movement therapy sessions

BEFORE AND AFTER — Robert Rivest will be appearing at the Garrett Community College auditorium July 14 at 8 p.m. and July 15 at 10:30 a.m. as part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Summer Season. Rivest will be the sole actor in "Mime for the Young at Heart: Stories Without Words," in which he will do a variety of skits through the art of mime. He is pictured above in the photo on the left without his make-up and in the photo on the right with the make-up which becomes an essential part of his act. For more information on the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, call (301) 387-6666.

emcee, and performs guitar and lead vocals. He has appeared with the Everly Brothers, Merle Haggard and Johnny Cash. Gilmore began his naval career as a communications technician after he graduated from high school in Springport, Mich. After winning the All-Navy Talent Contest in 1972, he decided to make Navy music his vocation.

He has been selected as "Banjo Player of the Year" two times by "Muleskinner News" bluegrass magazine. Emerson is a member of the Virginia Country Music Hall of Fame and helped to form "Country Gentlemen." Following the group's 1973 guest appearance with the Navy Band, he enlisted to help establish Country Current.

Peabody Ensemble Re-Creates Ellington, Joplin, Dorsey, . . .

Duke Ellington, Tommy Dorsey, Eubie Blake, Scott Joplin, Cab Calloway, Fats Waller, Jelly Roll Morton — these names conjure up images of smoke-filled speakeasies and a younger America growing into a new sophistication. Garrett Countians will have a chance to enjoy lively interpretations of music from the American musical greats of the 30's and 40's at an August 2 "Concert on the Grass," featuring the Peabody Ragtime Ensemble.

The concert is just one in the summer-long series of performances scheduled for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. The Peabody Ragtime Ensemble's Concert on the Grass is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, August 2, at Garrett Community College in McHenry.

The Ensemble is a Baltimore-based septet composed primarily of graduates of the Peabody Conservatory of Music. Each member of the group is an accomplished musician with an impressive list of credentials to his name, yet the group is able to blend and improvise beautifully, in true jazz style.

Ed Goldstein, the Ensemble's leader and tuba player, spoke of their highly successful unity. "It's uncanny, the sense of oneness we have when we perform. I know what the piano player is going to play almost before he does. And vice versa. We can go off on a tangent playing something neither one of us has played before and play it exactly in the same key with the same notes and exactly the same rhythm. Then we'll look at each other and burst out laughing. It's the same with our drummer. The three of us are the tightest rhythm section I've ever heard. It's like we're the same people."

The key to the group's success, according to Goldstein, is the variety of its offerings — there is something for everyone. "In a three-hour program," Goldstein explained, "we'll play maybe 21 different tunes, which means there will be 10 to 14 different textures." A typical set may include numbers by Fats Waller, Duke Ellington and Scott Joplin, closing perhaps with "Sing, Sing, Sing," during which the band leaves the clarinetist on stage for a solo that is more than a couple of minutes long. All the band members bring in repertoire, and the all-purpose instrumentation — flute, clarinet, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, and drums with both woodwinds doubling saxes — allows for flexible programming. The result is an entertaining, consistently fresh mixture of music.

The Peabody Ragtime Ensemble has performed in over 2,500 concerts during its 14 year history. Performances at the Smithsonian, National Portrait Gallery, the Copenhagen Jazz Festival, a summer residency at Wolf Trap, a tour of Europe and appearances in the Soviet Union attest to the widespread popularity of this group's sensitive interpretation of a uniquely American musical form — ragtime, dixieland and jazz.

Act IV Productions To Present "Foxfire" During Garrett Lakes Arts Festival

One of the events which has been planned by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival is the production of "Foxfire," a play written by Hume Cronyn and Susan Cooper. The performance is scheduled for July 5 through 8 at Garrett Community College.

The production will be presented by ACT IV Productions, Inc., a community theatre group which began in 1981 with support from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. The actors are local residents from the business and professional segment of Garrett County.

Shows performed have included "On Golden Pond", "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown", and "Arsenic and Old Lace".

"Foxfire" is the story of the people of that mountaintop section of the Blue Ridge mountains known as Appalachia — extending from the heart of Georgia, Rabun County, to our own native hills in Garrett County.

It depicts a way of life which still exists, but is fast disappearing. However, it may someday, down through the millenium of years, once again be the genesis for the survival of a new civilization.

The play takes its name from a lichen known as 'foxfire' which grows on dead trees throughout this region and glows in the dark. Elliott Wigginton gave this name to a series of books compiled and produced by the young people of the Appalachian region to keep alive the indomitable ways and quaint customs of their grandparents.

The play will take you from 'Time Present' to 'Time Past', without change of scenery or costume, in order to trace the events which lead up to the present time and the difficult decision which Annie Nations must make.

The play is produced with the permission of Bakers Plays, Inc.

The character Hector will be played by John Ackerman, a resident of Garrett County, owner and breeder of American Quarter Horses and professional horse show announcer. He has had a long acting experience on the East Coast, and is currently employed as a marketing representative for the Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

Frances Acton will play the part of Annie. A native of Washington, D.C., she retired to Garrett County after 30 years of government service. She has been with ACT IV since the beginning as actor, director and producer. She has been involved with theatre for over 50 years.

The role of Dillard will be played by Rob Smith, who began his acting career in high school and college productions. He worked in the music business as sound technician and recording engineer, and toured with several rock and roll shows including 'Jesus Christ, Superstar' as a sound engineer.

He worked as a songwriter and performer in New York before moving to the mountains of Western Maryland. He recorded his first album of original material in 1980 with Keith Roberts, entitled, "Smith and Roberts, Buffalo Run".

Playing the part of Prince will be John Smith, who has been with ACT IV since 1982. He has worked with the Boy Scouts of America as scoutmaster of the local troop and director of the ceremonial teams for the 'Order of the Arrow', B.S.A. He is presently employed at the Ruth Enlow Library.

The play will be directed by Betty Xander, from the Washington area. She is well-known in that area for her outstanding work in directing and acting. She directed for the King's Jester dinner Theatre, Saratoga Dinner Theatre, New Back Alley, and Rockville Little Theatre.

Although she lives in Wheaton, Betty has a home in Garrett County and spends many weekends here. She is currently employed at the U.S. Navy's David Taylor Research Center.

Ben Sincell will be the technical director. A native of Garrett County, he is well known both here and in surrounding areas as an

Bill Harley To Bring Funny Songs, Funny Stories July 29

Bill Harley is a delightfully funny man who sings and tells stories that will chase the monster out of our hearts. He is unique in his way of getting us to laugh at ourselves and unique in his talent for speaking directly to the experiences of our youth. "Adults remember growing up. And if they don't remember, I remind them," said Harley.

One of the many featured performers of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Bill Harley will be appearing at Garrett Community College July 29 at 8 p.m. He will also be delivering a lecture at the college earlier the same day, 3 p.m., entitled "Summer Rituals as Sources of Humorous Commentary."

Whether he's telling a folktale, doing a hambone to "Fifty Ways to Fool Your Mother," or singing about the strange creatures in the bathroom plumbing, Harley puts on a show that audiences of all ages will enjoy and long remember. His songs and stories are both humorous and meaningful, applauding our strengths and hopes and calling attention to our weaknesses. Expect the story Bill Harley tells you to come alive and expect to walk away from his concert "feeling so tall, you can carry the world on your back."

Since 1980, Harley has performed at schools, coffeehouses, festivals, and on the theater stage. Averaging over 250 shows per year, he has performed at storytelling festivals across the country, the St. John Festival for the Performing Arts in St. John, U.S. Virgin Islands, the New England New Vaudeville Festival, and with the Vermont Philharmonic Orchestra. He is currently an Artist-in-Residence with the Rhode Island State Council on the Arts and the Massachusetts Arts Collaborative and gives workshops on storytelling and creative writing.

Bill Harley won a Parent's Choice Gold Award for his album, "Fifty Ways to Fool Your Mother," in 1987. His first album, "Monsters in the Bathroom," has been broadcast extensively in radio stations across the country, and he has since produced four more recordings, including an album of original folk music for adults, entitled "Coyote." Harley has also written the music and narrated for a series of award winning educational film strips for Learning Tree Films.

Harley resides in Massachusetts with his wife and two sons.

American boats are made from a material called Kevlar, a gold color material. Since the defense industry uses Kevlar, the shipment of the material is restricted.

One or two of the Russian kayaks were the same gold color as American boats made from Kevlar, but had long brown streaks in them. Apparently the Russians have made a Kevlar type material of their own.

"The Russians do have the recent designs and materials to make up-to-date boats, but this is the exception for them to have a modern boat," said Endicott.

"We thought we were the last amateurs in the sport, but they are really the last amateurs," Endicott said. "In the Soviet Union, sports are state supported. However, if it is not an Olympic sport, there is no money provided for it, so whitewater athletes are not beneficiaries to any support from the Soviet Union government.

"They are natural paddlers and do it for the love of the sport. They have been kayaking and canoeing for years. They have 1,500 racers compared to our 500 and 10 times as many coaches. They have had a whole administrative structure for 18 years now, with no help from the government," Endicott explained.

that the Russians would participate in the World Championships to be held on the Savage River in Garrett County this June. He said that the Russians had requested a "very detailed scenario" of this summer's events.

"We left them with ideas and things to work on. When we saw them in August, they had the ability to place in the top half. By this summer," Endicott explained, "with the right equipment and the training they learned from us, they should do even better."

The Russians apparently have plans to construct an artificial course in Latvia and possibly in Moscow. Endicott said that there are two options to constructing an artificial course. A course can be constructed by pouring a concrete channel to make a concrete river, or taking an area with a gradient and place boulders in strategic areas.

Pouring a concrete channel is the classic artificial whitewater racing course. A concrete channel was constructed for the 1972 Olympics held in Augsburg, Germany.

Endicott said that the Russians had a "friendly" attitude. "Athletes and coaches are pretty much the same wherever you go. Everyone is always excited to get together with other paddlers and learn about the sport. And we barely knew the Russians had whitewater athletes. They existed in quiet."

The American team had few problems while in Russia, but one small difficulty was with the KGB (Russia's version of America's FBI) in Shovi.

"The KGB asked our group to move to another hotel. At first they said it was so we could have better accommodations and the like, but it turned out they didn't want us communicating so freely with the Russian athletes," Endicott said. "But we were still able to walk back and forth between the hotels at will."

"Then on our flight back to Moscow, one of the guys got into a discussion with a Russian about the black market. This seemed to disturb the heads of our delegation and the Russian was asked to move his seat."

"These incidents were more amusing than anything," Endicott explained. "It never cramped our style. Of course, we didn't have the same freedom as we have here, but for a totalitarian government, it did not bother us and we were never inconvenienced."

"We had great relationships with the people," Endicott said. "They are a warm, open people. We were excited to see that there were paddlers in Russia, and that they have been paddling for 18 years without the support of their government."

Endicott was a participant in the 1971 World Championships that were held in Merano, Italy. He took ninth place overall. He said that he doesn't race anymore, except in small local races. He said he likes to "just paddle recreationally."

Endicott had studied the history and language of Russia, but this was his first visit there. He said his wife, Abby, told him a little about Moscow, from a visit she had made to Moscow during the Olympics held there in 1980. She went, not to participate in the Olympics, but to attend a conference on canoeing.

Endicott said that he felt the Russians hadn't originally planned to participate in the 1989 Worlds, as they had a fear of being embarrassed, since they had not participated in the sport for so many years.

"It is a big deal to have the Russians participate," said Endicott. "It gives the sport prestige."

The Savage Is Savage, But Its Name Has Nothing To Do With Whitewater

The Savage River — Surely it was named for its savage whitewater in which the 1989 World Whitewater Canoe/Kayak Championships will be held June 11-25. No, it was not. Read the following article by Bernice Keple, written in December 1986 in observance of the 250th anniversary of the first survey of the river, to find out how the Savage really got its name.

Just over 250 years ago, a group of men, sent by the king of England and Virginia's Lord Fairfax to serve a Potomac River, camped, cold and starving, at the mouth of a savage, raging river. It was November 29, and a group of 17 surveyors and assistants had been measuring and mapping the North Branch of the Potomac River since leaving Harpers Ferry early in October.

The 10 month was late in the year to start a journey into the mountains. However, the surveyors had hoped that by leaving late the dangerous snakes which lived among the river rocks would be in hibernation. Their start was also delayed because it took more than a week just to get all the king's horses, and their own horses, and ready for the trip. To add to the delay, horses belonging to one of the surveyors mysteriously came up missing, and the others went on, leaving that man to find or replace his animal which were the only means of transportation for himself and his baggage.

Who were these men, who Stephen Schlosnagle described in his book, "Garrett County: A History of Maryland's Tableland" as the first white men ever to visit present-day Garrett County? Representing the king were surveyors Major William Mayo and Robert Brooke; working for Lord Fairfax were Captain Benjamin Winslow and John Savage. At the same time, another party of surveyors set out to map Rappahannock River. The goal of both teams was to "to measure the breadth and depth of the said two branches at the mouth thereof and also the extent of them to their respective first heads or springs that feed and supply the said branches" and to establish Lord Fairfax's estate with the king of England.

The king's commissioner, William Byrd, was very displeased with the delay met by the surveyors on the Potomac, and wrote a prodding letter to the party. "Your proceedings gentlemen," he wrote the surveyors, "have been very dilatory and we can't construe your conduct otherways than you imagined you are to be paid by the day and you intend for that reason to make the most of it." He added that they were not to spend their time in sloth and merriment and promised to examine each day's proceedings and pay them not according to their time, but according to their accomplishments.

Winslow and Savage were indignant at the commissioners unfounded implications and wrote a letter in return. Along with that letter, they enclosed their journal so that the commissioners might be sure that they were not guilty of any breach of trust. "The difficulties that lye before us and ye many greater dayly expect to not in the least discourage us from the prosecution of the great trust respo'd in us with the utmost trips down the river. Since that time, many companies have been formed and many thousands of people from around the country and around the world, have come to Garrett County to raft, kayak or canoe the Yough.

Last year, it was estimated that over 4,000 persons rafted the Yough with a commercial outfitter. Because of the increased use of the river, Maryland's Department of Natural Resources has put a new set of regulations into effect for the river. Because of the regulations, commercial outfitters are limited to the number of persons they may take down the river on any given day, so reservations are advisable.

Most commercial outfitters recommend that a potential paddler of the Yough have some experience with paddling a river, whether it be rafting, canoeing or kayaking.

So if you like excitement and aren't afraid of water, give rafting on this challenging river, considered by some to be the best river in the eastern United States, a try.

Build your dream house in Virginia. Then ship it here.

The Augusta

In Virginia there's a factory where they build houses.

Real houses, mind you. with lumber and nails. Just like the house you've always wanted to build. Only chances are it's better, stronger, more precise, and of higher quality materials than any house you can hire somebody to build on site.

More House In Less Time.

And it can be shipped and assembled on your foundation in less than one-third of the time it takes to build a conventional stick-built house.

Once it's ready to move into, we'll bet you can't tell it from a regular site-built house. And if you do see a difference, we'll bet it'll be in our favor.

Best House You've Ever Lived In.

Everything is made from the finest quality materials, to meet or exceed all building codes. We use 2x8 or 2x10 floor joists, with subfloors glued and nailed. Outside walls are sheathed with 3/8" plywood before they're finished. Oak cabinets are double-doweled. Finishes are hand-sanded.

We even mill our own mouldings from kiln-dried lumber. It's a little more trouble, but it assures quality and precise fit.

Can We Send You One?

There's more we'd like to tell you first. About our carpet, our appliances, our 40 standard floor plans and our 300 inspections every modular section undergoes before it leaves our plant. If you're building your dream house — or a vacation house — or even a bunch of houses — talk to us first.

Second McHenry Highland Festival Boasts Variety Of New Activities, Entertainment

The second annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 3, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry will offer a wide variety of activities and entertainment for the whole family, including bagpipe band concerts, Scottish fiddle, harp and vocal group concerts, sheepdog exhibitions, highland and country dancing and more. This year's festival has been expanded to include the following activities:

A herd of Scotch Highland Cattle, owned by Gorman and Virginia Beitzel, Bittinger, MD, will be on display at the festival. These cattle are a centuries-old breed from the rugged highlands of Scotland, brought to the western U.S. in the 1880's and to the east in the 1920's. With their short legs, long hair and long curving horns, they are exotic looking and Gorman notes, "quiet and docile, long lived, easy keepers, require little shelter and produce lean beef. They are disease resistant, have strong mothering instincts, calve easily and come in several colors."

A number of Scottish Clan Societies will participate in the festival, including the clans of Baird, Buchanan, Campbell, Gunn, Johnstone, Kerr, MacFarlane, MacKenzie, MacLachlan, Macnachten, MacNicol, MacPherson, Moffatt, Morrison, Murray, Sinclair, and Wallace, as well as the Society of Scottish Clans. These clan organizations can assist persons in exploring their Scottish heritage and provide genealogical information. The clans will also participate in a parade of the clans during the festival.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over. This festival is sponsored in part by the Royal Oaks Inn and the Villages of Wisp at Deep Creek Lake, and funded in part by a grant from the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development.

A ceilidh (Scottish party with entertainment) will be held Saturday evening, June 3, at the McHenry House at the Wisp, beginning at 8 p.m., sponsored by Ski Wisp (admission, $3.00). The evening's entertainment will include performances by: Lynn Barnes, Scottish and Celtic harpist; the Pittsburgh Scottish Country Dance Society; Iona Celtic Band; Jim Queen, Scottish fiddler; Carl Peterson, Scottish folksinger; Ali Ghan and Garrett Highlanders Pipes and Drums, and storytelling by folklorist Suzanne Dale. Admission includes complimentary snacks and door prize drawings; a cash bar will be available. There is limited seating, and advance tickets are available from Festival Headquarters or at the fairgrounds during the festival. A Kirkin' o' the Tartans will

Sensational Young Violinist To Be Soloist At GLAF Music Festival

ERICK FRIEDMAN
Conductor

KATHRYN SINCELL
Executive Director
Lyric Soprano

The third season for the Festival Orchestra of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival is shaping up to be even more exciting than the previous two, according to Kathryn Sincell, executive director, and Erick Friedman, conductor.

It was announced this week that among the special guest soloists for the July 19-22 concert series is a 19-year-old violin virtuoso from Alexandria, Va., who, according to Friedman, "plays as well, if not better, than Itzhak Perlman."

Alexander Kerr (pronounced car) has been winning every national violin competition lately, such as the Spillman-Kelley, Chevrolet Young Artists, General Motors, and Young Soloists awards, and is rapidly making a name for himself as a soloist with major symphony orchestras. He has performed in Europe and most recently in the Julliard Concert Series at Lincoln Center and with the National Symphony in Washington, D.C.

"This young man is truly outstanding," Friedman said. "He is going to take the Garrett Lakes Music Festival by storm."

In commenting on the 1989 program, Friedman said, "The really sensational response and support of local music lovers has inspired a renewed direction to bring some of the most exciting music, both classical and popular, to one of the finest resort areas on the East Coast. It is as it should be."

The Festival Orchestra plans to present music of the beloved classics in conjunction with some of the truly inspirational music of our time—works of George Gershwin, Richard Rodgers, and other popular and contemporary masters will be represented, as well as some of the most beautiful operatic arias and duets.

Ms. Sincell said that the program will also contain some of the beloved chamber music of the past, including popular works by Beethoven, Brahms, Schubert, Mendelssohn, and others.

Concert master Dale Struckenbruck, of New York City, will also be among the soloists, as he will present Vivaldi's "Fiddler Fantasie for Violin and Mandolin." Vocal soloists will include Ms. Sincell, lyric soprano, also of New York City, and baritone Jeffery Marler, Dallas, Tex.

The July 19 concert will feature works by Mozart, Thomas Tallis, Ralph Vaughn Williams, Handel, Joseph Jongen, Ned Rorem, Mary Rey, and Grieg.

The schedule for the July 20 concert will include works by Dohnanyi, Elgar, Handel, and Mozart.

The program of Friday, July 21, will include works by famous works by Mozart, including "The Magic Flute" and "The Marriage of Figaro," Rossini's "Barber of Seville," and Mendelssohn's Octet.

George Gershwin, Stephen Foster, Jerome Kern, and Oscar Hammerstein will be featured in the Saturday, July 22, concert, as will Dvorak's waltzes and the Vivaldi number featuring Dale Struckenbruck.

A detailed schedule and program will be released at a later date.

Erick Friedman, who is a legend in his own time, has carved for himself a career of international dimensions as a violinist both in concerts and on records. He has appeared as guest soloist with nearly all of the world's great orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic, the National Symphony, the Berlin Philharmonic, and the London Symphony. He has collaborated with many internationally celebrated conductors, such as Karajan, Stokowski, Steinberg, Leinsdorf, Previn, and Ozawa. He has recorded for RCA with the Boston Symphony, Chicago Symphony, and London Symphony. His recordings of the Bach Sonatas for Violin and Harpsichord and the Franck and Debussy Sonatas won Grammy Award nominations.

Friedman was a student of Jascha Heifetz, who was considered the greatest violinist of all time, and Friedman was one of the few violinist ever to solo with Heifetz. Following Heifetz' death two years ago a new compact disc featuring Friedman and Heifetz was released.

tenure as artist in residence at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, and will hold the same position at Yale University this fall.

Kathryn Sincell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, is an alumna of Frostburg State College and holds a master's degree in vocal performance from Southern Methodist University. Receiving honors such as the Meadows Artistic Achievement Scholarship and departmental honors, she has worked with the renowned Metropolitan Opera tenor Thomas Hayward for a number of years. She is presently under the guidance of Eva Likova, noted former soprano with the New York City Opera.

Aside from her duties as executive director and soprano soloist with the Garrett Lakes Festival Orchestra, her other distinguished appearances have included the Seoul Festival in Korea, the Monomy Festival in Cape Cod, the Arcady Music Festival in Maine, and numerous appearances at Southern Methodist University. Her most recent local appearance was with the Garrett Choral Society as soprano soloist in Handel's "Messiah," presented last December.

Jeffrey Marler also studied under Thomas Hayward in Dallas and, while there, performed the role of Dr. Malatesta in the Lyric Opera of Dallas production of Don Pasquale. He has also toured with the Lyric's promotional ensemble, "Opera on the Go." His orchestral engagements include appearances with the Dallas Chamber Orchestra, as soloist in "The Messiah" and the Southern Methodist University Summer Conservatory Festival where he premiered Simon Sargon's "Seven Songs for Baritone and Orchestra."

Marler is also an accomplished stage actor, having been a company member of Theatre 3 in Dallas. He has worked with directors Jose Quintero, Lynn Gannaway, and Jack Eddleman, and was a company production member in the film "Places in the Heart." Like Ms. Sincell, he is also currently studying voice with Eva Likova.

According to Friedman, the Garrett Festival Orchestra is about to receive a major financial boost, as a $3,000 grant is pending from the National Federation of Music Clubs.

There will also be a free lecture demonstration as part of the Music Festival, entitled "The Inspiration of Nature in the Music of Great Composers," conducted by Friedman and Ms. Sincell.

The lecture, funded by the Maryland Humanities Council, will attempt to demonstrate the motivating inspirational force behind the great music we have come to accept so readily in our own lives.

"So many composers were inspired by the atmosphere and flora and fauna of their country surroundings," Friedman said. "Brahms, Beethoven, Berlioz, Bach, Tortini, and Vivaldi are just a few examples of masters so inspired."

Music examples reflecting the natural influences, and discussion of individual composers and their surroundings will be the focus of the lecture.

Tickets to each of the concerts will be $5 for adults and $2 for children and students with ID's. They may be purchased at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, or at the door. Reservations for the performances, which may be made at these locations, are strongly encouraged.

circumstances . . .," they wrote.

But finally they were on the move, through weather that was hard on both men and horses. They were met by bitter cold, rain, sleet, and snow (two snowstorms hit in October alone). The surveying equipment was heavy and awkward. The footing was bad. Horses were injured, or wondered off never to be found and their problems were just beginning.

On October 12, Winslow wrote in his journal: "Last night one of the king's baggage horses fell down a rock and disabled himself so much that he cant stand." The next day, his journal continued: "It began to rain at nine in ye morning and continued all day. Maj. Mayo's horses stray'd away, it continued raining. One of My Lord's baggage horses and Maj. Mayo's is not to be found."

In his journal recordings on October 14, Winslow concluded that their horses were very poor and not able to carry their provisions. It was agreed to make a "cornue" and the company began to fell a tree that afternoon. He also noted that it continued to rain.

That first canoe was completed and launched on October 16. The party stayed in camp through Sunday, October 17, and received news that the king's horse that had fallen down the rock that previous Monday, had died. All this time it had continued to rain. His journal noted that it rained all Sunday night, but Monday morning became fair. "We find that our horses would be very troublesome to us and a great hindrance to the business in hand and of little use, we determined for the greater dispatch to ease ourselves of that trouble to quit them in this place and pursue our business on foot and for the carriage of our provisions to make use of canoes so that we began to make another this morn."

Several of the men, under the leadership of a Thomas Asbhy, after hearing the decision to proceed on foot, left the party. An entry in the journal stated: "...he insisted he would carry his horse as far as he pleas'd, we reason'd with him some time but all would not do, for unless he could do as he pleas'd he would go back and that every one of his men (as he cald them) would go one and all together."

Those disgruntled men hurried back to the Fairfax commissioners and gave a rather uncomplimentary and one-sided account of the survey. This provoked another letter of censure from the commissioners. In that letter they threatened to believe the deserters if work the party had undertaken was not completed that season. They also noted (from Ashby's report) "and we apprehend you have had very good weather." Meanwhile, it continued to rain.

On October 19, Israel Friend was hired as a "pilot" for the party on their journey up the Potomac. Friend, whose home the party had visited near Harpers Ferry, was a cousin of the early Garrett County settlers. Being hired as a guide for the party, he worked for both sides of the question, the King and Lord Fairfax.

The third canoe was finished and launched on October 22 and the party put all the provisions in the canoes and proceeded to survey. However, after five miles Maj. Mayo fell off a rock while surveying and hurt himself so badly that he could not walk and as obliged to travel by canoe.

It continued to rain. Journal reports told of several great falls on the river which made it very hard work getting the canoes over. An entry on October 26 said: "It snow'd two hours, we were oblig'd to stay for our canoes, the river being broad and the waters shoal that they were for it to drag the vessels most part of the way, we had very bad going with rocks close to the river." It was at this point, an obvious low point of the trip, that the surveyors received the commissioner's letter concerning the Asbhy report.

The surveying party toiled on, and through more bad weather and hardships reached the mouth of the "raging river." Their food supplies exhausted, they were faced with starvation.

In spite of Ashby's report, Commissioner Byrd had warmly praised not only the "uncommon skill, but also the courage and indefatigable industry" of Mayo, Brooke, and Winslow.

According to one member of the party, they decided from necessity to kill and eat one of their own surveyors, John Savage, he being "the most worthless member of their party" as a result of failing eyesight. This was reported to Commissioner Byrd who after praising Mayo, Brooke, and Winslow, later wrote: "Neither the unexpected distance, nor the danger of being doubly starved by hunger and excessive cold, could in the least discourage them from going through with their work, though at one time they were almost reduced to the hard necessity of cutting up the most useless person among them, Mr. Savage, in order to support and save the lives of the rest. But providence prevented that dreadful blow by an unexpected supply another way, and so the blind surveyor escaped."

The Savage

Yes, supplies came just in the nick of time to save Savage, and the river by which they were encamped was named in his honor. The Savage River was therefore the first geographic feature in Garrett County to receive a white man's name, and was the only tributary of the Potomac to keep the name given it by the original surveying party.

Before returning east, just before Christmas, the Winslow-Mayo party completed its mission by blazing marks on trees near the supposed headsprings of the Potomac River.

An extensive study of the 1736 survey has been made by Jim Raleigh, of Colts Neck, N.J., vice commodore of the American Canoe Association, who has run the rapids of the Savage River about 20 times. Raleigh notes that at least two maps, showing both rivers were developed, one credited to William Mayo and the second to John Warner.

The "backline," the line between the Rappahannock and the head-spring of the Potomac, was not actually surveyed until ten years later, 1746. Peter Jefferson, the father of Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Winslow, the only man from the first Potomac survey, accompanied by the surveyor Thomas Lewis, were commissioned by the king of England "to run the dividing line between His Majesty and Ld Fairfax from the head spring of the Rappahannock to the head spring of the North Branch of the Potomack."

They returned to the area by an overland route, found the blazed trees marked in 1736, and planted a stone marker at the site on October 22. This was the survey that actually placed the first Fairfax Stone.

According to Raleigh, this survey led to an update of the Warner map showing the backline. The famous and copied Jefferson-Fry Map was also made after this survey. The original Winslow map is still on display at the Enoch Pratt Library in Baltimore, and a large copy of the same map is on display in the Garrett County Historical Museum in Oakland.

The Savage River, though named by circumstance after a mere human, is still a savage, raging river today. And to see the river as it is, and was, gives even more credit to those surveyors who struggled to map the river and open the county to civilization.

Flash!

It was learned just before presstime that another performance slated for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival "Vaudeville Nights," slated for August 10 and 11 at Garrett Community College, will be presented by Dave and Darlene Terlizzi of Oakland.

The Terlizzis are amateur clowns and have been clowning around for several years, particularly at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland where they have established a clown ministry program. They are also active leaders of various Christian youth programs and retreats and were the directors of the Garrett County Teen Center.

Dave is employed by Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Darlene is employed at the Book Mark'et in Oakland.

See story about the Vaudeville Nights program on page 25.

DNR Police Investigate Bear Killing

Maryland Natural Resources Police are investigating the shooting of a black bear on Backbone Mountain at a garbage dump site off Route 135.

The shooting occurred on Sunday morning, May 21, according to investigating officer Walt May.

May said, "It looks like the bear was shot just across the dirt road from the dumpsters and then dragged back onto the road, where it was hauled away."

May noted that the bear reportedly frequented the dump site, and was medium-sized. He stated that help from the public is needed to apprehend the culprit, saying, "This was no hunter that did this."

Anyone with information concerning the crime should call the Catch-A-Poacher number, 1-800-492-1138. The caller may remain anonymous, and will be eligible for a reward. Information can also be called to the regional headquarters of the Natural Resources Police at 777-7771.

Flag Flotilla Being Escorted By Porta-Botes

The 1989 World's Flag Flotilla today announced that the Porta-Bote, a unique folding boat, has been chosen as the official escort for the 150 historic and contemporary sail and paddle boats which is now carrying the International Canoe Federation (ICF) flag up the Potomac River to the Opening Ceremony of the Whitewater Championships on June 15.

According to Fred Bolton, Flotilla coordinator, the Porta-Bote was chosen because of its seaworthiness and versatility. Porta-Botes are used as rescue vehicles and can also be used as in-water platforms. Regal Living, Inc., the east coast distributor for Porta-Bote, has supplied six boats to accompany the Flotilla. Ray Peters, president of Regal Living, Inc. said, "We are proud to be able to take part in this unique and historic journey."

Bolton said Porta-Botes are well suited to the 300-mile upstream journey through whitewater and flatwater. "They are virtually unsinkable and fold down to a four-inch flat surfboard-like configuration for easy storage and portage," he said, "and they weigh only 69 pounds."

A total of 800 craft are participating in one stage or another of the Flotilla, which began in St. Mary's City last Saturday and will end in Cumberland on Wednesday, June 14. A wagon train will carry the ICF flag from Cumberland to Frostburg State University, where the Opening Ceremonies of the 1989 World Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Championships will be held.

SOLEMN CEREMONIES in observance of Memorial Day were held at various locations throughout Garrett County on Monday to honor our nation's war dead. Among those organizations participating in the observance at the Oakland Cemetery was the Garrett Highlander Bagpipe Unit, under the direction of Pipe Major Fred A. Thayer. Numerous veteran and service organizations also participated in the ceremonies, which were concluded with the laying of wreaths upon the grave of the unknown soldier, a 21-gun salute by a firing squad, and the playing of taps.

Kitzmiller Man To Serve Nine Years In DOC

A 19-year-old Kitzmiller man will serve a total of nine years in the Department of Corrections for numerous charges as a result of a hearing held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

James A. Tasker was sentenced by Chief Judge A. Thayer to an additional seven years, which will be served concurrently with the first nine.

The judge had ordered a presentence investigation for Tasker during a March 30 trial after he pled guilty to numerous charges.

Tasker was sentenced to three years for conspiracy, five years for assault with intent to rob, three years for daylight housebreaking, and one year for each of five counts of forgery.

The charges were filed following August, 1988, incidents in the Kitzmiller area.

In another case, Steve A. Burns, 22, Oakland, pled guilty to violation of probation, and his original sentence of one year in the Department of Corrections was reimposed.

The sentence was then suspended, and Burns was placed on two years supervised probation. He was originally found guilty of an escape charge.

Burns was represented by Richard F. Green.

Garrett County Habitat To Host Regional Event

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will be this year's host for the Habitat for Humanity Mid-Atlantic Regional Conference June 2-3.

This conference, which will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, is expected to bring together over 100 participants from Habitat groups from Virginia, Delaware, New Jersey, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Washington, D.C.

Housing is being provided for those from other states in the homes of local Habitat members.

The conference will offer an opportunity for local persons interested in Habitat to join with others in workshop and sharing sessions. The Friday evening program will include supper and an opening message by Claire Williams, director of Affiliate Programs. Saturday will consist of a general meeting, a worship service and 12 workshop sessions. The highlight of the conference will be the HABITATION to be held Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend this presentation with featured speaker Tom Hall. Anyone interested in specific details can call 334-9431.

During the past five years, Garrett County Habitat, with the help and support of local community members, has helped 17 families in critical need provide themselves with decent affordable housing.

Suspicious Blaze Destroys House Near Gorman

A single-story wood frame home located along U.S. Route 50 four miles east of Gorman was destroyed by fire early Saturday, and local fire investigators have determined that the blaze was intentionally set.

Gorman and Bayard fire fighters were summoned to the house, owned by Mai Hebb, Mtn. Lake Park, at 1:03 a.m. Saturday and found the structure fully involved in flames. Also called to the scene was the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Oakland VFD.

According to Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, the fire was apparently set on the front porch of the house. He said the most extensive damage was in the kitchen area; however, he declared the house and contents a total loss, estimating the loss to be $25,000. He said Mrs. Hebb, who was a part-time resident of the house, had insurance on the property.

Carola added that there are no significant leads in the case. Also investigating the incident is James Martin of Allegany County.

Firemen remained on the scene for about three hours.

Second Rabies Case Confirmed

Garrett County's second confirmed case of rabies was announced this past week by Rodney Giotfely, of the Garrett County Health Department.

A raccoon which was killed in the Dry Run Road area on May 19 had the disease and three dogs which were fighting with the animal had to be destroyed. Giotfely said two of the dogs had not been vaccinated against rabies and the third had been vaccinated, but it was with the Norden vaccine, which was not recalled by health officials.

The dogs were owned by the Paul Broadwater family, four members of which are now undergoing rabies shots. Giotfely said the four handled the dogs immediately after the incident with the raccoon and, while it was termed an incidental exposure, it was still recommended that the four receive the series of five shots.

Giotfely said that persons should refrain from touching animals that have been in contact with animals that appear to be rabid for at least two hours.

He also noted that, while this was only the second confirmed case of rabies in Garrett County and the 115th in the state of Maryland for this year, rabies continues to be a real problem.

"Even though there are fewer confirmed cases, that doesn't mean that there are fewer incidents of rabies," he said. "A few years ago we were testing numerous animals, including those killed on roadways. Now we are more selective and are testing only those animals that are involved in incidents like the one at the Broadwater farm."

"It also concerns us that the first case in the county (about a month ago) was in an entirely different region of the county, which means that cases of the disease are not restricted to one area," he said.

Travelers Flock To County For Memorial Day

Garrett County thrived this Memorial Day weekend with holiday travelers in search of clear skies, warm weather and relaxation, according to the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

The Information Booth on Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake opened for the season on Friday, May 26. From Friday through Monday of the Memorial Day weekend, the staff greeted 523 travelers who stopped at the booth seeking information about accommodations, restaurants, recreation and historical sites in Garrett County. The booth is staffed by William Stemple, Mt. Lake Park, and Lois Ruhe, Deep Creek Lake.

The Youghiogheny Overlook Information Center on U.S. Route 48 three miles east of Friendsville was visited by 2,090 travelers over the Memorial Day weekend. These visitors were seeking information about the State of Maryland as well as Garrett County.

While the Information Center on Route 48 is open year-round, the Information Booth on Route 219 on the shores of Deep Creek Lake is open Memorial Day through Labor Day weekend. Both are open seven days a week and are managed by the Promotion Council.

Diplomas To Be Awarded Sunday To Area High School Graduates

Graduation ceremonies will be held at both Garrett County high schools on Sunday, with approximately 380 students receiving diplomas.

Southern High School ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m. on the school's athletic field, with approximately 240 seniors graduating.

Northern High School ceremonies will begin at 4 p.m. on the athletic field, with approximately 140 students in the graduating class.

In the event of rain, both schools will hold their ceremonies in the school's gymnasiums.

The 1989 SHS valedictorian is Courtney Llewellyn Smith, the daughter of Rev. Manning and Kathy Smith, Mtn. Lake Park. The salutatorian is Melanie Nicole Barr, the daughter of Allen and Nancy Barr, of Oakland.

The 1989 NHS valedictorian is Debra Ann Baker, the daughter of Floyd and Patsy Baker, of McHenry. The salutatorian is Gloria Jean Broadwater, daughter of Hubert and Catherine Broadwater, of Grantsville.

Because of new graduation requirements, a top ten percent of the classes was not calculated. According to grade point average, students will receive honor certificates and merit certificates at the graduation ceremonies. A complete story on the schools' valedictorians and salutatorians, as well as a complete list of graduates, will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Brian Messer, 13, Receives Eagle Scout Award

Brian Messer, 13, of Oakland, is the youngest scout ever to earn the Eagle Scout Award in the Potomac Council. He received the award during an April 2 ceremony held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland.

This award is the result of several years work, including the completion of scouting skills, achieving at least 21 merit badges, and completing community service projects, and planning, directing and showing troop leadership in the completion of his Eagle Scout project.

Messer completed his Eagle Scout project during the Fall of 1988. The project consisted of planning and overseeing the construction of an observation/photography deck at Herrington Manor State Park. The project was part of the park's scheduled improvement program, and was under the supervision of Ranger William Murphy.

Messer is a member of BSA Troop 31, sponsored by the Elks BPO Lodge, Oakland. John Smith is the Scout Master of this troop, in which Messer has held various offices. Besides participating in regular scout activities, Messer is also a member of Ahluquog Lodge 540, Order of the Arrow, BSA, and is on their ceremonies team.

Messer received letters of congratulations on his achievement from Senator John Bannabus, Representative Beverly Byron, and Delegate George Edwards.

Brian Messer, son of Andrew and Anita Messer, is an eighth grade honors student at Southern Middle School, Oakland.

THE HISTORY OF MEMORIAL DAY and the impact of the efforts of American veterans on life as we know it today were among the topics shared Monday by Garrett County Sheriff Van Evans, who was the main speaker for Oakland's observance of Memorial Day. Master of ceremonies was Ron Friend, commander of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion and remarks were made by persons representing Garrett Lodge 113, Knights of Pythias; Lodge 2481, BPO Elks; Vietnam Veterans; Chapter 29, Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary; and by Debi Dixon, Garrett County Commander of the American Legion. Music was provided by Garrett Highlander Bagpipe Unit and the Southern High School Band.

Shrine Circus To Be Presented With Summerfest

The Ali Ghan Shrine Circus performances will be coordinated with the special events of Summerfest at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Saturday, June 17, and Sunday, June 18. There will be circus performances at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. on Saturday and 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The Shrine Circus will be produced by Tommy Hanneford, the same producer who brought the Circus to the Mountaintop last summer. Hanneford has arranged another full feature program which will include aerial acts, wild animals, and comedy; all this under the "Big Top" circus tent.

One added feature this year is Miss Charlie, who has come to be known as "North American's singing ringmistress sensation."

When she first joined the Shrine Circus as a clown four years ago, Charlie Hackett, 26, was told she'd never make it as a ringmaster. For one thing, her soprano voice just didn't have the quality needed to fill a huge area, but that didn't stop the girl from Glen Falls, N.Y. She was so serious about becoming one of the handful of female ringmasters that she had her voice surgically lowered.

"Now I have as low a voice as the men in the circus," she says. "I wanted to establish the fact that a girl could do it."

The Harige Clown Unit of Ali Ghan Temple is coordinating the Shrine Circus promotion and local performances. The Harige Unit is composed mostly of Garrett Countians.

Local businesses are being contacted by phone to purchase tickets for the under-privileged in the area. They can take the tickets and distribute them or the Shrine representatives will do that for them. Many businesses participated in this program last year, which was evidenced by "many happy faces" at the circus.

Circus tickets purchased in advance will admit persons to Summerfest and the circus. Without a circus ticket, each adult will have to pay $1.00 at the gate and the ticket will be the same price as advance sales when purchased at the tent.

Tickets are available at Shaffer Ford, Hometown Market, and Marvin's in Oakland, and Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry Plaza. The price is $4.00 for children 12 and under, $7.00 for adults, and $22.00 for a family ticket which admits up to two adults and three children.

Youth Participate In Second Talent Festival

Youth from the Crellin Assembly of God recently traveled to Manassas, Va., to participate in Teen Talent II. Several of the youths received superior ratings and will take part in the finals to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., in August.

The following participants received superior ratings: Tammi Hudnall, monologue; Kristie Snyder, Alayna Beahm, Leslie Peck, Tammie Hudnall, and Chad and Larissa DeWitt, drama; Joyce Noel, short story; and Erica and Steven Lewis, vocal solos and duets.

The youths had participated in the first phase of a teen talent festival and those receiving an excellent continued to Teen Talent II.

The following participated in the first phase and rated excellent: Kristie Snyder, Larissa and Chad DeWitt, Tammie Hudnall, Alayna Beahm and Leslie Peck presented "Behold the Future", a sketch written by Irene Hixon.

Larissa DeWitt received an excellent for her piano solo: "Bind Us Together/Nothing But The Blood".

Thrasher Still Listed In Serious Condition

Eighteen-year-old Scott Thrasher, of Deer Park, remains in "serious" condition at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, this morning, according to a spokesman there.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigating B & E, Thefts

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating numerous thefts that have recently been reported.

Paul David Howdyshe, Jr., Shallmar, reported the theft of a red four-wheeler, valued at $1,500. The vehicle was removed from his property sometime May 24. In addition to having a red exterior, the vehicle has a black seat, and may also be identified by a broken front fender, that had been repaired with shoelaces. The incident is being investigated by Deputy Jeffrey D. Murphy.

Willis Shaffer, of Shaffer Ford Sales, Oakland, has reported the theft of four tires and wheels valued at $1,500. The wheels and tires were taken from a new truck parked at Shaffer's used car lot on Route 219 North between May 26 and 27. According to Deputy Jay B. Sowers, there are no suspects at this time and the investigation is continuing.

Alva T. Weaver III, Baltimore, reported the theft of a Toro 2 speed 5 HP garden tiller and a Craftsman toolbox from his summer home on Yacht Club Road, Turkeyneck.

The theft occurred sometime between September 1988 and May 26, 1989. The items removed were worth $650. The barn which housed the items was locked and the thief apparently gained access with a key. The incident is under investigation by Deputy Charles P. Nolan.

Fannie H. Johnson, Oakland, reported a breaking and entering and theft at a residence on Fingerboard Road, that occurred sometime between April 15 and May 15 of this year. Two easy chairs and four wooden table chairs were stolen. The total loss incurred was $500. Deputy Charles P. Nolan is investigating the incident.

A breaking and entering and theft also took place at the Grantsville Town Recreation/Ball Park early on the morning of May 24. The doors of two storage buildings and a concession building were pried open and $50 worth of green military duffel bags, Pepsi products, candy and bubblegum were stolen. The damaged property will cost an additional $250 to repair. Det/Sgt. Donald W. Tucker investigated the incident. Sandra Elaine Valentine, Oakland, reported a breaking and entering and the theft of her family's three-month-old gray kitten. The incident took place May 28 or May 29. Deputy David M. Stoner is investigating the case.

Wicker With Color!!

Basketweave Upholstery

Wicker — its very name conjures up romantic memories of back porch ambience, mountain get-aways, and peaceful seaside verandas. In fact, perhaps no other furniture medium used in the past 100 years has been so coveted as this sensuous, sentimental handwoven material.

A growing appreciation of the tedious hand labor required to weave, bend, mold, and shape wicker furniture has nurtured the nostalgic sentiment of today's consumers. Antique wicker reproductions possess the inherent ability to harmonize with and adapt to any decorating scheme. From country to contemporary, from Victorian to traditional, wicker's light and summery mystique is rapidly spreading throughout the home.

Election Reflection . . .

We have had several days now to reflect upon the results of the special referendum May 23 which was held to determine whether or not the county commissioners should float bonds to finance the renovation of Southern High School and additions to Northern High School. This newspaper strongly supported the passage of the question, so obviously we were disappointed by its resounding 2-1 defeat.

We could occupy much space here today trying to analyze why the referendum question failed, but we don't see any great value in doing so. It was evident that the great majority of our citizens made up their minds weeks ago on this question and no amount of information or persuasion was going to change their decision.

We could also use this column to rant and rave and chastise the voters of our county for defeating the question. However, such an act would probably be received as "sour grapes" and accomplish nothing positive.

Suffice to say we believe the defeat of the referendum question was a mistake and we predict it will eventually come back to haunt us in the form of more, not less, money having to be spent in the long run on school renovation. Undoubtedly, the Board of Education will be forced to accept a phase-in program for the renovations at Southern High School and, as time passes, the costs will steadily increase. There will probably be some doubling or tripling of some charges, such as architects' fees, each time a new phase of the renovations is proposed. It will be a case of paying $7 million now to do the job right or $10-12 million over the next several years to do the job piecemeal.

We still lay this entire issue at the feet of the Garrett County commissioners, particularly Commissioners Groves and Braskey, who seriously erred on their decision to reject the school board's proposal and send the matter to referendum. They were correct in their guess that the majority of the Garrett County voters (at least the majority of 38 percent of our voters) also believed that the county should not float bonds for this project. But almost ANY issue that involves a tax increase that goes to referendum is going to be defeated, no matter the merits of the project in question. Certainly some of the other tough decisions by this board of commissioners over the past several years, if sent to referendum, would have been overwhelmingly rejected. We believe Groves and Braskey, when considering how they would vote on the issue, placed their own political interests well in front of what is best for the young people of our county.

We also do not believe there would have been a 15-cent tax increase if the bond issue had passed, and we know for a fact that any increase would have been quickly negated by our rapidly expanding tax base. But of course, we said all of that before the election and it apparently made no difference. We will stop now, because we are beginning to feel those sour grapes coming on...

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Regardless of what the Supreme Court of the United States does in modifying or overturning the Roe vs. Wade Decision, the American Life League, one of the pro-life national organizations, is stepping up its campaign to obtain passage of the Paramount Humane Life Amendment. This action will bring closer the day when all babies are protected from merciless and needless abortion. The American Life League is to be commended for their leadership in providing this protection to all American babies. Nothing can stop the Paramount Humane Life Amendment.

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to restate that the Garrett County Section 8 Rental Assistance Project was in no way associated with the abuse of the Program that caused the cancellation of all Mod Rehab contracts across the county. Although our local media did emphasize that the action taken by HUD Secretary Jack Kemp was not related in any way to our work in Garrett County, I have received a number of calls from persons who were unclear about the announcement.

There has not been a single accusation nor has there been any effort by HUD or others to indicate that the Garrett County Projects were in any way tainted. The alleged wrongdoing involved a handful of large developers from around the country who paid large amounts of money to prominent former administration or HUD officials to lobby for their particular projects. These were developments that normally exceeded 300 units. Garrett was scheduled to get 23 units dispersed among six owners.

Secretary Kemp took quick decisive action in response to apparent abuse. In making such a sweeping swath he also hurt small innocent projects, such as the ones in Garrett County.

Sincerely,

Duane Yoder

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to publicly express my appreciation to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and to give my personal thanks to Deputy Sheriff Jeff Murphy. Deputy Murphy came to my aid on Friday evening, May 19, when I was stranded on Backbone Mountain due to car failure.

In addition to securing a wrecker to tow the vehicle, Deputy Murphy then transported me to my destination in Oakland. He was very friendly and professional and I deeply appreciated his assistance. In an era of apathy, it was inspirational to run across a person who is willing to be so helpful.

To Deputy Sheriff Jeff Murphy and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, I say thank you and please keep up the good work.

Harry L. Biggs Jr.

To the Editor:

I have just received and read a petition soliciting signatures to reverse a decision by the administrators of our (Garrett Co.) Health Department. Apparently these people are going to discontinue the services of the professional psychologists currently working in our Mental Health section. These psychologists are to be replaced by lower level personnel, presumably social workers, and only one psychologist.

People near and dear to me have received valuable counseling at the Mental Health. They could not afford the services of a private psychologist and needed this low-cost help. There is no assurance that they will be able to continue receiving this service in the future. Counseling is an on-going thing — if an individual is forced to change counselors or go to an unqualified lay-counselor it could be a big set-back.

The county taxpayers have not been consulted about this decision. The decision apparently was made in Allegany County which currently administers our Health Department. Why isn't Garrett County in control here? Who made the decision to wipe out our staff of concerned, professional psychologists?

The people of Garrett County need to take action now to prevent this foolish action. If personal problems are not dealt with in a counselor's office, frequently they are dealt with by the police and court system at a date and at greater cost.

The cutback is due to take effect on July 1, so immediate action must be taken. By June 10th concerned taxpayers should find and sign one of the petitions being circulated and, according to the information I have here, letters and correspondence should be sent to P.O. Box 633, McHenry, Md. 21541.

I'm signing the petition now.

Thank you,

Rob Smith

To the Editor:

Bob O'Connor, Washington County's indefatigable tourism director, deserves a resounding round of applause from the folks living along Old Route 40 in Maryland, from Boonsboro in the east to Grantsville in the west. It was under Bob's leadership that Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties joined for the first time with the folks in Pennsylvania for the annual National Pike Festival May 20 and 21.

I rode the National Road west during the two-day festival. I was impressed by what I saw and the exciting way in which community after community responded to what took place during our first "go" at an annual 200-mile-long festival celebrating our collective frontier heritage. For some towns, the festival marked the first time their people and organizations had gotten together to celebrate frontier heritage and to welcome visitors who wanted to get to know them better.

Wayne Creek, president of Hancock's newly re-activated Business Association, was ecstatic.

"Many times we have stopped to think how wonderful it would be to see Hancock work together and have a fun time for everyone to enjoy," he said. "Well, it happened this past weekend (May 20-21). Businesses, citizens and organizations in our area enjoyed an Old Fashioned Weekend in the Park. The weekend celebrated the National Pike Festival. With the Washington County Tourism wanting to see communities having festivities of celebration along the National Pike route and Hancock busting at the seams to find some reason to get everyone working together, the timing was set to plan a great weekend for Hancock."

I spent a couple of hours in Frostburg for another festive occasion, highlighted by the unveiling of a giant mural painted on the side of a downtown bank building. The mural celebrates wagon trains coming to Frostburg, enroute west, in the early days of the National Pike. Who had come west to help Frostburg celebrate? "The Carroll county Cloggers," all the way from Westminster!

Traveling as far west as I could go on the National Pike in Maryland, I overwintered in the Garrett County town of Grantsville — Amish country!

What a delightful weekend was offered by the people of Grantsville on this occasion, perhaps the first time so many of its organizations had gotten together for a common cause. Despite some Saturday rain showers, their wagon train made its rounds for the edification of visitors and residents alike. That evening, with a great campfire burning brightly beside the giant and historic Casselman Bridge, a couple hundred of us gathered to hear stories of the lore of the National Pike told by some who had grown up in that frontier time. The next morning, in bright sunshine, another couple hundred folks gathered in a field, with the horse-drawn wagon train as a backdrop, to participate in an inter-denominational church service, followed by a chicken barbecue in the town's park.

In order that we might help draw the people living along the 200-mile festival route together, to share the stories of their frontier heritage, we who publish "Maryland Cracker Barrel" magazine here in Hagerstown, organized "The Great National Pike History and Folklore Competition."

We are somewhat disappointed about the presentation of the Special Olympics. In all other pictures and captions with "normal" people, everyone is identified and outlined as to who won what. In the small section and we did note a picture did make it to

by Sharon King

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.

When Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., was in its early stages, I, like so many of you, did not understand why someone would want to spend time with a dying person and their family members. The secretary of the program would give me a copy of the minutes and the newsletter. Others I worked with were involved and would talk about the need of such a program. I still wasn't sold on the idea. Then came the beginning of a new phase of my life.

In the fall of 1982, my dad, Claude King, had a check-up followed by a biopsy. I took him to Martinsburg VA Hospital on this very sunny Monday, only to have it collapse by being told that he had cancer. We didn't wait to talk to the doctor to see how bad it was or what the plan of treatment would be. He had cancer and that was all that mattered at that time. The trip home was a long and tearful one. From that day on, all our lives changed.

If you're one of those people who believes in the theory "it can't happen to me or my family," be realistic. It does happen. Whether you're rich or poor, young or old, no family at all, or a very large family, death eventually overcomes us all. I, for one, was one of those people. I asked over and over why my dad? He never drank nor smoked, he lived a good life, was a good husband, father and grandfather. No answer ever came. Yet he had cancer.

Christmas 1982 was the "pits." Dad had to have surgery in yet another veterans' hospital in Pennsylvania just three days before Christmas. Christmas eve was spent with my mother, my son, James, and myself eating alone in the hospital canteen, and the next day was like no other than we had ever had.

During the winter months, Dad spent most of his time between the veterans' hospital in Clarksburg and Morgantown, W. Va., taking radiation treatments. This was a very trying time, not only for him but for the rest of our family.

I think once reality took over I tried to look at how I was going to cope with this. In the spring of 1983, I decided to take the Hospice Volunteer Training Class with a friend of mine. I kept telling myself it was for Dad. Then I found out it was for me. The class was full of things that I hadn't even thought of. I wasn't going to be a volunteer, I just wanted know how to handle this terrible blow our family had been handed.

My dad finished his treatments and was able to return to work. He continued to go for his cancer check-ups which were indicating that everything was okay at the present.

In May 1983, our class was over. I learned so much and made many new friends. At this time I volunteered for my Hospice patient. What an experience! As it happened, I had known this person for many years. My life suddenly had more meaning. The time spent with my patient meant as much to me as it did her. In August of that year, she died. Needless to say, I was lost, but it was such a wonderful feeling knowing that I had helped to make the last days of her life as comfortable as possible.

Please put this article aside for the time being and just think. Could this happen to me or someone I love? Be realistic now. It can happen and indeed it does. Dad died in August 1988, not from cancer, but he was taken from us very suddenly.

In September of 1983, I became the volunteer director of Hospice. I also continued to work with the patients and their families. I assigned volunteers to the patients and kept in touch with the volunteers to see how things were going and if there was anything that the patient or the family needed.

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., is a caring group of people helping the terminally ill of Garrett County. All of us have done hospice work at one time or another, i.e. talking or listening to a friend, going to the store for someone, taking someone to the doctor. These are just a few things that our volunteers do for their patients and families. We ask that our volunteers spend at least four hours a week with their patient and family. Let's face it; we all have time that we can give to a good cause.

At this time Hospice DESPERATELY needs volunteer caregivers. The volunteers we presently have are a great group of loving and caring people, but they, too, get tired and go through the grieving process and therefore need some time of their own. Please think very seriously about becoming a Hospice caregiver. Call me during the day at 334-8111 or 895-3111, or after 5 p.m. at 334-8579 for more information regarding our next class which will be held Saturday, June 10, and 17 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Garrett County Health Department's Assembly Room.

Don't sit back and put it off. The need is there now!

Entries came from people living in all six of the counties participating in the festival. In the months ahead, we will be publishing the winning manuscripts which contain local history and folklore that will be of interest and educational to us all.

After returning home from Grantsville after distributing awards to our winners, I received a "thank you" from one of them which let us know (festival leaders and contest holders) that the months of advance work had been meaningful and worthwhile. Wrote John Toston of Oakland, who had researched early Pike history: "Thanks for coming to Garrett County. We appreciate all the work you have gone to in order to get us to know more of ourselves."

ARE YOU A SLOB?

Are you a slob? Do friends and family criticize you for your unneat nature? Are you constantly apologizing for the way you and your home appear? Stop worrying! Take the following test before you join the ranks of dyed-in-the-wool slobs. You may not be a slob at all!

No. 1. When selecting a family pet, do you:
A) carefully choose a short-haired breed of dog that rarely sheds?

B) choose a feline that cleans itself and can do a potty function in a plastic dishpan?

C) buy a goat because not only will it eat all the garbage lying around your house, it will save you lots of trips to the grocery store for milk.

No. 2. When you're visiting the home of a super-neat friend, do you:

A) receive inspiration from being in such a clean house and/or exchange cleanser experiences over coffee?

B) tell yourself your friend's house is clean because she has nothing better to do?

C) bring Zip-Loc bags full of dust and dirt and sprinkle them around her house when she's not looking?

No. 3. When staying in a hotel during vacations, do you:

A) leave the room as neat as you found it?

B) write the house maid a note apologizing for the mess you left the room in?

C) trash the room out beyond recognition knowing that making a mess and not having to clean it up is the best part of any vacation.

No. 4. When the urge to sneeze hits you, do you:

A) hold the sneeze and rush for the nearest designer tissue?

B) sneeze into a dirty shirt hanging from the hamper?

C) sneeze into the dirty shirt you just happen to be wearing?

No. 5. When you get a craving for a bowl of cereal, do you:

A) grab a sparkling-clean bowl from your kitchen cabinet?

B) wash out a dirty bowl sitting on the counter?

C) grab the dog's dish and pour your cereal over the uneaten

Also hoping for a new taste sensation?

No. 6. When your child spills milk on the floor, do you:

A) wipe it up immediately?

B) let the family pet lick it up?

C) let it dry to an unrecognizable crusty blob and stomp it into the cracks of the linoleum?

No. 7. When your family runs out of clean underwear, do you:

A) do laundry?

B) go to Wal-Mart and buy another supply?

C) pull the dirty underwear out of the hamper, spray them with Lysol, refold them and put them in dresser drawers?

No. 8. When finishing an after-dinner smoke, do you:

A) put the cigarette out in a nearby clean ashtray?

B) poke the cigarette into uneaten food on your plate?

C) avoid the disgusting smell of a smoldering cigarette by dive-bombing the fading butt into your coffee cup?

No. 9. When you clean out your car, do you:

A) use a small trash bag and a damp sponge?

B) use a shop-vac and a lawn and leaf trash bag?

C) drive down a country road at a high speed with the car windows rolled down and let velocity be your vacuum?

SCORING: Score 1 point for all A answered questions. Score 2 points for all B answered questions. Score 3 points for all C answered questions.

If your score totals 9 points, you are uptight and particular and have no business taking this test. If your score totals 18 points you are not a slob, yet. However, you expend too much energy on being neat. Relax: slobdom is just around the corner.

If your score totals 27 points, you are to be congratulated. You are a first-class slob and should come out of your cluttered closet and hold your head high. After all, whoever said, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" must have owned stock in Amway!

We want to sincerely thank you for contributing in a substantial way to the efforts of the Garrett Referendum Fact Committee. Quite frankly, you did not have to make the contribution which you made and as a result of the vote it was obviously for a losing cause. Looking on the positive side of your contribution, however, we take it as a sign of your belief in the future and are gratified to know that you and others feel that way.

We want you to know that we will continue our efforts for the young people in our public schools who will ultimately be our future. We are pleased to know that you, too, share this view.

AARP — Saviors of the Elderly?

I cannot believe that with the millions of subscribers and powerful lobby that AARP supposedly has in Washington that they stood by and condoned the forty percent increase that Prudential Life Insurance declared.

Could it be the inexperienced new leadership of AARP that caused this unjustified raise? It certainly shocked me when I received the letter informing me of this outrageous increase.

What will happen to those on fixed income; many only get a very small Social Security check?

I am positive there are thousands like me, who do not approve of this recent action, claiming that catastrophic care law is the reason for this drastic increase.

Just recently my neighbor had a stroke and went into a nursing home. Immediately his wife had to sell their home. This is very discouraging for those who have worked most of their lives to enjoy a much deserved retirement with dignity and peace of mind!

I think we need to copy our mother country, England, and wake up to the fact that main-certainly needs it. But what was on many people's minds was why did Southern not accept the money first offered by the Commissioners/State Dept. Renovate like they did at Northern, save raising taxes, the election fees and most of all, the large amount of interest to be paid back?

And No. 2, Mr. Mayfield, if you will only read the figures, you will certainly see that at least 7 or 8 Southern end precincts where children live who attend Southern High School voted the majority "against" the bond issue! And stranger yet, did you fail to notice the fact that your three largest precincts, East Oakland, West Oakland and Mt. Lake Park had only app. 200 votes separating For and Against! Or had you thought perhaps we on the northern end couldn't count?

So you see, Mr. Mayfield, it is simply this: The people on both ends have spoken! Why make a negative comment about the northern end when we all have worked for years to have the good relationship we now seem to have between Northern and Southern?

Good luck to Southern for its renovation.

Thank you!

REACH, THROW, ROW AND GO — Since 1985, the ranger staff at Jennings Randolph Lake has been presenting educational programs to students and faculty in area schools to promote public awareness and the need for basic water safety training. Pictured above are students from Dennett Road Elementary School with Ranger Bill Donnellan. In the photo, kindergarten student Nickolas Walthall is "rescuing" fourth grader Shawn Smith. The programs emphasize the proper use of personal flotation devices (PFD), how to throw a ring buoy, and the four basic principles of water rescue, which incorporate the words reach, throw, row and go. The rangers point out that the first thing that should be done is to try to reach out to the victim. The reach can be extended by using an oar, branch, or towel. If that fails, rescuers should throw anything that will float toward the victim. The last two words are only for those who have access to a boat and are specifically trained in water rescue. The rangers emphasize that, unless one is experienced in water rescue, he should never try to swim out to help a victim, because the end result will most likely be two deaths by drowning. Anyone wishing more information may call the lake office at 359-3861.

STORES*How to protect and beautify a new deck.

New Wolman® RainCoat® Water Repellent with Natural Wood Toner is perfect for new decks because it can be applied immediately before the damage from sun, rain and temperature change begins. And at the same time, it replaces the "green" look of new pressure-treated wood, giving you the richness and warmth of natural cedar or redwood.

Surface preparation is important for good results. Make sure your deck is dry and free of dust, dirt and mildew stain. Then apply Wolman® RainCoat® Water Repellent with Natural Wood Toner to help protect against cracking, splitting and warping caused by weather damage while providing the rich natural look of cedar or redwood.

How to treat a weathered deck to new beauty.

That dingy, weathered-gray, worn out look is a combination of sun damage, dirt and mildew stain. You can make it look beautiful with Wolman® Deck Care Products. First, an application of Wolman® Deck Brightener will prepare the surface and brighten the wood by removing ground-in dirt and mildew stain. This first step is important to achieve the best results. Next, apply Wolman® RainCoat® Water Repellent with Toner to protect against the weather and to achieve the natural look of cedar or redwood.

Did you know that a living trust may be beneficial to you?

Many of my customers feel they must open a large trust account to receive any benefit from our service. This simply isn't true. As a matter of fact, I often suggest beginning with a smaller trust account. This will allow my customers to experience the advantages of our trust services. Usually our clients choose to increase the size of their account, after they see the result of our services.

At First United, there is no minimum amount required to open a trust. Our trust department is available to serve your individual needs, whether you need to save for a nest egg or plan for a complicated estate.

A First United trust may benefit you in many ways! To find out more about how a trust service may help meet your specific needs, please contact me at 334-9471. I will be happy to meet with you at your local First United community office or visit with you in your home, to discuss your financial needs.

CLEAN UP, PAINT UP WEEK was recently sponsored by the Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville. According to Mayor Spencer R. Schlossnagle, the event was deemed a huge success. Friendsville volunteers removed old furniture, worn out tires and appliances; manicured lawns and vacant lots; planted flowers; painted residences and businesses; and just generally cleaned up! Mayor Schlossnagle declared, "Not only is Friendsville known as 'the friendliest little town in Maryland,' but it can be commended as one of the cleanest towns in Maryland, as well." Pictured above left, Hobart Griffith is planting grass seed on Maple Street. ## A Hearing Aid Could Change Your Life

Are you having trouble hearing dinner conversation or your favorite TV program? Do you find yourself asking people to repeat what they've said or to speak up? If you have these symptoms often, you may have a hearing loss.

Fortunately, a hearing problem doesn't mean you have to miss out on life. If you are like millions of people, you may need a hearing aid.

When properly fitted, a hearing aid can help you hear what you've been missing — whether it's quiet conversation, a good joke, or the latest movie blockbuster.

But, how do you buy a hearing aid? Where do you start? First, you should have a hearing evaluation by an audiologist who holds a Certificate of Clinical Competence (CCC) from the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

If test results reveal that your hearing may be helped with a hearing aid, the audiologist will perform more tests to determine the best type and model of aid for you.

All hearing aids work similarly and have the same basic parts; but, they do not all look the same. There are five basic styles of hearing aids, but more than three-quarters of hearing aids sold today are canal or all-in-the-ear models that are very small and not easily seen.

The type of hearing aid for you will depend on your hearing loss as well as practical needs such as the ease of putting the hearing aid on, changing the battery, and adjusting the volume control.

If you are fitted for a hearing aid, be prepared to hear some sounds you have never heard before, or at least haven't heard in a long time. You may also notice that some speech sounds sound different than the way you think they should.

Remember — keep your expectations realistic. It will take time to adjust to a hearing aid. But, by working with your audiologist, you can learn to maximize the benefits of a hearing aid and once again enjoy listening to your favorite TV program and contributing to the latest discussion at the dinner table.

In game two, Kevin Combs picked up the win with relief help from Mark Rohrbaugh, Largent, and Bobby Orr. Cooper led Garrett's offense, going three for four and scoring twice, while Yokum and John Sherbin recorded two hits each in four at-bats.

Mark Shaver recorded three hits for Somerset in the second game. He and Brad Shavlis had the only hits in the opener.

Northern Girls Wrap Up Season With Two Wins Over Southern

The Northern High girls' softball team wrapped up its season with a pair of wins over cross-county rival Southern last week, 16-6 and 18-3, leaving Coach Bob Yunker's young squad with a final 6-8 record.

The Rams got on the board first when Ann Umstot walked in the first inning and was singled home by Melinda Evick. The Huskies responded with two runs in the bottom of that frame when Tracy Teats walked, Christie Jones singled, and both came home on a triple by Michele Beeman.

The Rams came right back in the top of the second to take the lead again, as Julie Jackson reached on an error, Heather Mallow and Marcy Stemple both walked, and Umstot reached on a Northern error which scored Jackson. Shelly Stuck then walked to force in Mallow and Linda Welch singled to plate Stemple, giving Southern a 4-2 lead.

The Huskies erupted for eight runs in their half of the second to put the game away. The runs were scored on nine walks, three errors, and a bunt single by Audra Speicher. Karen Wilhelm, Becky Leight, and Jenni Bowser all picked up RBIs.

Northern added three more runs in the third when Wilhelm and Jones walked, Leight hit into a fielder's choice, and Kelli Iden rapped a run-producing single.

Three straight walks to Stuck, Welch, and Evick, plus a Northern error and a single by Lisa Lewis gave Southern two more runs in the fourth inning, but Northern added a pair of inurance runs in their half of the fourth on singles by Wilhelm and Beeman.

Northern iced the contest in the fifth with one more run, as Iden walked, Cara Wachter singled, Jennifer Birkby walked, and Teats walked with the bases loaded.

Bowser earned the win on the mound, her second of the season, despite yielding 11 walks. She gave up only two hits and fanned three batters. Evick was tagged with the loss.

The Huskies maintained their momentum as the second game began, quickly moving out to a 5-0 lead in the first two innings behind senior pitcher Jennifer Birkby.

Northern's first runs were scored when Birkby doubled, Wilhelm and Jones walked, and Leight, a freshman, smacked a three-run triple. Beeman singled to bring home Leight and Wilhelm later scored again on an error and two passed balls.

The Rams broke into the scoring column in the third when Stuck walked, Linda Welch reached on an error, and two more walks and a fielder's choice scored Stuck and Welch.

However, it was all over for Southern when the Huskies recorded 11 times in the bottom of the third. Three walks and seven hits accounted for the runs. Wilhelm's single drove home two runs, while Jones, Leight, and Tammy Dodson also rapped run-producing singles. Other hits were recorded by Bowser and Rebecca Fratz.

Southern's final tally came when Mallow walked and later scored on a run-producing walk to Linda Welch.

The Huskies added two final runs in the fourth, as Jones singled and scored on an error and Bowser smacked an RBI single that scored Beeman.

Birkby went the distance to earn her third win of the campaign, as she gave up only one hit, walked eight, and struck out two. Evick, who was relieved by Elaine DeBerry in the second inning, was again tagged for the loss.

Members of the Northern team honored during the annual NHS Athletic Banquet were: Audra Speicher, most stolen bases (12); Karen Wilhelm, best offensive player (.456 batting average, 16 RBIs); Christie Jones, best defensive player (.885 fielding percentage); Jenni Bowser, most improved; and Jennifer Birkby, most valuable player. ## "A Man in the Making!"

There comes a boy a-down the pike,
Sauntering along, so careless-like;
Scuffing the dust with a brownied foot:
His pockets bulge with woodland loot.
Thinking, dreaming, he moves along
Scarcely aware of the linnet's song.
All unaware of the powers awaking,
A boy today: but a man a-making.
Who can but love that jaunty air,
The roguish smile, the mop of hair,
The graceful tilt of that torn brim.
A style that's only just for him.
Don't be fooled by outward show,
There's something fine you ought to know.
Etiquette laws he may be breaking;
Never-the-less, here's a man a-making.
O, laddy-man, could you but see
The character that you may be,
And deeply purpose in your heart
In noble life to play a part.
If all of us who smile at you
Would lend a hand to help you through
And all together use the plan,
That changes a Boy to a noble Man.

Staff Meeting Held Tuesday By Commissioners

The heads of various county agencies met with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday for their regularly scheduled staff meeting.

Economic Development
Tom Jones, director of Garrett County Economic Development, introduced new staff member Doug Green. Green has been assigned as project manager for various special projects and grants.

Jones noted that three crews are currently working at the Savage River to prepare for the upcoming whitewater event. He said, "We will be able to meet the deadline, but just barely." He reported that 25 nations are currently planning to participate, and numerous ambassadors from various countries are also planning to attend.

Board of Education
Superintendent of Garrett County Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage noted that schools will close on Friday, June 2, and staff will finish up on Monday, June 5. The summer maintenance program will begin at the schools shortly.

Sanitary Commission
Wendell Beitzel, director of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, reported that they are currently advertising for bids for the Deep Creek Lake sewage storage facility. A site has been selected, and land has been acquired for the facility. However, the commission is still awaiting ARC funding, which may delay the awarding of a contract.

The new facility will enable the commission to add at least 500 new taps to the system, allowing the moratorium to be lifted.

Beitzel explained that the storage facility will be used to hold the sewage at the ends of the system during weekend peak times. It will then be released during smaller flow periods.

Beitzel also reported that the Crellin Sewer project is back underway, noting that the wet, muddy weather caused delays.

Community Action
Duane Yoder, Garrett County Community Action director, reported that the child daycare center in Accident will be closed down this month. A local church will be opening a large daycare center, which will accommodate those children currently at Accident.

Promotion Council
Diane Wolfe, director of Garrett County Promotion Council, reported that the summer advertising campaign has been completed. As a result, 11,300 information packets were mailed out, as compared to 9,000 last year.

Wolfe noted that the Maryland Office of Tourism gives a certification test for travel counselors throughout the state each year. This year, out of 45 counselors who took the test, first and third place went to counselors at the Youghiogheny Overlook. They were Robin Smith and Lee Tackett.

GCC
Dr. Stephen Herman, Garrett Community College president, reported that over 50 students graduated from the college on May 20.

Summer school is currently underway, with two sessions scheduled to be held.

Dr. Herman noted that the governor signed legislation which appropriates monies for community colleges. The legislation will result in $170,000 in additional state funds to GCC.

Another bill will provide 50 cents for every private dollar raised towards an endowment fund, up to a limit of $250,000. The funds must be raised within the next three years and collected within six years (beginning July 1). A college foundation has been formed, and the first fundraiser will be held this fall.

Lake Clean-Up Termed A Success By Lake Manager

The annual Deep Creek Lake Clean-Up was held last weekend and assorted debris and an estimated 500 old barrels were hauled to the county landfill according to Eric Schwaab, lake manager, who said landowners around the lake "worked hard" on Saturday to clean-up trash and debris from the lake shoreline. Those who were unable to transport debris to the landfill placed it along designated roads where it was picked up by volunteers and Department of Natural Resources Personnel. Garrett County Roads Department Personnel were on hand to compact the barrels and transport them to the landfill.

The Deep Creek Lake Management Office, along with the Property Owners' Association and the Businessman's Association, noted their appreciation to all those who participated in the clean-up. "This continues to be a great effort where the whole community pitches in to retain the natural beauty of Deep Creek Lake," Schwaab said. "Only a combined effort of all those involved could accomplish the overall task."

Schwaab said the Garrett County commissioners and Paul Shockey and Terry Spear of the Garrett County Roads Department were "instrumental" in the effort. From the central collection point, county roads personnel crushed barrels and hauled over a dozen loads to the landfill on Sunday. Roads Department employees involved included Joe Tichinel, Ron Bray, Tommy Carr, Jeff Friend, Doug King, and Larry Lewis. The county landfill aided the effort by extending weekend hours and making special

Cumberland Rotary Club Supports Russian Whitewater Slalom Team

Rev. Edward (Bo) Chapman, president of the Cumberland Rotary Club, recently presented a check to Senator John N. Bambacus, president of Whitewater Championships, Inc., to help sponsor the Russian Whitewater Slalom Team competing in the 1989 World Whitewater Canoe/Kayak Championships this June on the Savage River, Bloomington.

Transportation has been provided by the Soviet Union for the team, however, upon arrival in the states, lodging and meals at the Frostburg State University Athletes' Village will be provided by the Cumberland Rotary Club. This is much in the same manner the American Team was hosted during their visit to Russia earlier this year.

Each team has volunteers who serve as hosts once they arrive in Western Maryland. Barbara Proudfoot, Oakland, is the volunteer hostess for the Russian team. The hosts spend time with the teams, help them with protocol issues, plan sightseeing, picnics and other social events adding a personal touch to their visit. The hosts also have knowledge of the country and speak the language.

The Russian team has seven athletes and will be accompanied by three companions. They will be the guests of the Cumberland Rotary Club at their June 20 meeting. Members of the Rotary will assist Ms. Proudfoot in arranging sightseeing and activities in the Cumberland area.

Anyone who is interested in helping to sponsor a team upon arrival in Western Maryland should contact Linda Sisler at Whitewater Championships, Inc., by calling (301) 387-4282.

GCC Building Trades Students Complete Training

A luncheon in early May for local contractors, guests, staff, and Garrett Community College students of the JTPA building trades program marked the approaching conclusion of this year's JTPA building trades program. The day provided an opportunity for students to demonstrate the thoroughness of their training which has been offered by GCC in cooperation with the Western Maryland Consortium. Local employers took advantage of the occasion to learn more about the students work and training and to consider them for employment in the building trades.

Students, who ranged in age from 19 to 55, began their studies by learning basic math for carpenters, building trade terms, blueprint reading and retail selling fundamentals. After "hands-on" learning in frame carpentry, they specialized in either masonry, retail, wiring, or finish carpentry. Throughout the 18 weeks, they learned building techniques by constructing a small building, which is now for sale and a gazebo. During the luncheon, contractors were able to inspect the building projects and the construction site and meet with instructors and students. They also viewed a video which provided an overview of all phases of the training.

Now that students have demonstrated competencies in all areas, they are joining the local work force as carpenter helpers, masonry helpers, electrician helpers and in retail construction positions.

While most of the students have already been hired, several well qualified applicants are still seeking immediate employment. Employers who would like to review resumes and learn more about the students capabilities are encouraged to contact Sue or Sandy at GCC, 387-6666, ext. 169.

Fifty-One GCC Students Awarded Diplomas May 20

"What you see is what you'll be," was the message given to 51 graduating students by Dr. James Tschechtelin at the 17th Commencement of Garrett Community College May 20.

In his address to the graduates, Dr. Tschechtelin, executive director of the Maryland State Board for Community Colleges, encouraged them to look at their mental mirrors in setting future goals, and once the image is clearly defined, never to stop working toward that goal.

Dr. Tschechtelin was introduced by college president Dr. Stephen Herman who congratulated the graduates on their achievements. After the address, Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of Instruction and Student Services, presented the graduates to Wayne Hamilton, chairman of the Board of Trustees, who conferred the degrees and certificates.

Following the conferral of degrees, outstanding students were recognized with special honors by Dr. Nancy Priselac, dean of College Development and Institutional Research.

Recipients of scholarship awards were: Sonja Yelovich, the Glen Ranyol Scholarship; Nancy Buchanan and Eric Rice, the Ann Dilgard Scholar-

The May meeting of the Grantsville 4-H Club was held May 1 at the Grantsville Sportsman's Club. Eighteen members were in attendance. President Jamie Porterfield called the meeting to order and pledges were led by Dean Green.

The Grantsville Pop Booth Committee members reported that they needed members to work in the booth during the festivities. The Float Committee reported that any member interested in participating on the float should contact any member of the committee. The Fundraiser Committee reported that they will be selling 50/50 tickets and holding a bake and hoagie sale. This will help to raise money for the club trip.

The Accident Fire Company will be holding a presentation for the members at the next meeting. A carpool will be held for the members to reach the site.

One member will be attending 4-H Camp.

The Club voted to donate money to the 4-H Club Foundation.

The next meeting will be held June 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the Accident Fire Hall. All new members are invited to attend.

Library Corner

There will be no pre-school story hour at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland on Thursday, June 8. The children's room is being painted, and new carpet installed.

CRIME SOLVERS

The case of the week for the Garrett County Crime Solvers program is the request for information about a crime which occurred between October 30, 1988, and May 5, 1989.

Police report that unknown persons broke into Mountain Marine's boat storage shed at the Garrett County Fairgrounds and removed four Sony AM/FM cassette radios and six Babb all-weather speakers from boats which were stored there. The total loss in this case is $3900.

All leads have been exhausted, and Crime Solvers is seeking the help of the public. Anyone with information on this crime or any other unsolved crime should call Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975. If the tip leads to the arrest and charging of the persons responsible, the caller is eligible for a reward of up to $1000. The caller need not give his name, and will not have to appear in court.

DILIGENT SEARCH

We all know the shock of losing something we value. A misplaced book or valuable papers—even a treasured heirloom—gone astray can frustrate us for hours or even days. Diligent search ends the mystery, but the memory of our exasperation lingers.

Yet while the loss of something material is easily grasped, many of us never realize that we may be missing important intangibles...like the secret of a richer, more satisfying life.

This search needn't take long, though. Millions find the faith that fulfills—every week in their place of worship.

So can you.

TRADITION! TRADITION!

June 4, 1989

Background Scripture: Joshua 4
Devotional Reading: Psalms 44:1-8

If you have seen either the stage or motion picture versions of Fiddler On The Roof, you will remember that poignant song in which Tevye proclaims the enduring ethos of his people: "Tradition! Tradition!" But, alas, Tevye and his fellow Russian Jews find it harder and harder to cling to their time-honored traditions as the claims and attractions of the changing world whittle away at them. Ironically, most of the challenges to the cherished traditions come through his own children.

RE-INVENTING THE WORLD

Much of the appeal for Tevye's story is our realization that his struggle is the struggle of every generation: maintaining the bedrock traditions of the community in the face of ever-present change. And Tevye's agonizing response to this challenge is instructive for us. Although, again and again Tevye had to give in and accept changes, he and his people clung to those elements of their tradition which could survive the challenge. In other words, Tevye and his people adapted to the new world, they did not give up.

Today, it would seem, lots of people, instead of keeping whatever traditions they can, have simply given up all the links with the past and surrendered to whatever culture seems to be prevailing at the moment. As always, the challenge to our traditions comes from the youth, who traditionally want to "re-invent the world." But the most telling factor in this situation is the placid acquiescence of the older generations in dispensing with the values and mores of the past. It would seem that many people are committed to preserving absolutely nothing of the past. Although there are many traditions of all kinds that are worthy of preserving, I am speaking specifically about our spiritual heritage—the essential meaning behind the traditions we try to preserve. The essence of that which we need to remember, if not the trappings.

WHAT MEAN THESE STONES?

In Joshua 4 we find the beginning of a Jewish tradition that has managed to keep alive a vital event that happened thousands of years ago. When the people of Israel under the command of Joshua passed over the Jordan River to attack Jericho, they experienced the power and providence of God. So that they would never forget that great experience, God commanded them through Joshua to set up a memorial of twelve stones—each symbolizing one of the twelve tribes—in Gilgal. "When your children ask thee, fathers in time to come, 'What do these stones mean?' then you shall let your children know, 'Israel passed over Jordan on this day ground'" (Joshua 4:21,22).

We need "stones" such as these in our family, community and national life—memorials to help us remember the things which we can forget only to the impoverishment of both the present and the future. The world about us is in a state of constant and rapid change. Like Tevye, we will find there are lots of things which we cannot hold on to. But the experiences behind the "stones," the things we must remember, these we can and must carry on from one generation to another.

Monthly News WHAT REALLY IS DRUG ABUSE?

Although commonly used by authorities to describe the indiscriminate use of those drugs associated with "turning on," "kicks," and "trips," it also is the unwise use of any drug. Too much aspirin, constant use of a nose spray, excessive dependence on a cough syrup would all be good examples of drug abuse.

Actually, you abuse your body when you rely too much on over-the-counter, non prescription medications when you are sick. Rely instead on the knowledge and experience of your family doctor.

TV CLASSICS

Peter Falk carries popularity of Columbo into the '80s

By John Haakenson

Rarely, if ever, has a genuine TV classic departed the airwaves, been resurrected years later, and been able to duplicate its original success. Almost everyone—from the Clametts of Beverly Hills to the Taylors of Mayberry—has been dragged back for TV reunion movies, but they all seem to lose some magic over the years.

Leave it to Lt. Columbo, who always left his culprit with an arrest warrant and an incredulous reaction to his success to dumbfound the TV experts.

Just as all the victims (and nearly everyone else) tended to underestimate the little guy's methods, Columbo's TV skeptics are finding out appearances are deceiving.

Peter Falk first appeared on a regular basis as Lt. Columbo (no first name) on the NBC Mystery Movie in 1971. Columbo was one of three original rotating elements of the series, the other two being McMillan and Wife and McCloud.

Columbo was, by far, the most popular of the three segments. It was so successful that had star Peter Falk agreed to it, Columbo could have become a weekly series on its own.

The reasons for Columbo's success—both in the 1970s edition and in ABC's new series—have stayed the same. The plot is unchanging, yet always entertaining, with the murderer committing his evil deed in the opening minutes of the show, then matching wits with the seemingly dopey Columbo until you know who comes out victorious. The real joy has always been in watching Falk as Columbo. As Falk once put it: "He (Columbo) looks like a slob, and most of the time he acts like one. But while he appears to be absorbing nothing, he's actually absorbing everything."

Slob indeed. Columbo drives a beat-up car (the same car in 1989 as in the original), wears a dirty, rumpled trench coat, and acts for all the world like an incompetent bumbler. He is fond of his dog, who often travels with him.

As hard as it may be to believe in retrospect, Peter Falk was not the producers' original choice to play Columbo. They first approached Bing Crosby about the part. Crosby, 67 at the time, reportedly declined because the filming would interfere with his golf game. Thank heaven for small favors.

Oh, and just one more thing: be sure to catch Falk's act every third Monday on ABC.

Martin Kove

By Polly Vonets
Q: I would like to know about Martin Kove. You never hear about him. You see him a lot. I really like his acting. —Pamela Ramsey, DuBois, Penn.

A: Martin Kove, who is now starring on CBS' Hard Time on Planet Earth, was born on March 6, in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he attended elementary and high school. He began his career in New York, eventually arriving in Hollywood. He made his film debut in The Wild Party, followed by Mr. Billon, The Karate Kid and Rambo: First Blood Part II. In addition to his role as Detective Speck on Cagney & Lacey, his TV credits include Code Red, We've Got Each Other, The Edge of Night, Captains and Kings and Cry for the Strangers. In his spare time, Kove participates in celebrity tennis tournaments, playing racquetball, skiing, and training his horse. He lives in the West Hollywood area with his wife.

Q: I would like to know how I can write to Ed McMahon, host of Star Search, regarding a tie-breaking system that I've put together instead of the current semi-final format that he has. —Mark Revere, Hopewell Junction, N.Y.

A: Write to Ed McMahon, c/o Star Search, Television Program Enterprises, 875 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.

Q: I recently watched a salute to Gregory Peck but they never showed any part of a movie with Greer Garson that I loved. It was called Steel Town. Greer Garson's mother worked as a housemaid for Peck's family and she would come and help her mother at the house. Please tell me if I can rent the movie. —Eileen Hodges, Lexington, N.C.

A: The movie you are seeking is not called Steel Town. You are looking for The Valley of Decision, starring not only Garson and Peck, but Lionel Barrymore, Donald Crisp, Marsha Hunt and Preston Foster. It was released in 1945 by MGM. Check your video store.

Q: I recently saw Donnelly Rhodes on The Golden Girls. Is he the same actor that played Phillip Chancellor Sr. on The Young and the Restless? I had heard he died years ago in a car accident. This is my first time to write about any star and I am a grandmother of three. Please answer. —Lee Grubb, Manteca, Calif.

A: For a grandmother of three, you have very sharp eyes, a good memory and hooray for you—you are willing to try something new. Yes, that was Donnelly Rhodes on The Golden Girls. He was written off Young and Restless when his character died in a car crash on the series.

It's Murphy's Law that opposites usually end up as roommates—in real life and on-screen. The sitcom's source of humor usually grew out of the ying and yang of two different personalities clashing with force. Not all pairings were so disastrous, however. And in the end, the fighting never killed the friendship, although it came close a few times. See if you can match these bosom buddies from shows old and new.

Stephanie Kramer likes the fact that her role as Dee Dee McCall on Hunter is as strong as the male lead played by co-star Fred Dryer.

Stephanie Kramer relishes her 'Hunter' character

By Linda Sparkman

"I knew from the time I was a very little girl that I wanted a career in show business," said Stephanie Kramer (Hunter's Detective Sgt. Dee Dee McCall). "My mother was an artist and a fashion model, and my father was a classical violinist, so there was a strong element of the arts in my background."

And when Kramer enrolled at the University of California at Northridge, it wasn't long before she realized that perhaps she wasn't pursuing the proper course of instruction.

"I dropped out of Northridge and enrolled at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts West. I wanted professional training, and I found I wasn't getting it at the college level."

With this oneness of purpose, Kramer was spotted by an agent from the William Morris organization as she performed on the day of her graduation. He immediately signed her as a client.

Schooled in singing and dancing, Kramer is a mezzo soprano who has performed in scores of regional theater presentations and musicals. She was also a member of the Francis Farmer Memorial Players, a repertory group formed by fellow members of her class at AADA/West. She performs and writes "country rock 'n' roll" and has played several clubs with a back-up band.

The unusual spelling of Kramer's first name is not the original. Named Stephanie Kramer by her parents, she changed the spelling to Stephanie when she learned that there was already a Stephanie Kramer enrolled with the Screen Actors Guild.

When offered Hunter, Kramer jumped at the opportunity to play the female partner of a male cop. "I liked very much the fact that the female lead was just as strong a character as the male, but just happened to be a woman," she said. "I liked her determination and her focus."

Dr. Ruth Westheimer discusses the concerns of today's teenagers on her new half-hour advice series What's Up Dr. Ruth, Saturday, June 10, on Lifetime.

CABLE HOPPING'Tales from the Crypt' premieres

By Stoney Black

The year is 1952. Somewhere under the bed sheets of America, a young boy with a flashlight finishes his new Tales From the Crypt comic book. With a knot-tied stomach and ears tuned to every sound from his closet, it's a sure bet that he won't get a wink of sleep.

Those days are back, but updated to reflect the newer video-conscious consumers kids have become. Instead of an illegal comic, the culprit keeping today's youngsters wide-eyed through the night will be the TV set. HBO is gambling on that. With a cadre of directors proficient in the horror genre, the network will unearth nail-biting, knee-buckling stories with the cable premiere of Tales From the Crypt on Sunday, June 10.

Tales begins on somewhat of a hair-raising note with a trio of lurid scenarios titled Trilogy.

In the first story, Santa has a surprise for Mother when he comes hurrying down the chimney. She's just killed her husband and the curmudgeon does not take too kindly to her naughtiness. Secondly, a vigilante stalks the streets in search of criminals who have escaped justice, but his hunt ends with him living in his worst nightmare. And in the final scenario, a demented doctor transplants the brain of a cat into a derelict. The vagrant and the doctor team up to stage death-defying stunts.

Get the Vivarin ready, it's going to be a long night.

SCHOOL BUS CONTRACTORS TALK SAFETY — Because public school buses in Maryland can be no more than 12 years old, they are among the safest in the nation. This point was brought out strongly in a recent report issued by the federal government after a disastrous bus accident in Kentucky. A bus manufactured more than 12 years ago does not have the many routine safety features found on the modern school bus. This was one of the subjects discussed at the recent annual meeting of the Maryland School Bus Contractors who are from 23 counties and Baltimore City. A motorist rushing by a school bus, with its warning lights flashing while students get on and off, is still the most dangerous moment in school transportation. Attending the meeting in Solomons Island from Garrett County School Bus Contractors were, left to right, Randall Glass, Swanton, president of the County group; Delmer Yoder, Accident director; George Wassell, vice president, and Wanda Wassell, contractor, both of Bittinger. The State group will be meeting in Garrett County in the summer.

Mother-Daughter Dinner Held By Bethel Women

The United Methodist Women of Bethel United Methodist Church of Mtn. Lake Park held their annual Mother-Daughter Dinner in the church fellowship hall recently with over 100 in attendance. The group was welcomed by Doris Goldsborough, president, and the invocation was given by Karen Hickman, vice president.

After the covered dish dinner, Mrs. Goldsborough introduced Mary June Harvey, Romney District secretary of the United Methodist Women, who spoke briefly.

An original poem entitled

"About A Little Girl" was read by Joy Buser. The poem was written by Iola Hasenbueher, cousin of Mrs. Goldsborough.

The entertainment provided during the evening was under the direction of Judy Upole. Piano solos were presented by Kendra Alexander and Deana Ritchie. The youth group of the church presented a humorous skit. Those participating were Susan Hershman, Missy Davis, Jennifer Glatfely, Heather Upole, Amy Davis, Tracy and Angie Teagarden, and Deana Ritchie.

The traditional potted plants were distributed by Sue Hershman, treasurer, and Helen Henline, secretary. Recipients were: oldest mother, Mrs. H.M. Weeks; youngest mother, Jeannie Friend; mother traveling the furthest distance, Zeta Clay; youngest grandmother, Nancy Fazanbaker; and mother with most children, Mildred Savage. Receiving smaller flowers in other categories were Nancy DeWitt, Gwendolyn Sanders, Joy Buser, Nettie Peck, Sally Ritchie, and Donna Truley.

The benediction was given by Mary June Harvey.

Committees for the dinner were: program booklet, Sue Hershman and Ann Glatfely; favors and table set-up, Linda Ritchie and Sandy DeWitt; program, Judy Upole; and kitchen, Dolores Hayden and Geraldine Turney.

Cable Systems And Triax Merge

Cable Systems USA, Associates, of Tionesta, Pa., has become affiliated with Triax Communications Corporation of Denver, Colorado. Triax is a privately-held cable communications company operating cable TV systems in Arizona, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin. Cable Systems USA's cable TV systems are in Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia.

"Customers of Triax and Cable Systems USA will benefit from this arrangement," stated James DeSorrento, chairman and founder of Triax. "By combining the resources and experience of our two organizations, we have increased our program purchasing power and brought together new resources. We plan to continue to make improvements and additions to the cable TV systems formerly operated by Cable Systems USA," DeSorrento said.

The name of systems operated by Cable Systems USA will be changed. Beginning in June all the systems will operate under the name of Triax Cablevision. "Only our name is new. We are not planning to move our business offices. We are not planning on changing our telephone numbers. And most importantly, the same people are here to make sure that your cable TV service is the best it can be," stated J.S. DiBacco, director of operations for Triax USA.

IRS Opens New Office In LaVale

The Internal Revenue Service recently opened a new office in the Braddock Square Mall, just behind First Federal Savings and Loan. Located at Winchester and Vocke Roads in LaVale, the new office is approximately five miles from its former location on the second floor of the Old Post Office Building in downtown Cumberland.

"The State of Maryland District Court offices needed more space at the Old Post Office Building, so we started looking for new space," explained Phil Brand, IRS Baltimore District director. "Now, with ample free parking and street level entrances at the mall, we feel community access to our new office will be better."

The office hours are weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Taxpayers may receive telephone assistance by calling the IRS at 1-800-424-1040, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

When the Marriott Corporation and Pepsi Cola Company signed on as co-presenting sponsors of the 1989 World Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Championships, the organizers of the event, Whitewater Championships, Inc., had the backing and prestige to succeed in making the Championships truly a world class event, according to Don Storck, WCI executive director.

"The support and involvement of these two major sponsors have helped us plan a major international, event of Olympic proportions," Storck said. The Championships will be held June 11-25 on the Savage River in Garrett County.

Several additional sponsors joined rank through cash donations and in kind support, to further aid efforts to stage the '89 World's. "We simply would not have been able to successfully bring about an event of this magnitude with all of the associated ancillary activities without the extensive support we have received from our sponsors," Storck said. The 1989 Championships now has the support of nearly 30 different sponsors ranging from Marriott and Pepsi as Presenting Sponsors, to many official sponsors and suppliers. Others sponsoring the Championships include: Bausch and Lomb, Inc., C&P Telephone Company of Maryland, C&P Yellow Pages, Document Solutions, First United National Bank & Trust, Fleetwood, GTE North, The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Mad River Canoe, Marsh Mountain Nursery, Motorola, Perception Kayak, Inc., Prime Computers, Inc., River Runner Magazine, Riversport, State of Maryland, USA Whitewater, Inc., Westvaco Corporation, Wisp, Cruise American, Duplex Products, Executive Telecom, TWR, and the Whitmer Company. Storck indicated the level of effort and monetary investment required to successfully plan and implement the Championships are "very substantial" and the backing and support of sponsors is key to this success.

Over 40,000 spectators, athletes, volunteers, and members of the press are expected to attend the World Championships, which will be covered by national television on NBC Sportsworld and by other news media. Further information on the event and all related Whitewater activities can be obtained by calling 1-800-552-3915 or contacting Whitewater Championships, Inc., Box 689, McHenry, MD 21541.

Goldstein Talks On Economic Impact Of Flag Flotilla, Whitewater Event

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the World Whitewater Championships, scheduled to take place on western Maryland's Savage River in June are expected to have an estimated $10 million economic impact. "But that's only part of the story," he said at kick-off ceremonies for the World Flag Flotilla, held in St. Mary's City on Saturday.

"This World Flag Flotilla, which will wind its way to western Maryland, together with the Audi Yachting Race Week, scheduled for August 20-25 at Solomon's Island in Calvert County, will add greatly to the $10 million economic impact from special marine-type events this summer," he said.

Just consider the media expense of the championships. This event will be televised nationwide. This flotilla and the whitewater championships are giving us a chance to show the world what we have here in Maryland," Goldstein said.

The 600 paddleboats and others joining the flotilla are contributing as much to the excitement as the 600 international world-class athletes who have set their sights on the Savage River competition," he said. "The flotilla will carry the world flag to the kick-off ceremonies for the whitewater championships in western Maryland."

"Whether it is the Great Chesapeake Bay, its peaceful and beautiful tributaries, or the mighty Savage River, we turn to our waterways for sustenance, relaxation and fun. Our love for the water and the love of boating has drawn us together as a state and as a people — from Maryland's oldest county, St. Mary's County, established in 1636, to our newest county, Garrett County, established in 1872," he said.

Woodlot Valuation Circular Issued

"How to Estimate the Value of Timber in Your Woodlot," a primer on setting values for standing timber and logs, has been published by the West Virginia Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station.

The circular, written by WVU Forestry Professor Harry Wiant, is intended for people who are not professional foresters, but who have an interest in knowing how much the trees growing on their farms or forest lands are worth. It is expected to be particularly helpful for those who may be planning to sell some or all of the timber from a piece of land.

Wiant offers explanations of common timber measuring and sampling practices; short descriptions of log and tree grading; and practical advice on dealing with timber buyers.

The book is illustrated with more than two dozen line drawings, and contains sample tally sheets for use in recording data about trees, and a sample timber sales contract.

Volume tables for logs and trees, which allow the user to convert the collected data into an estimate of board feet of lumber, are also included.

Health Officer Gives Precautions On Tick Exposure

As warmer weather approaches and individuals are spending more time outdoors, the risk of tick exposure increases. According to Dr. Jane Fiscus, health officer for the Garrett County Health Department, some ticks carry Lyme disease or Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever and it is important to know what to do if one finds an attached tick.

"Remove ticks with tweezers by grasping the tick at the skin level and giving a firm, steady pull until it comes away. If tweezers are not available, fingers protected with a tissue should be used. Do not smash the tick. Destroy it by burning or flushing down the toilet. Then wash your hands with lots of soap and water. Treat the wound to prevent local infection as you would a splinter," Dr. Fiscus said.

"Record each tick attachment on a calendar the day it happens so you can check the date if signs of illness develop later. A sudden moderate to high fever which occurs in the next 10 days may be Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Early Lyme disease may be a mild flu-like illness and an expanding bulls-eye-like rash at the site of the bite often appears during the first 31 days. If any of these symptoms occur following a tick bite, call your doctor. Early treatment is necessary to prevent serious and sometimes prolonged illness."

It is estimated that one percent of ticks in Maryland carry Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever and an unknown percent are infected with the cause of Lyme disease. A different kind of tick is involved with each disease. Some ticks are about the size of a pinhead.

Dr. Fiscus said the best protection against tick bites is to avoid brushy, tall grass and areas where it is known that ticks are present. Ticks wait on brush about 12 to 18 inches off the ground and snag onto passing animals or humans.

Those unable to avoid tick infested areas should inspect children and themselves for ticks every three to four hours and at the end of the day. "Look along the hairline, in the hair and ears, and where clothing is snug-under belts, armpits and groin," Dr. Fiscus said.

"Dress to exclude ticks. Wear long pants and long-sleeved shirts and wear broad brimmed hats. Since ticks crawl upward, tuck pants into socks and shirt into pants. Keep shirtsleeves and collar buttoned," she continued.

"Use tick repellants on clothing where it overlaps or has an opening (sock-pant, belt-line, sleeve cuffs, collar) and across the shoulders, down the outside of arms and around the brim of the hat. Sprays which repel ticks are available at hardware, garden and outdoor stores. Protect your eyes when applying repellent by holding hands over the eyes after closing them," she concluded.

"Enhanced" ACT Test Will Be Given In October

High school students who take the ACT (American College Testing Program's standardized college admissions exam) are anxiously awaiting the new "enhanced" ACT, to be given for the first time in October 1989.

Approximately one million high school juniors and seniors take the ACT each year. The redesigned ACT will offer a more detailed assessment of a student's reading, English, science and math skills. It required more abstract thinking and emphasizes to a greater extent the skills acquired through the study of academic subjects. The new math assumes a wider range of math ability. The new science test will primarily focus on scientific concepts, instead of outside knowledge. The reading and English tests feature a greater emphasis on logical analysis of reading passages and on writing style and organization.

"I think that students who in the past felt that they could prepare for the ACT on their own by reviewing their schoolwork, want outside help to focus on critical thinking and problem solving," said Stanley H. Kaplan, founder and chief executive officer of the Stanley H. Kaplan Educational Center, Ltd., the test preparation organization. "We have known about these changes for some time, so our ACT course already reflects these changes, in time for the enhanced ACT. We are the only ACT preparation course that is completely up-to-date on the new exam," Kaplan added.

The ACT is the dominant college entrance exam in 28 states in the Midwest, Southeast and Rocky Mountains. The new "enhanced" ACT is the first major revision since the exam was created in 1959.

Accident Elem. Students Have Class Pen Pals

Students in Mrs. Maxine Miller's fourth grade class at Accident Elementary School have been participating in the "Weekly Reader" Writing Pals Program. The students have been corresponding with Ms. Kim Jech's class in Dover, Oklahoma, a small rural town in which many of the residents are employed in the oil industry.

Recently, Ms. Jech's class sent a package containing maps and other information about the state of Oklahoma. Included in the information were several sheets describing the state emblem, bird, flag, flower and many other symbols. Information on the state capital was also received, along with newspapers describing the events which will be held in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Oklahoma Land Run. The Run was a day set by the United States government during which people wishing to stake their claims to land in the Oklahoma Territory could literally run to the land they wanted and claim it as their own. Thus began the settlement of the Oklahoma Territory.

In addition to receiving the opportunity to participate in valuable learning through this functional writing program, the class recently received a gift from "Weekly Reader" and Polaroid. A complimentary Polaroid Sun Camera and a pack of Polaroid 600 Plus film arrived at the school so that students could send photographs of themselves to their pen pals. They also received a display poster to hold the Polaroid photos which Mrs. Jech's class sent in return.

When asked about the "Weekly Reader" Writing Pals Program, one of Mrs. Miller's students, John Ortiz, replied, "It is interesting to write to new people in new states like Oklahoma. It is really nice to have pen pals." Aaron DeWitt said, "I like it because you get to meet new people." Misty Callahan stated, "I like writing to pen pals because it's fun to write letters and get letters." Jessica Perry said, "I think it's great! It's a lot of fun, and I have two great pen pals!" Heather Malcomb agreed, "I like writing to them. It's fun." Tommy Tusing added, "I think it is a great way to learn about other states."

Teen Challenge Group To Present Musical Concert

The "Eternal Connection" from the Teen Challenge Training Center of Rehoboth, Pa., pictured above, will present a musical concert at Mtn. Lake Park Camp Meeting Grounds on June 4 at 2:30 p.m. This will be the first of six special programs at the campground this summer.

According to a Camp Meeting official, every member of this group has known a life of drugs, alcohol, and crime from which they have "been delivered by the power of Jesus Christ." Their ministry, which takes them to prisons, schools, churches, and straight to the streets, is designed to appeal to all ages.

Teen Challenge, the largest non-profit rehabilitation program in the world, has also been founded by the group in its field. The Training Center, now 25 years old, has selected this ensemble from its 250 students. ## My View

From The Barn Door

by Bernice Kepple

June Dairy Month has been set aside to salute America's dairy farm families and the contribution they make through the nutritious food they produce — milk.

The theme for June Dairy Month 1989 is "Love Them With Milk." Many of us take pride in key words spotted throughout the last two sentences — family, love and milk. These three words have held together generations of farm families across the nation who have made their living milking cows.

We know the words in the promotional theme mean to show someone you love them by offering them something as good tasting and nutritious as milk, but the words have a broader meaning to families who produce that milk. The job is not always easy, and the love and respect family members gain for each other working together to reach their goals by producing milk develops the kind of fiber that forms the backbone of this country.

The family farm gives the dairy industry a "personal touch" in a nation moving towards larger companies, computerization, and streamlined operations. With the humanistic approach to business often lost, it is refreshing to know that America's 200,000 dairy farmers still provide that personal touch as they milk their cows twice a day.

During June Dairy Month, The Republican joins in the salute to America's dairy farm families. Here, as in other parts of the nation, generation after generation of dairy farmers have passed qualities on to their children that have made them staunch citizens respected in their communities. In the coming weeks, you will read about farm families who have been dairy farming for generations. Dairy producers have again been invited to nominate their favorite cows to be pictured in the farm section. You will travel along with school children as they tour two Garrett County dairy farms. You will learn about the latest technologies. And you will read about one couple's two daughters who have both been Garrett/Allegheny Dairy Princesses.

Dairy farm families hard work and dedication provide an abundant supply of nature's most perfect food — milk. It all begins with that personal touch, and concludes with the pride taken in the accomplishment. The key words then — family, love, and pride — are an American tradition. And they are alive and well on America's dairy farms.

Labels Will Reveal If Food Is

In their quest to serve meals which are nutritious and delicious, more shoppers are turning away from synthetically produced foods and returning to those made with natural ingredients.

But the burden remains on the shopper, who must identify between foods grown on the farm and those made in the laboratory.

The most reliable source for this type of information is the product label. The dairy industry has been identifying real milk and milk products with the "Real" Seal since 1980.

The symbol can only be found on real milk, cream, half and half, butter, sour cream, evaporated milk, ice cream, natural and processed cheeses, cottage cheese, and yogurt.

Each product must conform to certain quality standards, identified by law, before the seal can be affixed to the package.

One major complaint from consumers is that imitation products are not required to conform to any standards. Shoppers cannot be sure of what they are buying and serving their families.

Even the U.S. Food and Drug Administration defines the word "imitation" to mean "nutritionally inferior."

Restaurants and food companies are responding to consumer demands for real foods. McDonald's, Domino's Pizza, Burger King, and Hardee's, for example, are just a few of the eating establishments identifying their real milk and milk products with the "Real" Seal.

For quality and taste, shoppers know to look for the "Real" Seal for dairy foods which their families can enjoy.

Polled Hereford Association Sets '89 Field Day

The Mason Dixon Polled Hereford Association will hold its 1989 field day on June 10 at Flat Stone Lick Farm, with Les Midla as host.

As in past years, the association will supply the meat and drink. Those attending are asked to bring a covered-dish, some eating equipment and good conversation.

Those needing directions are asked to call Dr. Les Midla at 412-267-3325, or Larry Chaikic at 412-529-2739.

The annual Mason Dixon Polled Hereford Cattle Show will be held on the Fayette County Fairgrounds, Dunbar, Pa. Interested persons may contact Larry Chaikic for more information.

Thank You, Mickey, For Being Our Guardian Angel

by Bernice Kepple

June Dairy Month seems to be the ideal time for this dairy farmer to say "thank you" to a very unusual guardian angel. Guardian angels, you know, come in all sizes, shapes and forms. This special guardian angel was Mickey Mouse. To be more exact, it was a dark blue sweat shirt with a large full-length Mickey Mouse figure on the front.

Sounds crazy? Ya, I know. But it happened. It happened the year Mickey celebrated his 60th birthday, which was probably a magic year and gave him the power he needed to watch over us here at Acorn Acres. Mickey came to us on the back of another special person, our veterinarian. Yes, our veterinarian wears a Mickey Mouse sweat shirt (at least he can wear it again, now that I've returned it!).

The saga began two winters ago when this dairy farm family was experiencing an extended run of bad luck. The culprit turned out to be a toxin in some silage we had purchased. But it was such a sneaky culprit that it was hard to pin down. It caused a general drop in milk production, but seemed to hit the cows one at a time. For that reason, the time stretched out to a month, and then two months until some comparisons could be made and some conclusions developed.

In the meantime, our veterinarian, who had been called when the first cow became sick, seemed to be needed every day or two. Changes were made; tests were run; we discontinued feeding the silage, but problems persisted. We lost three good cows, with tests showing ulcerated stomachs. Many more cows were saved, but related problems seemed to develop — reproduction problems, miscarriages, stress, and poor milk production. All the while, the weather was cold and cruel, the family was sick and scared, and there seemed to be no end in sight. And then Mickey came!

He came on one of the veterinarian's emergency calls. Another cow was off feed and was down. During the examination, the veterinarian took off his jacket and his sweat shirt. As soon as he could, he grabbed his heavy jacket and put it back on as protection from the cold, and the sweat shirt was forgotten. He left the farm with a grim face but encouraging words. The cow had a chance, it simply depended on how its system handled the toxin and the medication.

After he left that day, I found the sweat shirt hanging over a stallion. "Oh well," I thought as I hung it up on a nail, "he'll probably be here tomorrow, and I'll give it to him then." But by the next day the cow was a little better, and there were no new emergencies. So Mickey continued to hang on the wall in the barn.

That was a turning point, and as unbelievable as it seemed, we didn't have to call the veterinarian again. After a week, I took the Mickey Mouse sweat shirt to the house to wash it, intending to return it on my way to work one day. But as I folded the shirt and saw Mickey's smiling face looking up at me, without knowing why, I laid it with the good tablecloth in the dining room cupboard and closed the drawer.

Its owner never remembered his missing shirt, and as spring and summer passed by, Mickey stayed with us weaving his good-luck spell, being our guardian angel. Late last summer, I called the veterinarian with a question. In the course of our conversation, he said, "My, it's been a long time since I've had to come out to the farm." I asked him if he had ever missed his sweat shirt, and told him I thought Mickey had been watching over us, and he said, "You better keep it then! I did keep it, I had it well over a year before I returned it."

Of course it has become necessary to call a veterinarian again from time to time, but never has it been for such a serious, extended, mysterious problem. Yes, the spell is broken and I've returned the sweat shirt. If Mickey has any power left, I hope someone else might benefit from it. So to Mickey Mouse, I want to say "thank you for the year you spent with us;" and to the sweat shirt's owner, Dr. Rick Jenkins, I want to say, "thank you for making it possible. (And do you have anything else you can leave on your next trip — a cap, gloves...)"

Milk Production Higher In April

Milk production in the 21 selected states totaled 10.8 billion pounds, two percent above production in these same states for April 1988. Production per cow in the 21 selected states averaged 1,263 pounds, 33 pounds more than April 1988. The number of cows on farms in the 21 selected states was 8.54 million head, nine thousand fewer than March 1989 and 89 thousand fewer than April 1988. During the January-March period the 21 selected states produced 65.1 percent of the U.S. production.

If the producers in the remaining 29 states not surveyed on April 1 followed the same pattern as the 21 states, the U.S. production would be 12.7 billion pounds for April 1989.

Farmland Values Rise Six Percent

United States farmland values rose an average of six percent from February 1988 to February 1989, following a three percent increase a year earlier. The February 1989 value of $597 per acre was the second consecutive yearly increase after five years of declining values. However, the 1989 value was still 27 percent below the record $823 in 1982.

When adjusted for a five percent inflation rate during the preceding 12 months, the real value per acre in 1989 increased slightly from a year earlier, but remained 47 percent below the 1980 high.

DeWitt Advises Farmers To File Acreage Reports

"We encourage all farmers to file an acreage report and protect their crop acreage bases, whether they participate in farm programs or not," William F. DeWitt, chairman of the Garrett County ASC Committee, said.

By certifying crop acres, DeWitt said farmers establish documentation for future crop acreage bases as well as eligibility for different benefits if they decide to participate in farm programs. In the counties that grow tobacco, it is also very important to report these acres and the producers that share in the crop. By reporting these acres you keep up the history of your plantings, so that when the next referendum time comes up we will have your correct acres on file.

"It is mandatory for farmers who are participating in this year's programs to file an acreage report," said DeWitt, "because without it, they are not really a program participant." He said the report must be filed in order to determine the level at which producers are eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other program benefits.

The acreage reports contain crops and acreage planted, the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres to be devoted to the acreage conservation reserve. "When producers report to our office, they can review aerial photographs of their farm and pinpoint the fields in which the crops are grown," the ASCS official said. This information is then documented for program compliance and crop acreages.

Final certification dates for all crops are: for oats, barley, and rye, June 1, and for corn, grain sorghum, and hay, July 15.

The dairy industry in the Southeast Dairy Industry Association area generates an estimated $9.2 billion of economic activity in the area and creates almost 250,000 jobs.

Slugs Could Be a Problem in Corn

Slugs can become serious pests in no-till fields, fields with heavy applications of manure or thick weed cover. Also, our weather conditions are ideal for slugs. I have found slugs this spring in vegetable plantings. Slugs feed at night; thus, late evening observations are required for population estimates. Turn over clods of dirt and surface trash around five plants at ten locations and determine the average number of slugs associated with each plant. Populations of five or more slugs around each plant could cause economic damage up to the three-leaf stage of growth. There are no pesticides registered for their control. What I am recommending for control is an application of 30% liquid nitrogen at 20 gallons per acre. Best control is obtained at night when the slugs are actively feeding.

Another Potential Corn Problem — Cutworms

I will be surprised if we don't have more than usual trouble with insects this spring. Wet weather and delayed plantings make crops more vulnerable to insect damage. If you are treating for corn rootworm, you may not have to worry about the cutworm. Lorsban, PennCap-M, Pounce, Ambush, and Diazinon are all registered for cutworm control. Check each field twice a week from the spike through the 5-leaf stage. Leaf feeding is the first sign that cutworms are present. Look for small, irregular holes in leaves and cut plants. You should look for leaf damage caused by young cutworms too small to sever corn seedlings. If cutworms are present, examine at least 10 sets of 20 plants throughout the field and record the percentage of cut or damaged plants. At the same time, look under clods and trash and dig 1 to 2 inches deep around the base of damaged plants to find cutworms. As a general rule, a rescue treatment should be applied before the three to five-leaf stage of 10% or more of the young plants show fresh leaf feeding and cutworms are present. At the three to five-leaf stage, treatment should be applied if 5% of the plants are cut and there are 4 or more cutworms per 100 plants.

AFB President Comments On Suit Against EPA

A lawsuit filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council against the Environmental Protection Agency will heighten the pesticide residue debate and fuel efforts to pass food safety legislation currently being considered by Congress, the American Farm Bureau Federation warned this week.

"What the NRDC and others have charged is inconsistent and puts a risk several pesticides that are used on a variety of crops," said AFBF President Dean Kleckner.

NRDC has charged that EPA is violating the law because it is using a risk vs. benefits assessment for pesticides rather than a no-risk provision.

"The risk vs. benefits assessment is called for by the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. The no-risk assessment is required under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. EPA is only following one law that happens to conflict with another law," Kleckner said.

"It is our opinion that EPA is right in recognizing the benefits of pesticide use," he emphasized.

The lawsuit also is likely to intensify the debate on legislation introduced by Rep. Henry Waxman (D-Calif.) and Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), Kleckner said.

"Farm Bureau opposes the Waxman-Kennedy bill as it is currently written," the farm leader emphasized. "Farm Bureau also believes that the 'Delaney paradox' must be addressed and settled once and for all. The Waxman-Kennedy bill would eliminate the Delaney Clause, but it also would eliminate current authority for EPA to consider the benefits of a pesticide when setting tolerances.

"We can only hope that NRDC lawsuit, unlike its earlier report charging that certain pesticides are causing cancer in children, will not create more overreaction to agricultural chemical use, which has already hurt farmers and consumers," Kleckner said.

"The issue of food safety must be addressed in the proper arena," the leader of the nation's largest general farm organization said. "It must be addressed scientifically and rationally, not emotionally."

Kleckner will testify next week on the Waxman-Kennedy legislation before the House Energy and Commerce Committee's Subcommittee on Health and the Environment.

The NRDC, the California state attorney general, the AFL-CIO and Public Citizen have filed a federal lawsuit challenging EPA's use of the risk vs. benefit assessment in approving the use of at least 20 pesticides. The group has charged that processed foods — such as baby foods, juices, cereals, oils and tomato paste — are permitted to be sold with concentrated levels of pesticide residues.

In addition, the groups have petitioned EPA to repeal the tolerances on seven agricultural chemicals that are used on a variety of crops. Some of the chemicals have already been voluntarily cancelled by manufacturers.

The chemicals targeted by the petition include:

Benomyl — a fungicide used on a variety of fruits and vegetables.

Chlordaneform — an insecticide used on apples, cotton and several other crops.

Primary concern is residues showing up in milk, meat, fat from cattle, hogs, poultry and mutton that have consumed treated products. Manufacturers agreed to voluntary cancellation in February 1989. Existing stocks are being used up.

Dichlorvos (DDVP) — an insecticide used on fruits and vegetables is currently under special review by EPA.

Dicofol — an acaricide used on a wide variety of fruits and vegetables. Most uses were canceled by EPA in 1986, although some uses in California, Arizona and Texas are still permitted.

Mancozeb — a fungicide used primarily on apples, potatoes, tomatoes and onions. It is one class of EBCD fungicides that EPA will propose cancellation of some uses in early June.

Phosmet — an insecticide used on a variety of vegetable, fruit, nut and field crops.

Trifluralin — a popular herbicide known as triflural, it is used on a variety of crops.

Winter Wheat Production Up

Maryland winter wheat production for 1989, based on May 1 conditions, is forecast at 10.76 million bushels, 19 percent above last year's 9.01 million bushel production. If this production is realized, it will be the largest Maryland production since 1926's 10.78 million bushels, but 10 percent below the record production of 11.90 million bushels recorded in 1910.

Winter wheat yield, as of May 1, 1989, is forecast at a record 53 bushels per acre, equal to the yield recorded last year. Wheat is expected to be harvested from 203,000 acres, 19 percent above 1988's 170,000 acres and the largest area harvested since the 257,000 acres harvested in 1953.

United States winter wheat production is forecast at 1.43 billion bushels as of May 1, 1989. This is down eight percent from the 1.56 billion bushels produced in 1988 and is the lowest production level since 1978. Harvested area, at 41.0 million

Nominate Your Favorite Cow To Be Featured During Dairy Month

"Milk — A Gold Medal Winner" is the theme for the 1989 celebration of June Dairy Month. The Republican Newspaper would like to recognize cows belonging to area dairymen who are "gold medal winners" in the eyes of their owners.

To nominate your favorite cow, send the following information to The Republican, c/o Bernice Kepple, farm editor, P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. Information needed includes the cow's name, production record, reason for nomination, owners' name and address and phone number.

All nominations must be producing dairy cows, however, high-producing cows will not be the only ones picked to be featured. Your reasons for nomination may be that the cow was the first heifer calf born on your farm, or your child's pet cow, or a cow with unusual markings, or a variety of other reasons.

The owners of the cows

chosen will be contacted and an appointment made for a photo to be taken. That photo and information about the cow and her owners will be used in The Republican's farm section sometime during the month of June. A 5" by 7" black and white copy of the photo used in the newspaper will be mailed to the owners of the cow as a keepsake.

Cows to be featured will be chosen by The Republican's editorial staff. All nominations should be mailed to The Republican by June 15.

All dairymen in Garrett and the surrounding West Virginia counties are invited to give their "gold medal" cows some recognition. Mail your nomination today.

acres, is up three percent from last year. However, the current harvested-to-planted ratio of 75.0 percent is the lowest since the 1951 ratio of 71.4 percent. Yield prospects are for an average of 34.9 bushels per acre, down 4.3 bushels from last season. This would be the lowest average yield since 1978.

'88 Maryland Milk Production Down

Maryland milk production decreased four percent in 1988 to 1.4 billion pounds from 1.5 billion pounds. The annual average number of cows was 109,000, down 5,000 head from a year earlier. Cash receipts totaled 185.6 million dollars, down five percent from the 1987 total of 195.7 million dollars.

United States milk production increased two percent in 1988 to 146 billion pounds. The annual average number of cows, at 10.2 million head, was one percent less than the average in 1987. Cash receipts from marketings of milk during 1988, at $17.7 billion, showed no change from 1987. Marketings totaled 143 billion pounds, up two percent from 1987. An estimated 2.24 billion pounds of milk were used on farms where produced, unchanged from 1987.

"These are the most pressing needs now," Kleckner said. "Additional measures may become necessary as the summer progresses."

Drought-Area Farmers In Need Of Hay, Water

Livestock producers in the hardest hit drought states need help in getting hay and water to their animals, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

In an appeal to Agricultural Secretary Clayton Yeutter, AFBF President Dean Kleckner warned that conditions continue to deteriorate in certain areas of the country requiring immediate attention.

Hay is in short supply and very expensive in areas hard pressed by the drought, the farm leader said. Farm Bureau is requesting cost sharing for transportation of hay and forage purchased by eligible producers from areas outside the normal trading region. For those wishing to move their livestock to available grass, the farm organization is requesting cost sharing of transportation to and from available grazing.

Kleckner said drought conditions are especially critical in the western corn belt and winter wheat growing regions. "We're receiving reports of producers transporting their livestock from the hardest pressed areas to points as far away as Arkansas and Wyoming to find suitable grazing."

Kleckner also urged Yeutter to authorize a cost-sharing program for help in developing emergency water supplies. Citing funds still available under the Emergency Conservation Program authorized in 1988, Kleckner called for 50 percent cost-sharing of projects such as construction or deepening of wells, installing pipelines and developing seeps.

"These are the most pressing needs now," Kleckner said. "Additional measures may become necessary as the summer progresses."

DAV VAN TO VISIT — Oakland area veterans and their families aren't alone if they're concerned about the effects of Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) benefit changes on their lives. But they'll get straight answers — free of charge — when a national service officer of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Oakland on June 12. The DAV van will be parked from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the corner of Liberty and Second Streets. The DAV veterans' benefits expert on board is fully qualified to help veterans and their families file new and reopened claims for the full range of veterans' benefits. Veterans need not be DAV members to take advantage of these free services. The DAV has sent its field service vans to communities across America for 15 years now. To date, half a million veterans, dependents and survivors have used the free services offered by the DAV national service officers staffing these traveling offices. Their questions covered a broad range of programs, including disability and educational benefits, Social Security disability payments, VA medical care, military benefits, and veterans' employment and training programs.

Open Canoe Event Stated June 22 On The Savage

Mad River Canoe, of Waitsfield, Vermont, will present an exhibition highlighting the many facets of canoeing during the 1989 World Whitewater Championships at the Savage River in Garrett County. As the official canoe sponsor of this event, Mad River will depict the changing world of whitewater canoeing on Thursday, June 22, on the Savage.

This presentation featuring the open canoe, the watercraft design of North American heritage, will develop an awareness for the speed and capabilities of this unique craft in heavy rapids. Expert paddlers will execute a variety of maneuvers using canoe designs which illustrate the many changes which have taken place over the last 20 years since Mad River took an active role in whitewater competition.

The program will include a freestyle exhibition of paddling technique including eddy turns, peel outs, ferries and even canoe rolls that once were only considered possible with kayaks and decked boats. There will also be an open canoe slalom competition featuring many of the top U.S. open canoe paddlers using the latest whitewater racing designs.

Tickets for the slalom race can be obtained from Ticketron offices by calling 1-800-543-3041 and through local outlets in Garrett and Allegany counties. Ticket prices including parking and transportation are $12.00 per adult and $4.00 per child 12 years and under.

For more information, persons may contact Rob Center, Mad River Canoe, P.O. Box 610, Waitsfield, VT 05673; 1-800-552-3915.

Orr Is Realty Sales Associate Of The Year

The Garrett County Board of Realtors recently announced that Richard Orr, Mountain Lake Park, pictured right, has been named Garrett County Distinguished Sales Associate of the Year.

Orr is the father of three children, Jessica Linn, 12, Richie II, 10 and Erin Lee-Ann, 5, and is actively involved in their many activities. He also finds time to participate in membership in the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland Zoning Appeals Board, and Dennett School P.T.A. He is assistant coach of the Oakland Raiders Youth League football team and past president of the Manta Ray Swim Team, as well as chairman of the Membership Committee of the Garrett County Board of Realtors.

Formerly self-employed in a service industry, Orr began his career at Garrettland Realty in 1986 and became a "Million Dollar Producer" the very first year. He continues to exceed that goal and has achieved over five million dollars in listing and sales volume this year. He was appointed project manager of Villages of the Wisp in 1987 and, according to a Garrettland Realty spokesman, was instrumental in its success, coordinating the sale of over 100 townhouse units. He has been responsible for all aspects from initial planning to sale of a 20-lot residential development in Mt.

Lake Park which is 80 percent sold out. He also remains active in the single family residential market.

Orr will represent Garrett County realtors on June 18, 19 and 20 in Ocean City, where he will be honored at the Maryland Association of Realtors annual convention with distinguished realtors from other state associations.

Guard Family

The Guard's son Gary (Leslie G. Guard Jr.) still lives near home and has his own business, Guard's Trucking. The whole family agrees that he's at home on the farm helping whenever he can.

Dorsey Ray and his wife, Wanda, also live nearby and have three sons, 6-year-old Jeremiah Ray, and 4-year-old twins Michael Walter and Mitchel Garrett.

Both Gary and Dorsey were very involved in FFA while they were in high school. Gary placed second in the state tractor driving contest his senior year, and Dorsey served as an officer for the North Garrett Chapter.

Youngest daughter, Marie, (jokingly referred to as "Daddy's baby girl") was the 1978 Garrett/Allegany Dairy Princess. She and her husband, Ronn Wiehler, live in New York City, where Marie is a partner in a computer graphics business.

Speaking of her children and grandchildren, Betty said,

"We're so lucky. We're blessed with lots of kids who love the farm. I just wish it was big enough that we could tell them all they could come home and make a living here."

After generations in the same family, it looks as though this family is devoted to keeping this dairy farm in the family for many more generations.

Country Current To Be Featured

In GLAF "Concert On The Grass"

Sounds of the banjo, fiddle, and acoustic guitar will ring through the McHenry hills on June 24 when the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival presents an outdoor bluegrass concert by Country Current at 8 p.m. on the grass at Garrett Community College. The concert, which is free to the public, will be held in the auditorium in the event of rain.

Country Current is a seven-member specialty unit of the United States Navy Band that plays music from America's heartland. Featuring a five-member acoustic bluegrass ensemble and guitar-fiddle duo, the group is recognized for its versatility in country and bluegrass music, from western swing to progressive country.

The band is directed by Senior Chief Musician Bill

Emerson, who performs as the group's banjo player, rhythm guitarist and vocalist. Emerson was twice selected by Mule-skinners News bluegrass magazine as "Banjo Player of the Year," and he has been inducted into the Virginia Country Music Hall of Fame.

Country Current has performed with Charlie Daniels, the Statler Brothers, and Juice Newton in tours throughout the country. The group has appeared at the White House, on Grand Ole Opry, Wheeling Jamboree, and the nationally-televized Academy of Country Music Awards show.

Persons are invited to bring lawn chairs or blankets for the concert on the grass. The event marks the opening of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival summer season.

SCHOOL'S OUT! — That may be true, but the riders of this bus are not celebrating that fact. These passengers are participating in Broad Ford Elementary School's kindergarten orientation program. Many of these children are experiencing their first school bus ride, just one of the activities planned by the school to ease the children's transition to kindergarten next year. ## World Whitewater Championships Opening Ceremony Set For Thursday

Opening Ceremonies for the 1989 World Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Championships will be next Thursday, June 15, at 7 p.m. in the football stadium of Frostburg State University.

The ceremony will be preceded by a parade through the streets of Frostburg. The parade will consist of the United States Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, all competing athletes (by country, led by Buckskinners), and the Flotilla Wagon Train that is delivering the International Canoe Federation Flag to the Opening Ceremonies. The parade will begin at 6 p.m. and move west on Main Street to Water Street and to the stadium.

The Opening Ceremonies will feature the Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, the Whitewater Chorus led by Paul Hill, renowned choral director of Washington, D.C., the Garrett Highland Bagpipers, and the athletes, representing 25 nations.

Presiding over the ceremony will be Sergio Orsi, president of the International Canoe Federation. Assisting will be Dave Mason, commodore of the American Canoe Association. The ACA is the host Federation for the 1989 World event. Maryland Senator John Bamabus, president of the Whitewater Championships, Inc., will represent the organizing committee.

Wagon Train To Link Flotilla And '89 Worlds Opening Ceremonies

The 1989 World's Flag Flotilla will arrive in Cumberland with the International Canoe Federation flag the late afternoon of June 14, according to a release from Whitewater Championships, Inc. The Opening Ceremonies of the 1989 World Whitewater Canoe/Kayak Championships will be held at 7 p.m., June 15 at Frostburg State University Stadium.

Problem: How to get the ICF flag to the stadium on time. Solution: Use the traditional way — a wagon train from Cumberland to Frostburg.

The '89 World's Wagon Train will depart from the base of Wineoak Street, where barges on the C & O Canal used to transfer goods to wagon trains for transport further west. The Wagon Train will depart at noon, and will be escorted through Cumberland by Mayor and Mrs. George Wyckoff, who will ride in a surrey with a fringe on top. Proceeding through the Narrows, wagoners will find the streets of LaVale decorated with flags, celebrating the County Bicentennial and the passage of the '89 World's Wagon Train. At the Continental Motel, horses will be fed and watered, and the wagoners and outriders will be served a snack by Karen King, proprietor of the motel.

The wagon train will arrive in Frostburg, at the intersection of Main and State Streets, at 5:30 p.m. There it will join the athletes competing in the '89

Commissioners Hear FY 1989 Budget Request From Bd. of Ed.

The Garrett County Board of Education met with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday to present their budget request for Fiscal Year 1990.

The board requested for not submitting the request sooner, noting, "We would have run the risk of negotiating in bad faith with several employee groups had we made our full request earlier." Currently, the board has contract ratifications with two of their three employee groups. A non-salary/wage issue is presently unresolved with the third group.

The board requested $8,184,780 in local funds, which represents a 10.6 percent increase over the $7,400,000 which the commissioners allocated for FY 1989.

In their request, the board stated, "We recognize that this figure represents a significant amount; however, we know that this is a very responsible submission in light of the requests originally submitted from the school level."

The following new positions were included in the budget request:

One administrative position and one secretary on a shared basis with Frostburg State University to implement a teacher center in the northern end of the county.

The addition of two teachers to establish a foreign language program at each middle school;

The addition of two teachers and one assistant for a new alternative education program from middle and high school

Arnold Man Gets Three Year Term For Homicide Local Graduates Receive Diplomas Sunday, Top Students Recognized

Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced an Arnold man to three years in the Department of Corrections last Thursday for a charge of homicide by a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The judge then suspended two years of the sentence for Ronald L. Blevens, 45, ordering that one year be served in the Anne Arundel County Detention Center. Blevens will be placed on two years supervised probation upon his release.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered for Blevens during a March 2 trial, when he pled guilty to the charge.

The charge stemmed from the May 27, 1988, vehicle crash at the intersection of New Germany Road and Twin Churches Road that claimed the life of William Gloe Pritts, 46, of Salisbury, Pa.

Blevens was represented by Eugene M. Zoglio and Robert C. Hesson.

In a separate case, Michael E. Stegmaier, 40, Cumberland, was sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail for driving while under the influence of alcohol and speeding.

The judge then suspended the sentence, fining Stegmaier a total of $350. He was also placed on one year supervised probation.

Stegmaier pled guilty to the charges, which stemmed from an October 4, 1988, incident at Keyser's Ridge.

Stegmaier's attorney was Stephen C. Wilkenson.

Education Board Discusses School Projects With Commissioners

The Garrett County Board of Education met with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners this week to discuss the future of the school building programs for both area high schools.

In a letter to the commissioners, the board stated, "The voters of Garrett County have spoken, and overwhelmingly indicated their rejection of amortizing building programs for our two high schools. This leaves both the Board of Education and the Board of County Commissioners with the same dilemma which existed prior to the referendum question (i.e., compromise the educational program at our largest high school or find alternate sources or means of financing the renovations/additions)."

The letter went on, "It would be very easy for both Boards to take courses that would only harm the educational program in our county by doing nothing or by purposefully providing facilities that do not meet the needs of our county for the next several generations."

The board then requested that the county commissioners assist them in their school construction program by:

(1) Providing a financial framework which specifically defines the amount of funding as to the amount that would be provided by the county as well as a specific timeline as to when the funding would be made available.

(2) Providing a liaison, in the form of either a commissioner or the county administrator to work with the Board of Education and staff on the scope and sequencing of the project.

(3) Establishing a yearly funding obligation for school construction, renovation, and additions to avert large future outlays of capital.

The letter concluded, "The Garrett County Board of Education recognizes the Board of County Commissioners' responsibility to provide sound fiscal management and desires only to provide a meaningful educational experience for all Garrett County residents. We feel that our mutual cooperation on this project can ensure that both Boards' objectives are met and, more importantly, those of the county."

Several Injured In Area Mishaps

Several local persons were injured in area motor vehicle accidents in the last week.

A two-vehicle accident occurred Monday on the Garrett Road.

According to Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment, the accident occurred when Martha A. Martin, 36, Mtn. Lake Park, failed to keep her 1987 Plymouth Horizon on the right side of the road. The car collided head-on with a 1980 Oldsmobile Cutlass driven by Rhonda L. Bolyard, 19, of Bayard, W.Va.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater investigated, charging Martin with failing to keep to the right of the center line and a seat belt violation.

Both drivers and a passenger in the Martin vehicle, Rebekah Martin, 5, also of Mtn. Lake Park, were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a private vehicle. A spokesman there reported that both Bolyard and Martha Martin were admitted and later discharged, while Rebekah Martin was treated and released.

A single-vehicle accident occurred Sunday on the White Church Steyer Road.

Police said William A. Seeders, 18, Oakland, was driving a 1979 Dodge Colt when he lost control of the car in a turn. The vehicle ran off the road and struck a tree.

Tfc. D.G. Rigglesman investigated, charging Seeders with negligent driving.

Police reported that Seeders was taken to Garrett Memorial by a private vehicle. However, a spokesman there reported that he was not treated at that hospital.

A two-vehicle accident occurred Saturday on U.S. Route 50.

Police said Kenneth E. Cal-camp, 17, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., was traveling north in a 1987 Ford pick-up truck.

Calcamp stopped for a stop light, then proceeded into the intersection and was struck by a 1987 Chevrolet Blazer driven by Joseph R. Leaman, 24, Spencer, W.Va.

Leaman was taken to Garrett Memorial following the mishap, where he was reportedly treated and released. Tfc. D.G. Rigglesman investigated.

An Oakland teen was injured Tuesday in a bicycle accident.

According to the Oakland City Police Department, Velma Cheshire, 13, was operating her 10-speed on Mason Street when she lost control of the vehicle.

She was taken to Garrett Memorial by the Southern Rescue Squad, where she was treated for lacerations and bruises and released.

Pfc. Gary E. Kroll investigated.

W. Virginia Man Apprehended After High Speed Chase

A Bayard, W. Va., man was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and charged with 12 violations of law, following a chase that took place on Route 39 Sunday evening.

Richard Lee Robinson Jr., 24, led a deputy sheriff on a chase when he refused to stop his motorcycle after the police observed his vehicle allegedly exceeding the speed limit near Crellin on Route 39.

Deputy Jay B. Sowers apprehended Robinson one mile over the West Virginia state line, and Robinson volunteered to return to Maryland to face charges.

Robinson was charged with driving at a speed greater than reasonable; eluding a police vehicle; driving off a roadway while passing a vehicle; going 100 mph in a 50 mph zone; failure to drive right of center; passing in a no passing zone; reckless driving; driving 75 mph in a 30 mph zone; operating an unregistered vehicle; driving an uninsured vehicle; failing to display a registration card on demand; and the display of improper registration plates.

A 15-year-old male from Terra Alta, W. Va., was a passenger on the Robinson vehicle.

Robinson was incarcerated pending a bail hearing.

Al Feldstein To Speak At County Historical Dinner

The guest speaker for the annual banquet of the Garrett County Historical Society will be Al Feldstein, of Cumberland. The banquet will be held at the Jennings Community Center, Jennings, on Thursday, June 22, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The price for the meal is $7.50 per person.

A native of Allegany County, Feldstein is a well-known historical author. His 14 books on the Western Maryland Region have sold over 20,000 copies, and have been applauded in both the local and national press.

Feldstein will speak on his historical research as depicted in old postcards. He will also give a slide presentation to illustrate his topic. His talk will be a sample of the work he has done in his field which earned him the title of "the pioneer and standard for postcard historical publications in Maryland."

Because of the necessity of an accurate accounting for the meal, friends and members of the Historical Society are asked to make their reservations for the June 22 banquet by June 15.

Checks should be mailed to Martha Kahl, Route 4, Box 89, Deer Park, 21550.

Sheriff's Department Investigates Thefts, Property Destruction

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating the reports of several thefts and some cases of property destruction this past week.

Gary Dean Crocco, Oakland, reported the theft of a blue seat from a 250 Polaris Quad Sport ATV four-wheeler that occurred on the evening of May 20. Deputy David M. Stoner is investigating the case.

Michael King, 35, Parsons, W.Va., was arrested for allegedly destroying a window screen at the Clifford Palmer residence. Repair costs for the screen will average $20. King was charged with destruction of property and disorderly intoxication by Corporal Larry E. Gnegy. He was later released on personal recognizance.

Dr. Sidney Malawer, Rockville, reported a breaking and entering, theft, and destruction of property that occurred at his Thousand Acres residence some time between January and May 29. According to Deputy Jay B. Sowers, a person or persons pried open a door, stole a fishing pole and a full tackle box with a combined value of $150, and vandalized a Madriver canoe valued at $1,500. There are no suspects in the case, and the investigation is continuing.

A spokesperson for the Garrett National Bank reported a destruction of property at the bank's Mountain Lake Park branch between May 27 and 30. The windshield of a repossessed vehicle parked in the lot received $200 of damage. According to Deputy R.P. Shaffer, the investigation is continuing.

A spokesperson for Broadford Recreation Area, Mountain Lake Park, reported a breaking and entering, theft, and destruction of property that occurred on the afternoon or evening of May 27. A person or persons broke a concession stand lock and damaged the rear door of an old train caboose. The property damage totalled $20. Additionally, an estimated $150 in property, consisting of suntan lotion, charcoal and lighter fluid, was stolen at that time. Detective Randy L. Sines is investigating. Sam Migliaccio, Mountain Lake Park, reported a broken window at his Dennett Road residence that occurred some time between February and May 31. Property damage totalled $10. According to Deputy Jay B. Sowers, the investigation is continuing.

GOBA Coupon Booklet For Sale

The Greater Oakland Business Association announced this week its annual coupon booklet, called "Oak Bucks" is now available for sale. The booklet, which sells for $5, contains hundreds of dollars worth of discounts and rebates at GOBA members' places of business. All proceeds from the booklets are used to finance town improvement projects.

Jack Jones, GOBA president, emphasized this week that the booklet being sold by GOBA is different from a coupon booklet being sold for $39.95 by an Illinois-based company called Metro Media. Jones said that, although there are some GOBA members who have contributed coupons to Metro Media's booklet, Metro Media is "in no way connected or affiliated" with GOBA and GOBA's community improvement projects.

Persons wishing to purchase GOBA "Oak Bucks" should contact any GOBA member or

July 4 Activities Scheduled At Broadford Park

The mayor and town council of Oakland announced this week that the town will again sponsor July 4 activities at Broad Ford Recreation Area.

The event will again include various activities throughout the day, food booths, and a large fireworks display. Organizations are invited to operate concession stands at the park that day and should contact Candace Lucas at City Hall (334-2691) as soon as possible to register.

Admission to the park that day will be $3 per car and $1 for walk-ins. Season passes will be honored.

Turney Finds Two Guilty Of CDS Possession

Judge Jack Turney found two persons guilty of charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance during recent trials at Garrett County District Court.

Roger L. Strawser, 23, Oakland, was found guilty of two counts of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance. He was fined $100 and sentenced to two years in the Department of Corrections for the first charge. He was fined $100 and sentenced to one year in the Department of Corrections, to be served concurrent with the first sentence, for the second charge.

Tfc. Paul R. Brown, Maryland State Police, filed the charges after a routine traffic stop on October 12, 1988. Robert C. Hesson represented Strawser.

Louis Mark Philips, 20, Gibbstown, N.J., was found guilty of use and possession with the intent to use CDS (controlled dangerous substance) paraphernalia. He was fined $50 and placed on six months probation. Officer William Murphy, Herrington Manor State Park, filed the charge after an incident which occurred May 5 at Swallow Falls State Park.

Judge Turney ordered a presentence investigation for Thomas Ray Bowers, 23, Mt. Lake Park, after Bowers was found guilty of one charge each of disorderly conduct in a public place, resisting arrest and assault. The charges were filed March 5 after an incident which occurred at an Oakland residence. John R. Toston represented Bowers.

Gordon Leslie Noble, 21, Oakland, was found guilty of two charges of uttering bad checks. Judge Turney ordered a presentence investigation for Noble. The charges were filed by Foodland after Noble wrote two checks for $200 each on February 14 and 18. John R. Toston represented Noble.

Billy B. Murray, Salisbury, Pa., was found guilty of battery. He was fined $100 and sentenced to 11 months in the Garrett County Jail. ## Oakland Man Sentenced For Sex Charges

An Oakland man was sentenced to three years in the Department of Corrections for sex-related charges during a trial held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Charges of fourth degree sex offense and assault and battery were merged with the first charge. Crocco was found not guilty of child abuse.

The charges were filed following May, 1988, incidents in the Oakland area involving an eight-year-old female.

Crocco was originally indicted for the charges on September 27, 1988. His attorney was Michael A. Noonan.

Taste Of Freedom . . .

"The quest for democracy is the most vibrant political fact of these times."

So stated Secretary of State James Baker recently and, judging from the events which are occurring in many nations around the world today, we would have to agree with his assessment. It is happening in Panama, Haiti, El Salvador, and many other Central and South American countries. It is happening in Poland. It is happening in Pakistan. It is happening in the Soviet Union. It is happening most vividly right now in China.

People who have been oppressed for decades by totalitarianism and dictatorships are uniting, taking a stand, and crying "enough is enough." We in the United States are, for once, basically sitting on the sidelines watching this momentous revolution take place, as fellow human beings go to battle in hopes of winning many of the precious freedoms we already enjoy. The price for such freedom is tragically high, just as it was for us during the Revolution and in several wars since. But it is evident that more and more people around the world are willing to pay the price, a fact so symbolically and heroically represented this past week by a single Chinese student who stood his ground directly in front of a line of advancing tanks.

Dictatorship, totalitarianism, and communism simply do not work for the long run. Such forms of government are in opposition to basic human nature and eventually will not be condoned by the masses. Once they experience a "taste" of freedom, they become hooked, and will not be satisfied until they can consume all of it. We believe there will be no turning back now by these revolutionaries, such as the Chinese students, who have demonstrated that they are willing to die for the cause.

The media of today, with all of its faults, is playing a key, positive role in this virtually worldwide movement. While hostile governments can still force news blackouts to a certain extent, with the technology available today, i.e. satellites, computers, fax machines, etc., it is impossible to totally squelch news coverage. Much of the world knows what is going on in these nations and hopefully this will foster restraint on the part of these governments. It also may spark severe economic sanctions by other nations which would place pressure on these governments to end their brutality. We wonder, for example, if the Holocaust of the 30s and 40s would have occurred to such an extent if the same media technology were available then.

A common thread between all human beings, regardless of race or nationality, is the innate desire to be free. As long as there are forces that attempt to suppress this desire, there will be resistance, revolution, and bloodshed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have been encouraged by the letters to the Editor printed in your paper concerning the Mental Health Department crisis. Also your report two weeks ago of Dr. Ficus and her analysis of the situation.

I failed to read or hear of any of the ongoing efforts involved, however, other than the letter by Rob Smith for which I was indeed grateful.

When I went immediately to the top echelon weeks ago for our Mental Health Funding, etc. Dr. Lavine, the Third County Regional Director, said we don't have what we should for our mentally ill because we don't have the advocacy!

The mentally retarded do and have had the advocacy and they have the resources! It's that simple! Where are the advocates? It's not that we don't have the mentally ill, the alcoholics, etc.

I have been a voice in the wilderness for 16 years, until in recent times, others have come out of the nooks and crannies somewhat, thank God for all!

States Attorney, you months ago, were going to convince elected and interested officials, after the "Ford Trial" was over, to try to get advocacy going actively! The Ford trial has been over many months and my call to your office received no response! What have you done concerning the needs of the mentally ill and the needed halfway house for alcoholics? I'd like some answers from elected officials and all those who have reason to be actively involved in this issue! All you parents, relatives and employees in the Mental Health system — you know the problems — why aren't you doing anything to help the problems? Pretending and evasion doesn't work! Covering up your problem people doesn't work either.

Sheriff why was a "double jeopardy" (mentally ill and borderline mentally retarded) who can barely read or write, who had been in your jail for months because there was no Group Home with 24 hour supervision available in Garrett County, sent to a jail in Baltimore? Did some rich person's relative want his Garrett County jail space? I had been assured by our States Attorney that it was the best jail he could be in, since there was no other place in Garrett County for him to go or be sent. Not even his own parents home. We are off limits there too! What are we in Garrett County? Where is the humanity, the Christian influence in caring for those who can't care for themselves.

Who are the advocates? Who should be the advocates for the mentally ill? Educate the public? Whose job is that?

The Chinese students here and abroad know how to be advocates and they have overcome the fear and they know what they are fighting for. Should we here know also? Where are the value systems for our helplessly ill people?

Think about it please and get involved! It may be later than you think!

This is my opinion.

Thanks,

Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

I can't believe the gall and audacity of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission in locating a million-gallon sewage storage tank in my backyard on Glendale Road. The commission bought deeded lots in this developed area, cleared the land, completed detailed engineering drawings, and requested construction bids, all in the October '88-'89 period.

All this was accomplished clandestinely and expeditiously, apparently to make this dastardly act fail accompli before anyone is aware. We, the adjacent home owners, were not informed of the commission's plans and actions. Not a word.

Not unrelated is the fact that the storage tank is planned for the wrong location. It hardly takes an engineering degree and environmental assessment experience (both of which I have), but only common sense to locate a sewage tank a reasonable distance from a populated, developed area. Does the commission need to be reminded that Garrett County is a sparsely populated area with many undeveloped acreage regions? These areas are convenient to Glendale Road and the Deep Creek Sewer Service.

According to the Maryland Department of Environment, the storage tank is oversized for the anticipated need by a factor of seven.

I noted in The Republican a few weeks ago that the source of funds for the sewage tank is uncertain. It is puzzling how a project of this scope can proceed without knowing who is going to foot the bill.

Respectfully yours,
Alfred D. Thagard

P.S. This scenario is like "Poltergeist" coming to life.

To the Editor:

Garrett Countians, shame on you! Only 38 percent of your registered voters thought enough of your children and future generations to even turn out to vote on one of the most important issues to affect all residents for many years to come! Your defeat of the school bond referendum shows an apparent near-sighted approach to a long-range and lasting benefit: the education of your children — your future.

I am only a part-time resident at present, and as such, not entitled to vote in Garrett County elections. However, I am in the process of building and have plans to become a full-time resident. It's a shame that my child, who will be a student in Garrett County, SHS, will bear the effects of your votes. She, in turn, will be short-changed in the long run because the school improvements must be compromised and modified.

I am reasonably sure that many tax dollars of the part-time residents, who do not use any school facilities, would have borne a heavy portion of the bond debt and interest payments simply because many of the highly assessed properties are owned by part-time residents. Thus, "absentee tax residents" would have paid to educate their children. It seems that the full-time residents would have borne a nominal cost for the most benefit from passage of the school bond referendum.

Hopefully, narrow-minded thinking can be modified in the future so that we will be able to see and realize the overall, long-term effects of such action.

Sincerely,
Norman C. Pohlar
Baltimore

To the Editor:

Last week we attended Yoder School's final graduation service held at Garrett Community College. As always, we enjoyed the program but were surprised and disappointed that no one was there to represent the Board of Education. We agree with the Board's decision to close Yoder School this year but it seems that someone from the Board of Education should have expressed appreciation for the fine education Yoder School has given hundreds of students during the past years.

We are thankful that two of our grandchildren graduated from the eighth grade there and two others were able to attend until now.

Flotilla Launched On Schedule; To Arrive In Paw Paw This Sunday

The 1989 World's Flag Flotilla was launched on schedule, May 27 in St. Mary's City with a wide variety of sail and paddle boats leading the Dove out of St. Mary's River into the lower Potomac. The Flotilla, which is sponsored by Porta-Boat, is carrying the International Canoe Federation Flag to the World Whitewater Championships to be held on the Savage River in Garrett County June 11-25.

The launch ceremony was attended by a host of dignitaries, led by Maryland Comptroller Louis Goldstein, and White-water Championships, Inc. President, Senator John N. Bambauch. Mrs. Susan Chamberlin flew in from San Francisco to represent the International Canoe Federation and the American Canoe Association's Commodore, David Mason, came from Savannah, Georgia, to carry the flag of the International Canoe Federation to the water's edge, where Bob Halsey from Ohio then carried it out to the Dove in a Coastal Kayak.

The passage from the podium to the water's edge was lined with cadets from Leonard Hall Military Academy. Commodore Mason and ICF's Chamberlin were preceded by members of the St. Mary's Militia in 17th Century dress; the unit was followed by Bucksinner Tom Starkey and Osage Indian Bobbie Little Bear, thus symbolizing the full range of American's history in this unique parade up the Potomac.

While the Dove was sailing up the tidewater section of the Potomac, a group of coastal kayakers were racing the Dove in a relay of paddlers. This activity involved over 20 boats from all the New England states and Florida.

The parade of paddle craft which escorted the Dove out of St. Mary's was repeated in the Washington Channel on Sunday, when the Dove arrived in late afternoon to complete the tide-water section of the Flotilla.

The ICF flag was lowered from the mast of the Dove and transported to the ceremony podium by Princess Dora Roanhorse, Miss American Indian USA. There it was received by Chamberlin and Mason and handed over to the boat scheduled to carry it in the next stage.

A dragon boat which has been given to the ACA by the Government of Taiwan was transported from its home base in Iowa to participate in the parade. An outrigger canoe came from the Great Lakes Canoe Club in Marionette, Wisconsin, with a crew led by Everett Crozier.

Doug Brown came all the way from Maui, Hawaii, to lead the six-person crew paddling the outrigger. Brown arrived Friday and departed Tuesday morning to return to his job in Hawaii. The outrigger was gaily decorated with Ti leaves, a traditional means of warding off evil spirits. The Ti leaf is also used to ferment a potent ceremonial drink, but the paddlers were carefully warned by Brown to avoid the drink before paddling the craft. Moore did perform a ceremonial blessing of the outrigger and the Flotilla before launching his craft Saturday, Sunday, and Monday mornings.

Olympic Gold Medalist Norm Bellingham was on hand in West Potomac Park Monday morning to take over the lead boat and transport the ICF flag for the remainder of that day. The Flotilla, which had begun the day on the Potomac River across from Washington Channel, stopped by to add Bellingham and other paddle boats to the parade of 30-plus paddle craft. The outrigger was so popular that Bellingham and Carol Knight, who won a gold medal at the 1973 World Championships, replaced two of the paddlers for a fast spin around the Potomac.

From West Potomac Park, Bellingham, Knight, and other medalists led the Flotilla up to the Washington Canoe Club, where everyone switched from the Potomac River to the C&O Canal for the journey up past Great Falls. At Lock 6 on the canal, just inside the Washington Beltway, the Flotilla stopped for lunch. Lock 6 is the world-famous training site of Bill Endicott, a coach of the United States Whitewater Team. After lunch, a concert by the United States Navy Band, and demonstrations by the whitewater team, the Flotilla proceeded to its destination for that day — Carderock. There the paddlers participated in a brief ceremony before disbanding. The Flotilla then left Tuesday for the next stage of its journey.

The Flotilla was in the Brunswick-Harper's Ferry, Shepherdstown area last weekend and is now proceeding up the Potomac to the Paw Paw Bends, and will arrive in Paw Paw, W.Va., this Sunday afternoon, June 11. The Flotilla will arrive in Cumberland on June 14, in time for a wagon train to carry the ICF flag to the Opening Ceremony of the '89 World's on June 15 at Frostburg State University.

Attendance at Flotilla events is free, and paddlers are welcome to join in at each of the scheduled start points.

The Opening Ceremony of the 1989 World Championships is also free. Tickets to the Championship races, to be held June 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25, may be purchased through Ticketron offices by telephoning 1-800-543-3041, and through local outlets in Allegany and Garrett counties.

For further information on the Flotilla and the World Championships, persons may call 1-800-552-3915.

Something New At GCC

by Dr. Steve Herman, President
Garrett Community College

Something new is starting at GCC. A group of volunteers from the community have formed the Garrett Community College Foundation. In the coming months you will be hearing about the Foundation, and in October Foundation volunteers will be calling every household in Garrett County to ask for a contribution. This will be the first of what we hope will be an annual fund raising fund.

Some readers will wonder why a public college needs to raise funds. I'd like to explain. GCC is more than an institution of higher learning. It is a community college. I like to call it the community's college. We care about Garrett County and the surrounding region, and we dedicate ourselves to helping our community in any way possible. We are supporting regional business, working with the local public schools, and offering the College as a center for cultural, arts, and social life. GCC tries to be many things to many people.

We receive funding from the State and the County. Garrett County's Commissioners have been very, very supportive. But we are not a rich county. Public funding can only provide basics — a good, but not a great, education. You may be unaware that all over the nation colleges and universities, public and private, have foundations to raise funds. In Maryland, every one of the 17 community colleges with the exception of GCC has an active foundation. Both ACC and Hagerstown Junior Colleges have very successful foundations to support their work.

Because we are a small college — the smallest in Maryland — fixed costs eat up 94 percent of our budget. We have virtually no funds to start new programs or to enhance old ones, to replace and acquire instructional equipment, to add volumes to our library, to hire new faculty, to provide professional development opportunities, or to offer student scholarships for merit.

Although we could do much more with additional funds, our main objective in starting a foundation is not to raise as much money as possible. Your good feeling about GCC is much more important to us than any amount of money we can raise. We want you to feel that GCC is your college — that it belongs to this community. A donation each year, no matter how small, means that you feel a part of GCC and take pride in ownership. It is that expression of commitment that we most value and appreciate. When we ask for a contribution, we plan to ask respectfully and softly. We plan to listen and to show our appreciation regardless of whether or how much you give.

Right now, we have an exceptional opportunity! Governor Schaefer introduced legislation that the Maryland legislature has just passed. For every dollar GCC can raise toward an endowment fund, the State will give the College fifty cents. An endowment fund is a lasting support to the work of the College: the principal cannot be spent. Instead, the fund draws interest, which can be used each year for scholarships and program enhancements.

The Foundation is composed exclusively of volunteers. Not a single person is paid. Every dollar raised goes to support education. We are assembling a Board of Directors. Mike Belmonte, a retired Westinghouse executive has agreed to be president; Ann Englander is vice president; Dr. Brenda McCallister, principal of a local school, is treasurer; James Cornelius, a business consultant, is secretary; and The Reverend Stephen Yelovich and Donna Sites are directors. We will be announcing the addition of new directors in the near future. Our aim is to have a Board that represents every sector and every segment of our service region.

GCC is a neighbor. We are not just passing through. We expect to be educating Garrett Countians and supporting this community for generations and generations to come. The last thing we want to do is offend anyone by asking for money. I hope you will respond favorably when our phonathon begins, but whether you give or not, I want you to know that we appreciate deeply the support Garrett Countians have given our college.

stream flows in Piney Creek. The new dam will meet increased water supply demand in the Frostburg area and improve fish habitat in Piney Creek.

The dam was designed so that cold water, vital to maintaining a healthy aquatic habitat, could be released downstream from the dam. These "environmental releases," which will range from 840,000 gallons per day in the summer to 6.5 million gallons per day in winter, along with proposed vegetative stream bank plantings, are expected to transform this seasonally dry streambed into a viable trout stream. In addition, wetlands that will be lost as a result of this project will be mitigated through creation of new wetlands and other environmental improvements.

NORTH BRANCH POWER PROJECTGROUND-BREAKING CEREMONY
JUNE 7, 1989
BAYARD, WEST VIRGINIA

GOVERNOR ATTENDS GROUND-BREAKING — West Virginia Governor Gaston Caperton, pictured center, was among the dignitaries on hand last Friday who broke ground for the new North Branch Power Project near Bayard, W. Va. The $150 million project will utilize waste coal to produce electricity. Its construction, which will take approximately two years, will employ some 200 workers and, once on-line in 1991, it will provide about 40 permanent jobs.

Governor Caperton Breaks Ground
For North Branch Power Project

West Virginia Governor Gaston Caperton joined Timothy Boyle, president and chief executive officer of Energy America Incorporated, S.O. (Bud) Ogden, chairman of Island Creek Corporation, Gary Edwards, manager of capacity acquisitions of Virginia Power, and Steven Drawe, senior vice-president of Fru Con Construction Corporation, near Bayard, W. Va., Friday to break ground for the North Branch Power Project.

The $150 million project is an 80 Mw net, waste coal fired small power plant, developed by EASE/NMI, an affiliate of Energy America Incorporated. EASE/NMI is the General Partner of N.B. Partners, Ltd., A Limited Partnership, the project's owner.

Governor Caperton called the project "a very real example of the Partnership for Progress."

"This is a project that companies from all over the country and around the world together in West Virginia, promoting and utilizing our vast natural, labor and business resources in a mutually beneficial relationship," stated the Governor. "During construction, the North Branch Project will employ about 200 workers, and once the facility is on-line in 1991, the plant will employ about 40 permanent operations and maintenance personnel."

The plant will be fueled by waste coal, a by-product of bituminous coal mining, supplied by Island Creek Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum Corporation. Virginia Power will purchase electricity from the plant under a 25-year power purchase and operating agreement.

Construction, which actually began in December, is projected to last two years, with the facility beginning operations in 1991. North Branch Constructors, a joint venture between Fru Con Construction Corporation of Missouri and ABB Turbine, Inc., of New Jersey will build the facility under a fixed-price, turnkey contract. Fru-Con, the wholly-owned subsidiary of Bilfinger & Berger of West Germany, is construction contractor; ABB Turbine, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of ABB Ltd. of Switzerland will provide the steam turbine and major electrical equipment.

Bibb & Associates Inc. of Mission, Kansas, is the engineering subcontractor for the project, and PyroPower Corporation of San Diego, Calif., is the subcontractor supplying the two 400,000-pound-per-hour circulating fluidized bed combustion (CFBC) boilers.

As a waste disposal facility, the plant qualified for tax-exempt bond financing under the West Virginia Industrial Development and Commercial Development Bond Act (1931). Consistent with the approval of the County Commission of Grant County, W. Va., on December 3, 1987, two series of industrial development bonds in a total amount of $125 million were issued in December 1988 by the County Commission, secured under a loan agreement between the County Commission and N.B. Partners, Ltd. Underwriter and re-marketing agent for the tax-exempt bonds is Goldman, Sachs & Co., of New York.

Security Pacific National Bank of Los Angeles, Calif., is the credit bank for the financing of the project, issuing the irrevocable, direct pay letters of credit, supporting the bonds. Security Pacific Trust Company (New York) will act as trustee for the bonds.

In addition to the Bond funds, up to $15.3 million of other construction costs will be paid from the proceeds of loans provided by Trust Company of the West as trustee for the Boilermaker Cogeneration Trust Fund. When construction is completed, $25 million of additional permanent funding will be provided through equity investment in the partnership and a $3 million working capital loan from Security Pacific.

Energy America acquired the rights to the North Branch Power Project in December 1987, when it purchased Nortex Management, Inc. of Houston, Texas, which had formerly owned the project.

Founded in June, 1987, Energy America acquires and develops qualifying and independent power facilities serving the industrial, institutional, governmental and utility markets. The company has just acquired a 25 Mw gas-fired, combined-cycle cogeneration facility in Commerce, Calif.

Garrett Community College Lakers Honored During Athletic Reception

Outstanding athletes at Garrett Community College were honored last month at an athletic reception held in the Student Center. For the first time, awards were given to the top male and female athletes of the year, with Darryl Dupert and Stacy Sines receiving this honor. Shayne Couch was named NSCAA Academic All American for volleyball in Region XX and second team National Academic All American.

According to Ann Wellham, athletic coordinator, members of the Athletic Department felt that they should recognize contributions athletes have made to the college. Each coach nominated two athletes, and a separate council voted to choose the winners, based on athletic ability, contribution to a sport, and dedication.

Women's volleyball awards presented at the reception by Coach Margaret Quinn went to Joy Thrasher as the best defensive player, Stacy Sines as the best offensive player, Shayne Couch as the ace server, and Julie Truax as the most improved player. Sines also received the Laker Award, Most Valuable Player Award, and All Region XX team honorable mention.

Basketball awards were presented by Coach Dennis Gibson.

Eric Rice received the Laker Award for outstanding athletic ability, academic standing, and citizenship in the college community. Rice, who earned a 3.6 GPA, was recently inducted into Phi Theta Kappa honors society.

Other basketball awards went to Kerwin Thompson, outstanding offensive player, averaging 17.8 points and 4.5 rebounds per game. Thompson was named to the Region XX all star team and the second team of Maryland JUCO. Romir Miller was named outstanding defensive player, leading rebounder with 7.5 rebounds per game, and Region XX second team.

For the second year, Aaron Davis was named Most Valuable Player, with 131 steals, 22 blocked shots, 4.5 rebounds, and 10 points per game. Davis was also named to the Region XX all star team and the second team of Maryland JUCO. Most improved player award for men's basketball went to Bobby Gregg who averaged 4.7 rebounds and 7.7 points per game.

A number of baseball players were honored at the reception with awards presented by Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt. First baseman Jeff McIntyre, a sophomore from Weirton, W.Va., received the Work Study Achievement Award and was cited by Nesselrodt as being "his right hand man."

Darryl Dupert, a sophomore from Kingwood, W.Va., and 1989 team captain, received Male Athlete of the Year Award and Region XX honorable mention. Dupert tied the college record for most home runs in a career with 20 and led the Lakers with 53 hits.

Sophomore Bill Cassella, Weirton, W.Va., won the top pitching award with a 5-3 win-loss record and a 3.19 earned run average. Top offensive player award went to Mike Harbaugh, a freshman from Johnstown, Pa., who had 52 hits and 35 RBI's. The baseball Laker Award went to Dwayne Woodring, a freshman from Waynesboro, Pa., who, according to Nesselrodt, played well both offensively and defensively. Woodring led the team in walks with 31, in stolen bases with 24-28, and in runs scored 40, while achieving a GPA of 3.36.

Top defensive player award went to Tony Warner, a freshman also from Waynesboro, Pa., whom Nesselrodt said played better defensively at short stop than anyone he had seen in his five years as coach. Most Valuable Player Award for 1989 went to John Smith, a pitcher who set a new GCC strikeout record with 79 and was selected as a Maryland JUCO all star.

Oakland Opens Pen-Mar Season; Loses To Tri-Towns, Tops Hyndman

Oakland opened its 1989 Pen-Mar Baseball League season last Wednesday with a 14-2 thrashing by Tri-Towns, but bounced back last evening to rip Hyndman, 14-4.

Garrett Community College standout John Smith paced Tri-Towns over the local team last week, as he smacked a two-run homer, two doubles, recorded three RBIs, and was the winning pitcher.

Smith yielded only four Oakland hits and was relieved by Wink Spitzer in the sixth. Spitzer was also an offensive standout, as he rapped a three-run homer and a single.

Darryl Dupert recorded two of Oakland's five hits, finishing with a double and a single. A three-run blast by Dupert in the third inning gave Oakland a 5-0 lead and initiated an evening of home runs last night against Hyndman, Lawrence Nesselrodt, coach of the GCC Lakers, followed with a two-run homer in the fourth, Steve Zumpano recorded a three-run shot in the sixth and Corky Sweitzer added a two-run round-tripper, also in the sixth, to put the game away for Oakland.

Grant Crawford of Hyndman also utilized the long ball, rapping a two-run homer in the

WVU Scientist In Europe, Russia Speaking About Mining Technology

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — A West Virginia University researcher is in Europe and the Soviet Union this week telling mining engineers in those countries how things are done in this country and explaining the latest U.S. coal production technology.

The governments of the Soviet Union and West Germany invited Syd Peng, chairman of WVU's mining engineering program, to share his fuel extraction expertise and to learn more about mining in those nations.

U.S. mine productivity and mining research at WVU has attracted the attention of many countries interested in ways to improve safety and efficiency in their fossil fuel production, Peng said, before his departure.

There are big differences between U.S. coal production methods and those used in many European and Asian nations, he explained. "Russia is the third largest coal producing nation in the world, and their mines are massive. Their organizations are big and I wouldn't be surprised by as many as 10,000 workers at a mine."

"Here," continued Dr. Peng, "we can produce the same amount of coal with less than 500 workers."

WVU is at the forefront of mining technology, including research on mine subsidence, respirable dust and longwall mining techniques, said Peng, who joined the university in 1974 after a job with the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

In West Germany, he will attend a 20-nation conference where he will talk about the American system of mine roof bolting.

"Europe is very interested in this method of supporting mine roofs," Peng said. "They have finally come to the realization that the way we do it in the U.S. is very efficient." Most European mines, he added, use a traditional arch method of roof support.

In the Soviet Union, Peng will talk about WVU's accomplishments to the International Bureau of Strata Mechanics in Novosibirsk in central Russia. He hopes to visit a Soviet mine while he is there and has made this request to the government.

WVU has faculty and student exchange programs with other major coal producers including Australia, which has mining technology similar to that of the U.S., and China, where large mines are modern and small mines may be 30 years behind in the application of current technology.

Enlarging this international contact to Poland, the university has undertaken to review Polish mining research programs and to comment on what direction Poland's future research should take.

WVU, through National Science Foundation sponsorship, also is involved with Polish scientists in joint research into causes of sudden coal releases at tremendous pressures in deep mines, known as "coal bumps."

Another joint project with Poland is examining the uses of computer "expert systems" for controlling mine situations.

Dorothy Spaid, Chapter I/SCE supervisor, then recognized the parent volunteers, who are under the guidance of the Chapter I/SCE program. She expressed her appreciation for the many hours of service donated by the parents and awarded them certificates honoring them for 400 and 1,000 hours of service to the schools.

Guests attending the PAC meeting included Beverly Sines-Murphy, Board of Education member; Matthew Stieringer, Asa McCain and Thomas Fowler, school principals. "Your next air conditioner should be a heat pump."

BOB VILA
HOME IMPROVEMENT EXPERT

A regular central air conditioning system only works for you during a few summer months.

But the modern electric heat pump operates 12 full months of the year. In the summer, it's an efficient central air conditioner. In the winter, it teams up with your furnace to help heat your home.

And because of its high energy efficiency, it can help you cut your total heating bill.

Get the complete story by contacting the Tri-State Heat Pump Association or any of these members.

Redwood picnic tables will be installed in the park within the next few weeks.

KITZMILLER ASSEMBLY OF GOD
The Keen Teen Youth Group will be traveling to the Keyser Assembly of God Church to attend a Youth Rally and see the film "Without Reservation."

There are currently 17 children placed in local foster homes with a total of 18 homes actually licensed. The Department of Social Services says it never knows when children will be needing foster care, so there is a constant effort to recruit and approve new foster homes and to retain existing homes.

"The task of providing substitute care and emotional support for children is not an easy one, and it takes very special, committed people to do it well," stated a Department spokesman.

"Garrett County is quite fortunate to have such dedicated families in the foster care program."

Persons interested in learning more about the Foster Care Program may call Debbie Ambrose at 334-5417.

Kitzmiller, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stem, Mtn. Lake Park, were honored as local Foster Parents of the Year for "going above and beyond" their assigned duties to meet the needs of the children in their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilt, Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schroyer were recognized for meeting special medical needs for children in their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ackerman, Mtn. Lake Park, who were last year's Foster Parents of the Year, were recognized for their continuing services as the Emergency Foster Home for the county. They have provided temporary homes for 16 children over the last year.

Foster parents are recruited and licensed by the Garrett County Department of Social Services. Interested families must meet extensive requirements in order to become foster parents. These include fire safety inspections and health inspections of the homes, medical reports on all family members and criminal background checks, 12 hours of pre-service training and intensive interviews with the licensing worker regarding their beliefs, views and background. Through this process, families are trained and prepared to provide homes for children from birth to 18 who need temporary substitute care. Foster families are expected to assist the Department in working toward the re-unification of children who are placed in their homes, with their birth parents or relatives. They must also help the children cope with their immediate situation of being away from their own home.

Two property owners attended the meeting to protest the installation of the storage holding facility at Deep Creek Lake.

The facility would enable the commission to relieve a sewer moratorium and allow approximately 500 additional connections to the system. The sewage would be collected and stored during weekends and holidays, then released into the system during off-peak times.

The commission has designed the facility, advertised for bids, and acquired land in the Glendale Road area. However, Sanitary District Administrator Wendell Beitzel reported that the commission has taken the concerns under advisement, and will ask the engineer to review the potential cost and possibility of relocating the facility.

The State of Maryland has completed its audit of the Deep Creek Lake sewer project, and Beitzel reported that final payment on the project will be received shortly.

Hoyes Run Road
The commission received a request to take over the operation and maintenance of a privately-owned water and sewer system on the Hoyes Run Road which is outside the sanitary district. The request was granted.

Trout Run
Construction on the Trout Run treatment facility is nearing completion, and the contractor is currently working on correcting the gabion stone problem. All the other components of the system are in place, and the manufacturers are demonstrating the use of the equipment this week.

Work is proceeding on the installation of sewer lines in the Crellin project, and construction on the treatment plant will begin shortly.

Wet weather has caused some problems with this project, and the contractor is working on restoring the yards in the area.

Mtn. Lake Park
Work on the Mtn. Lake Park rehabilitation storage tank has been completed, and the tank should be placed into service this week.

Beitzel noted that, until the system is stabilized, leaks and breaks can be expected in the old water lines.

Whitewater
The Sanitary District will be assisting in the handling of sewerage for those competing in the Whitewater Races.

Course On Credit To Be Offered By Ext. Service

A special program that addresses how to acquire credit, manage credit, and what to do when one's credit is over-extended will be presented in two locations in the county by the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service the latter part of this month.

"Understand Credit Use — For Teens" is the name of the program, which is geared mainly for teenaged youth, but is also open to adults. The course explains credit history and personal credit rating, and outlines how to use credit to one's benefit at the lowest possible cost.

The course will be presented Tuesday, June 27, at the Garrett County Health Department Meeting Room in Grantsville from 10 a.m. to noon and again from 7 to 9 p.m. It will be presented at the Cooperative Extension Service Office in the Courthouse, Oakland, on Wednesday, June 28, also from 10 a.m. to noon and 7 to 9 p.m.

"Effective money management is an essential life skill and a deficiency that costs individuals and family dearly," and Extension Service spokesman said: "A high percentage of young consumers find themselves too deep in debt about four years after striking out on their own. Most of them can avoid this traumatic experience if they better understand credit use and abuse."

Persons are encouraged to register now for one of the classes by contacting the Extension Office at 334-1990.

Several Thefts Under MSP Investigation

Everett O'Brien, Swanton, reported a $10,500 theft from his residence between May 20 and 31.

Police said someone entered the property and removed 2,000 feet of irrigation pipe. Tpr. R.T. Wilson is investigating.

Bill's Marine, Deep Creek Lake, reported a $2,000 theft which occurred Friday or Saturday.

According to Tfc. D.G. Riggelman, who is investigating, the theft involved four radios which were unscrewed from the consoles of boats parked at the establishment.

A $300 theft reportedly occurred at Browning's Quarry between 1 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Monday.

According to investigating officer Tfc. R.J. Resh, someone removed three torch heads with gauges and 100 feet of acetylene hose from an open storage shed.

G & S Coal Company reported $200 worth of damage which occurred between June 3 and June 5 in a destruction of property incident.

According to Tfc. Riggelman, who is investigating, a stone was thrown through a window and a mirror was smashed on a drilling rig.

Tick Season Brings Threat Of Lyme Disease

Warm weather signals the start of tick season in many areas of the country, including the Maryland area (especially the Eastern Shore region). According to the Arthritis Foundation, the bite of a certain type of tick can transmit LYME disease. The Foundation has a new, free brochure with information on the disease, its symptoms, and ways to avoid tick bites.

"LYME disease can cause a number of health problems, including arthritis, that can be prevented if people recognize symptoms early and see their doctor," said Fredrick M. Wigley, M.D., of the Arthritis Foundation's Maryland Chapter.

Most people do not spot or remember a tick bite because the tick is so small, said Dr. Wigley. People are more likely to spot early symptoms, including a flu-like illness and a skin rash. The rash can appear from three days to as long as a month after the bite and often looks like an expanding red ring with a white center.

Early treatment of LYME disease with antibiotics can prevent more serious medical problems, said Wigley. If left untreated, LYME disease can cause problems with the nervous system, heart, and produce a disabling type of arthritis in the joints. These problems can occur months to years after the tick bite and are often confused with other diseases, such as osteoarthritis in the knees. Treatment is more difficult and less successful if LYME disease is not recognized until these later stages.

DR. Wigley explained that LYME disease can also affect pets and farm animals. Symptoms in animals can often be the first clue that infected ticks are in the area. There are precautions people can take to avoid tick bites. These include wearing protective clothing, checking for ticks when returning from the outdoors, checking and preventing ticks from getting on pets, and clearing your yard of brush and other attractions for ticks.

A free copy of the new brochure on LYME disease is available by contacting the Arthritis Foundation, Western Maryland Branch, by writing to P.O. Box 1187, Cumberland, MD 21501-1187, or calling 759-9411.

Students With Summer Jobs May Owe Taxes

Now that summer is here, most students will be starting jobs to keep themselves busy during the coming months. Although they won't need to think about textbooks and exams, they should give some thought to the tax responsibilities that employment brings, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Under provisions of the Federal Tax Law, a student with a summer or part-time job who could be claimed as a dependent on his or her parents' return may owe tax if total income in 1989 is more than $500 and includes interest, dividends, or other unearned income. If the student doesn't have any unearned income (interest, dividends) during the year, a return wouldn't have to be filed unless earned income exceeded $3,100.

The IRS says students with summer jobs should be sure to obtain a Form W-4 from their employer as soon as they start work, complete it, and return it to the employer so that the proper amount of tax will be withheld from their paychecks. If they are not exempt from withholding and have only one job, students should claim one allowance on their Form W-4. If they wish to have more tax withheld, they should claim no allowance. Even if a person is not required to file a federal return, as long as they had income tax withheld from their pay, they should file a return to claim any refund due them.

More information about federal withholding tax and Form W-4 can be obtained by calling the IRS at 1-800-424-1040.

In a 1-quart saucepan over medium heat, bring tomato juice, garlic, ¾ of seasonings and pepper to boil. Reduce heat to low and simmer mixture 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, on a cutting board with mallet or dull edge of French knife, pound chicken pieces to about ¼-inch thickness and set aside. In a small bowl combine cottage cheese and remainder of seasonings. Spoon cheese mixture onto centers of breast, leaving a ½-inch edge all around. From a narrow end, roll each breast, jelly-roll fashion. In bottom of 10x6-inch baking dish, spoon half of the tomato juice mixture, then arrange chicken rolls seam-side down. Cut a slice from the top of each potato and scoop out the pulp. Put in blender, whip the cottage cheese until creamy. Mash the potato pulp and blend enough of the whipped cottage cheese to make a light, fluffy mixture. Stir in green onions. Spoon the mixture back into the shells, mounding it slightly.

KIWI CHIFFON CHEESECAKE

- 2 cups crunchy nugget-type cereal (e.g. Grape Nuts)
- 3 tablespoons margarine, melted
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 2½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ¾ cup sugar
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1½ cups skim milk
- 24 oz. part-skim ricotta cheese
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 kiwi fruits, peeled and thinly sliced
- 3 tablespoons orange marmalade, sieved

Whir the cereal in a blender to make fine crumbs. Combine with the margarine, brown sugar and ½ teaspoon of the lemon rind. Press onto the bottom and sides of a 10-inch pie pan. Bake at 375°F. for 5 minutes, then cool. In the top of a double boiler, combine the gelatin, ¼ cup of sugar, the egg yolks and milk. Stir over boiling water until the gelatin dissolves and the mixture coats the back of a spoon. Remove from the heat and chill for about 15 minutes, or until slightly thickened, but don't let it get too firm. Meanwhile, blend the ricotta cheese, lemon juice, remaining lemon rind and vanilla in a blender until smooth. Beat the egg whites with the remaining ¼ cup of sugar until soft peaks form. Fold in the cheese mixture and egg whites into the cooled gelatin mixture. When combined, turn into the pie crust and refrigerate until firm. Top with the kiwi slices and brush with the marmalade. Yield: 12 servings.

ORANGE SQUARES

- 1 whole seedless orange, unpeeled
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ¾ cup sour cream or plain yogurt
- 1¼ cups flour
- Pinch of salt

Cut oranges into quarters and grind with raisins, preferably using a heavy iron meat grinder with a coarse blade. (A food processor will also do the job, but be sure not to grind the fruit to mush). Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs. Add orange mixture and blend well. Dissolve the baking soda in the sour cream or yogurt and add to orange mixture. Add flour and salt, and stir by hand until well mixed. Spread in a greased jelly-roll pan. Bake at 350°F. for 20 to 30 minutes. Cool. Dust with confectioners' sugar, or make an orange-flavored confectioners' sugar icing by combining 1½ cups confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, and enough orange juice to thin frosting to spreading consistency. Makes 36 to 40.

NOTE: ¾ cup milk soured with 1 teaspoon vinegar or lemon juice may be substituted for the sour cream. In that case, increase butter to ½ cup.

Clint Eastwood started as number two man in 'Rawhide'

By John Haakenson

Clint Eastwood playing second banana? Of course. Just as Steve McQueen found himself doing battle with The Blob early in his career, and ditto for Michael Landon and his makeup in I Was a Teenage Werewolf, Eastwood had some less than stellar early days.

He first came to the public's attention playing Rowdy Yates, the ramrod cowboy of Rawhide. Although Eastwood had appeared in some feature films by the time Rawhide debuted in 1958, it was the TV series that launched his career (that and his so-called "spaghetti westerns"). Eastwood was visiting a friend at Television City in Hollywood when his big break in television occurred. As Eastwood and the friend were conversing, Robert Sparks, then a CBS executive producer, came out of an inner office where he had been discussing Rawhide casting problems. He spotted Eastwood and, a few minutes later, the startled young actor had an appointment to read for the role of Rowdy. He won the role.

When Rawhide debuted in the 1958-59 season, television was already loaded with westerns. That season the four top series in the Nielsen ratings were westerns, as were 12 of the top 25.

Rawhide took place in the colorful 1870s, when ranchers learned that steer worth $3 to $4 in Texas could be sold for 10 times that amount at the railroad in Kansas. Unable to afford their own individual drives, they pooled their resources and their herds and headed north, encountering adventure as well as profit.

During the series' seven-year tenure, many current and future stars made guest appearances, including Eddie Albert, Buddy Ebsen, Julie Harris, Mickey Rooney and Barbara Stanwyck. The demise of Rawhide came about basically because audiences began to tire of its static plot-lines. Every week, a new character or characters would join the cattle drive. The person(s) would either be guilty or innocent of some crime, and when the sheriff came to claim him, Gil Favor (Eric Fleming) or Rowdy would refuse to turn the person over. Another problem facing the series was that the characters in Rawhide did not evolve over the years.

Fortunately for Eastwood, when Rawhide's cattle drive finally ended, his career drive was just beginning. He went on to make the aforementioned Italian western movies, then really hit the big time with his Dirty Harry series of cop dramas.

Glance through the names listed below. Recognize anyone? Unless you've never seen a movie, most of these monikers should be very familiar. Corbin Bernsen, at one time a law student in real life, has become well-known as rakish attorney Arnie Becker in NBC's L.A. Law, on Thursdays.

Bernsen lured to acting by naked pair of limbs

By Linda Sparkman

"Naked limbs thrashing in the back seat of a Rolls Royce." Those words in a script of the feature film Three the Hard Way lured young entertainment law student Corbin Bernsen to accept a small part in the movie produced by his father, Harry Bernsen.

"I became one pair of those naked limbs," said Bernsen. "My father said, 'You'll get $900 for this,' and I thought, 'I think I like this business.'"

In 1973, he transferred to UCLA, got his B.A. in theater and taught there as an assistant while working on his master's degree in play writing.

Now the one-time law student has become well-known as rakish attorney Arnie Becker on NBC's L.A. Law, a role he relishes. Matter of fact, the image of the character doesn't even really bother Bernsen. "I don't see him as a rat or a sleazebag," he said, "just someone who does his job. He's a smart beach guy from L.A., maybe the brightest one in the firm. He's an overachiever who gets into some tight situations and loves women. But he's a good guy, you can't help but like him."

Becker isn't the only role on Bernsen's agenda, however. Now well established in his television career, he's branching out into movies. During his L.A. Law hiatus last year, Bernsen starred in Hello, Again with Shelley Long. Earlier this year, he had a cameo in Carl Reiner's Bert Rigby, You're a Fool. He starred in two new movies which were released in April.

Major League cast him as a preening Cleveland Indian third baseman who is more interested in not getting hurt than in fielding the baseball. In Disorganized Crime, he plays a New Jersey bank robber who becomes helpless when he escapes in a Montana woods.

Bernsen is also developing screenplays at his own Team Cherokee Productions, and has plans for a soundtrack/ theater/actor's workshop.

Martin Short long on laughs in special

By Stoney Black

There's no way around it: Martin Short is long on laughs.

Who could ever forget the evening when Ed Grimley, the triangle-playing nerd, met the voluptuous, leggy Tina Turner on Saturday Night Live? Or the episode where Jackie Rogers Jr. discussed his new semi-autobiographical book, Damn You, Daddy Sir? Or the Academy Awards program where he and Carrie Fisher showed up in the same cocktail dress?

And the comedian is as crazy as ever in his newest stunt on cable, HBO Comedy Hour: I, Martin Short, Goes Hollywood.

In an effort to explain his lifelong love affair with the glory and glamour of Tinseltown, Short examines his journey from a star-struck, 450-pound teenager to a movie actor with everything he could want, except maybe an ACE Award.

With eight of Short's most bizarre characters—including the aforementioned Ed Grimley and albino lounge lizard Jackie Rogers Jr.—paying homage to the comedian, there exists a virtual guarantee for at least five mind-wrenching belly laughs. Especially in light of the support given by the funny-in-their-own-right guest stars: Catherine O'Hara, Eugene Levy, Tracy Ullman and Christopher Guest.

HBO Comedy Hour: I, Martin Short, Goes Hollywood airs Friday, June 16 at 6 p.m. Eastern.

HOROSCOPE

June 11 through June 17

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
A sudden windfall seems like a dream come true. Be wary of spending it all in one place. A close friend needs your support in a community effort. Watch your health closely.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Keep important gossip to yourself. This information will be quite useful later on. A member of the opposite sex is more interested in you than you think.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Let your imagination loose at work and the results will surprise you. A friend from the past will come back into your life in the next few weeks. Check utility bills closely.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
You are in for a bumpy ride this week—literally. Be sure tires are inflated and automobiles are tuned-up. A new friend needs some advice on a difficult matter.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Spirituality will become very important to you this week. A young person in your life needs special attention. Loved ones are keeping secrets for your benefit.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Things will be a little rough on the home front. Keep your temper and let your ego take a breather. An unfamiliar face in your work environment could cause problems.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Take time to let those close to you know you care. An exciting job opportunity is just around the corner. A former adversary could prove useful in solving domestic problems.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
It is time to focus in on what is most important to you. Basic values and principles should be the basis for any difficult decisions you need to make this week.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Travel is in your forecast for the week. It is quite possible for you to win a contest, or possibly inherit a windfall. Choose investments carefully.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Communication abilities will come into play at work this week. You will be very happy with the surprises a loved one cooks up for you this week.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Take time for yourself this week and relax. Financial problems won't go away, but will be easier to deal with when you are rested.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Stubbornness is not your best trait. Just because you are absolutely sure you're right, doesn't mean you are. You could lose someone very close, if you don't calm down.

Futuristic Product Provided By New Company

A wall mounted touchscreen provides access to the sophisticated computer, allowing the homeowner to preset controls for room temperature, security systems and lighting and appliances.

Does it sound like something from a Saturday morning cartoon show? Coreen Leonard, part owner of Interstate Technologies, likes to refer to the Jetsons when describing the variety of automated home controls.

"Say your dishwasher needs repairing. You can assign a passcode to the repairman, and then preset the system so that he can come in and fix the dishwasher. Cameras will record his face when he comes in, and if he goes anywhere in the house other than the kitchen, that will be monitored too," Leonard said. "It's just like the Jetsons (cartoon show)."

Coreen and her husband, Michael, founded Interstate Technologies in 1985. Michael is a former systems analyst representative and applications engineer for Johnson Controls, Inc., and Coreen has worked as a contractor for the U.S. Department of Energy.

The company uses Unity Intelligent Building Control Systems, designed by Unity Systems, Inc. The systems provide maximum energy savings, flexible-direct connect communications, and automatic/systemic control of lights, appliances and miscellaneous support equipment.

Interstate Technologies has installed one system in this area, at Laurel Brook Condominiums. An open house will be held there on Saturday, June 10, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. for interested persons to see the Unity Home Manager firsthand. Laurel Brook Condominiums are located seven miles north of Oakland on Rt. 219.

For more information on the system, call 387-5395, or call collect at (301) 739-6707.

On April 26 and 28, 76 four- and five-year-olds who will enter Broad Ford Elementary School in August registered for kindergarten in a room filled with Walt Disney characters and balloons. During this registration the children were given the opportunity to play with a variety of toys. Parents and children also received refreshments.

The children returned May 19 for a unique orientation program, designed to ease their transition into kindergarten, and to encourage them to regard their future educational experience in a positive light.

Thomas Fowler, principal, opened the orientation program with a welcome to parents and children. Carolyn Corley, Chapter 1 Resource Teacher, then distributed packets containing information from Mr. Fowler and the PTA, information concerning parenting, a booklet of games for parents to enjoy with their children, and a summer calendar of daily activities for families to enjoy.

The children, accompanied by their parents, then went to classrooms and participated in various activities with their new teachers and assistants.

The children then experienced what was a first for many — a school bus ride. Refreshments followed this event.

Before departing, each child received a bag of treats and games. Some of the educational games included color, shape and number games; lacing shoes; name puzzles; and coloring activities. The children also received lollipops, balloons, KINDERGARTEN REGISTRATION at Broad Ford Elementary seemed more like a welcome celebration to next fall's kindergartners, who were treated to toys, balloons and refreshments. Pictured in the above photo, left to right, are Janet Roderick and son, Brad; Al Coviello, director of Pupil Services for the Board of Education; and Tom Fowler, school principal. pencils, bookmarks and "Some of the materials for the parents' packets and the children's fun bags were donated, but most of the materials were beautifully made by Broad Ford's fantastic parent volunteers," stated Carolyn Corley, who leads the volunteers.

Tom Fowler, principal, stated, "I believe our new kindergartners are going to do really well, after seeing them participate in our orientation program."

Enrollment In Summer School At FSU Up 11%

While Frostburg State University has earned a name for itself as a growing, quality institution of higher education, it is also gaining a reputation as the place to be during the summer months. According to the recently-released statistics from the FSU Office of Graduate Studies and Extended Education, course registrations for the first session of summer school at the University have risen 11 percent over the same period last year.

Dr. Joseph Malak, dean of Graduate Studies and Extended Education at FSU, pointed out that in the past three years, FSU has seen a 38 percent increase in summer school course enrollments. Course registrations for this year's first summer session total 2,134, as compared with 1,931 course registrations for a similar period in 1988 and 1,694 in 1987. A further increase is also anticipated with the University's second summer session, which begins June 26.

Another area in which FSU saw improvement was in credit hours generated. Total credit hours for the first summer session amount to 6,354, approximately 350 more than last year. "The course registrations are going up by more than 10 percent each year, while credit hours also continue to go up," remarked Malak of the current increased interest in summer school at FSU.

The dean said what makes the FSU summer school program attractive is a combination of factors. In contrast with previous years, many more courses are now offered during both day and evening hours, accommodating both traditional and non-traditional students. He added the expanded schedule has been especially helpful to students taking courses in FSU's new and old General Education Programs.

"The courses offered at both the undergraduate and graduate levels feature highly-qualified, regular faculty augmented by superb practitioners from area agencies and businesses," Malak said.

The summer session schedule also offers many special topics classes, which often appeal to area adults for professional development and personal enrichment.

Malak felt this year's earlier and wider distribution of the summer schedule booklet has enabled students to plan ahead. Summer school schedules were out and in the hands of prospective students before fall 1989 pre-registration got underway, giving students an opportunity to see their options before scheduling for the fall term.

Malak stated the summer school's intensive intramural program, added this year, has been well received by the students. Aerobics, softball, swimming and a tennis tournament are among the activities available to students for recreation. In addition, he said students are able to enjoy a Cabaret performance by the Cumberland Summer Theatre Company, the atmosphere of the campus' Olympic Village during the 1989 Canoe/Kayak Whitewater World Championships, a poetry workshop and special courses in watercolor painting. He added that some tickets to performances by the Cumberland Summer Theatre will be made available to FSU summer school students.

"We are making a vigorous effort to improve the student life and the student environment during summer school to make the program more conducive to learning," Malak commented.

Although mail-in registration for the second summer session is closed, walk-in registration is being accepted through June 16.

For more information, persons may contact the Office of Graduate Studies and Extended Education at (301) 689-4231.

Goralski Retains AAFP Membership

Dr. Robert A. Goralski, a member of the Garrett Medical Group, Oakland, has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP), the national association of family doctors.

The requirements call for the members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. The Academy, the country's largest medical association with more than 60,000 members, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

The Academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969.

The Power Of PRAYER

As we are all human, sometimes we may tend to have difficulty staying UP. The solution is often not thought of and is quite easy. When we pray we gain immediate attention from GOD (if we are serious). He listens and we find that an answer comes.

Striking proof of the power of prayer may be seen in the story of the writing of the Constitution of our United States. The founding fathers had spent weeks in discussion, attempting to draw up the articles to be incorporated in the document. Finally after much wrangling, Benjamin Franklin arose and addressed the assembled statesmen. "I have lived a long time, Sirs, and the longer I live the more convincing proofs I see of this truth: That GOD governs all the affairs of men. And, if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it possible that an empire can rise without His aid? I believe that without His concurring aid, we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of the Tower of Babel. We ourselves shall become a reproach and a byword through future ages."

The next day the assembly was opened with a prayer to God for guidance and the same day the Constitution of the U. S., one of the greatest documents on record, was written! Do we wonder why our great land seems to be slipping away from greatness? Without divine guidance we are as a ship without a rudder in the ocean - but worse, PRAY and OFTEN, for all, for this land, for the world, but PRAY.

AFBF Against Food Safety Bill

The American Farm Bureau Federation cannot support the food safety legislation proposed by Rep. Waxman (D-Calif.), according to AFBF President Dean Kleckner.

Testifying last week before the House Energy and Commerce Committee's subcommittee on Health and the Environment, Kleckner said, "We are concerned that this bill, as written, would not be in the best interests of consumers and farmers."

Contending that farmers are as concerned as anyone about safe use of chemicals, Kleckner said, "Farmers are on the front lines. We mix the pesticides that regulators are concerned about. We live on the land where those pesticides are applied. In order to stay in business, we rely on consumers to buy the food we produce. If a pesticide poses unreasonable risks, we want something done about it."

Kleckner argued in favor of giving EPA discretion to consider risk/benefit assessments, rather than the Waxman bill's "much more strict" attention to risks with no consideration of the benefits of pesticides.

"As a farmer," Kleckner said, "I believe that American consumers have benefited by a public policy which permits some marginal risks to be taken in certain circumstances when the benefits of continued use are potentially significant. The business of farming and producing food and fiber is plagued with uncontrollable variables. The safe use of agricultural chemicals has helped reduce those risks and, in turn, has benefited consumers here and abroad. I strongly urge the committee to give serious thought to the continued consideration of benefits."

The head of the nation's largest farm organization also stressed the need for alternatives for pesticides which may be removed from the market. "Farmers should be given both the opportunity and the incentives to use Integrated Pest Management (IPM) programs," he said. He filed with the committee a description of 11 major areas in which IPM research programs could be improved to accelerate the technology to farmers and make IPM a national priority.

"Science can deliver markedly improved pest control technologies, but whether it does so will depend largely upon public policy," said Kleckner. He commended the National Academy of Sciences' Board of Agriculture report which supports the concept of negligible risk.

"If all the recommendations of this report were followed, we could achieve a meaningful reduction in potential pesticide residue risks to our consumers with minimal impact on our food supply and the viability of our agricultural sector."

AREC, USDA To Examine Crop Insurance Options

Recent droughts in the United States have renewed interest in the viability of agricultural crop insurance. While crop insurance participation varies from the national average of about 25 percent to 2.9 percent in Maryland to 75 percent in Montana, growers have expressed dissatisfaction with the structure of currently offered federal insurance packages.

It's in this light that the department of agricultural and resource economics at the University of Maryland at College Park announces a $100,000 cooperative research project with the Commodity Economics Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service.

The study focuses on how existing multiple-peril federal crop insurance programs can be made more efficient and more attractive to American farmers. "The federal government is hopeful that an agricultural insurance plan can be devised that will be widely adopted, thus eliminating the need for the costly disaster payment programs of recent years," said Dr. Darrell Hueth, chairman of the agricultural and resource economics department.

The study will determine what factors farmers take into account in their decision to purchase insurance, how coverage levels are chosen, and how existing crop insurance decisions can be made more efficient and attractive.

The study will also survey 400 Maryland and Delaware corn and soybean growers on the Delmarva Peninsula. This intensive survey will allow an explicit comparison of Maryland crop insurance patterns with national patterns. The national survey will contact about 2,700 growers of corn, sorghum, soybeans, wheat, rice and cotton. More than 600 of these growers purchased multiple-peril crop insurance in 1988.

The national survey will determine the degree to which crop insurance is used as a substitute for other risk reducing inputs, such as pesticides and fertilizers, and will also examine the relationship between crop insurance decisions and farm credit decisions.

The results of this study, and others being conducted in Saskatchewan, Canada, through a cooperative agreement between Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer and Saskatchewan Premier Grant Devine, will be presented at a March 1990 conference in Regina, Saskatchewan.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

Nominate Your Favorite Cow To Be Featured During Dairy Month

"Milk — A Gold Medal Winner" is the theme for the 1989 celebration of June Dairy Month. The Republican Newspaper would like to recognize cows belonging to area dairymen who are "gold medal winners" in the eyes of their owners.

To nominate your favorite cow, send the following information to The Republican, c/o Bernice Kepple, farm editor, P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. Information needed includes the cow's name, production record, reason for nomination, owners' name and address and phone number.

All nominations must be producing dairy cows, however, high-producing cows will not be the only ones picked to be featured. Your reasons for nomination may be that the cow was the first heifer calf born on your farm, or your child's pet cow, or a cow with unusual markings, or a variety of other reasons.

The owners of the cows

chosen will be contacted and an appointment made for a photo to be taken. That photo and information about the cow and her owners will be used in The Republican's farm section sometime during the month of June. A 5" by 7" black and white copy of the photo used in the newspaper will be mailed to the owners of the cow as a keepsake.

Cows to be featured will be chosen by The Republican's editorial staff. All nominations should be mailed to The Republican by June 15.

Alfalfa Weevil — A Lot of Them!

I have had a lot of calls in the last few days about the greenish-yellow worm on alfalfa. That's the larva of the Alfalfa Weevil. In most cases, it is too late to spray. My advice is to check your fields immediately. If weevils are present, cut the alfalfa. Along with the weevil I am finding some Potato Leafhoppers which, in my opinion, do more damage on Garrett County alfalfa than the weevil. After harvest, I would suggest that you spray with one of the following materials: Furadan, 1-2 pts/A; Lorsban 4E, 1-2 pts/A; Cygon 400, 5-1 pt/A; Pounce 3.2EC, 2-8 oz/A; Ambush 2E, 3.2-12.8 oz/A. Follow the directions on the label.

Postemergence Weed Control in Corn

I realize that many of you have planted the corn and the weather has delayed the application of herbicides. The following herbicides can be used in a postemergence situation.

1. Prowl, 3 pts/A Plus Atrazine 4L, 1-1.5 qts/A, or Bladex 90DF, 1-1.26 lbs. If the seed has not germinated, make sure it is well covered. Prowl can damage the seed. This mixture can be applied early postemergence until corn reaches the four-leaf stage and weeds are less than one inch high.

2. Atrazine 4L, 2-3 qts/A + Crop oil concentrate, 1 qt/A. Use in

ANIMALS TO SEE AND TOUCH — Farm animals were the star attractions recently when two Garrett County dairy farm families opened their homes and their hearts to bus loads of school children. Approximately 100 Broad Ford Elementary School, Min. Lake Park, kindergarten and headstart students visited the DeWitt Dairy Farm near Deer Park on April 25, 27 and 28; while around 90 first grade students from Parkside Elementary School, LaVale, visited the Guard Dairy Farm near Friendsville on May 24. On both farms, willing children tried milking a cow. Then they watched as the owners milked the cows and explained how that milk gets from the cows on the farm to the dairy, on to the grocery store, and finally to the children's breakfast tables. Above, headstart children pet a soft, day-old calf on the DeWitt farm. Above right, children watch the hens and search for eggs on the Leslie Guard farm. In the photo on the right, host Sandy DeWitt leads a patient little pony who gave every child visiting the DeWitt farm a ride. Taking his turn when this photo was taken is Nicholas Fogel. Photos by Craig Phillips and Bernice Kepple

Milk Consumption Continues Upward

Dairy farmers were the first group of farmers to pay for their own advertising, promotion, and education program. In 1984, through the provisions of the Dairy, Tobacco, and Adjustment Act of 1983, dairy producers later reaffirmed their commitment to promotion by approving a mandatory 15-cent deduction per hundred-weight of milk sold. This 15-cents is used entirely for promotion, advertising, and education.

The direct success of such a program is difficult to measure, as there are other factors which influence the demand for milk and milk products. Factors such as population, income, and price of milk and milk products also play a role in consumption.

However, the traditional downward trend in the consumption of milk has been reversed and consumption of dairy products is increasing, also.

In terms of total product weight, the per capita consumption of milk and milk products amounted to 598.2 pounds in 1987, up 8.4 pounds over the previous year for a 1.3 percent increase. Per capita consumption of lowfat milk amounted to 113.6 pounds, up 2.9 percent; yogurt 4.7, up over two percent; total cheese, 24 pounds, up 4.4 percent; and frozen dairy products, 29.1 pounds, up 1.4 percent. These facts should provide evidence of the value of the producer-financed regional and national advertising, promotion, and education program, according to the American Dairy Association.

There exists considerable variation among regions throughout the United States in milk consumption. On the West Coast, 21 percent of the fluid milk sales were from whole milk, with 73 percent coming from lowfat or skim milk. Conversely, in the West South Central Region, 60 percent of the sales were accounted for by whole milk, while lowfat and skim milk accounted for 31 percent. For all regions, 44 percent of consumption came from fluid milk sales, five percent from flavored milk, 43 percent from lowfat, six percent from skim, and two percent from butter-milk.

According to published data, the per capita consumption of milk as a beverage amounted to 20.7 gallons, continuing an upward trend which began in 1985. Prior to 1985, consumption had been declining since 1965 with the exception of a slight increase in 1977.

a single broadcast spray before weeds exceed 1.5 inches in height. Do not use when corn is under stress from prolonged, cold, wet weather, poor fertility. When corn is wet and succulent from recent rainfall, injury may occur. If you have a serious nutsedge problem, you will have to go to 4 quarts of atrazine.

3. Banvil, 5-1 pt/A. This strictly a broadleaf weed control. Use 1 pint up to the five-leaf stage or 8 inches height in corn. After that, cut back to .5 pint. Best performance occurs when weeds are small.

4. 2, 4-D Amine, 5-1 pt/A. Do not cultivate for ten days, or corn may break off. Small weeds are easier to kill. Use high rates for larger weeds. Grasses are not controlled. You may also combine with Banvil, using .5 pint of each.

5. There are other products such as Lorox, Evik, Basagran and Laddock that can be used. But they need special applications. If you are going to use these products, follow the label carefully. For more information, call my office.

To A Day On The Farm

Start The Day With Breakfast: It's Important

Breakfast — many nutritionists say it is the most important meal of the day. Studies on children and adults have shown better concentration and performance in those who have started the day with a good breakfast. And nutrition experts recommend that at least one-third of the day's calories be consumed at breakfast.

But how can busy families find the time for a morning meal?

There are many ways to enjoy a quick, easy, and nutritious breakfast. Here are some tasty tips recommended by the American Dairy Council.

— Choose a whole grain cereal, add milk, and top with sliced strawberries or other fruit. Finish it off with a glass of milk and start the day with calcium, protein, vitamin C, fiber, and more.

— Try cheese toast. Or melt cheese on a bagel under the broiler; add a slice of tomato for variety.

— Pop a frozen pancake in the microwave, or a frozen waffle in the toaster.

— Open a carton of yogurt; mix with fresh fruit for added fiber and nutrition.

— Warm an oatbran muffin. For variety try blueberry, apple-raisin or corn muffins.

— Make a yogurt shake. Mix a carton of plain or vanilla yogurt with some fresh or canned fruit, add a little milk and blend.

— For a change, try some quick-cooking oatmeal. Prepare with milk instead of water for extra calcium and protein.

More and more microwave breakfasts are appearing in the supermarket. These products are convenient, but consumers should watch out for added calories and sodium. They also are usually more expensive than a simple, home-prepared breakfast.

Today's busy families can get a good start on the day by taking a few minutes to have a quick and healthy breakfast. The results can mean a more productive and satisfying day.

There are 345 dairy cooperatives throughout the United States, providing markets for over 200,000 dairy producers.

Hints To Growers

by Jim Simms
Extension Agent, Agriculture Science

Lyme Disease is a very serious problem in the United States. The disease has been described as the "Aids of the North Woods." It is caused by the bite of a tick. In our area, it is most commonly called the Deer Tick. However, other ticks such as the American Dog Tick may carry Lyme Disease.

The Deer Tick is primarily responsible for the explosive spread of the Lyme Disease bacteria. It is only half the size of a common wood tick and smaller than a bread crumb. The tick is carried by birds, deer and mice. The nymph stage of the ticks is most likely to infect humans when they wait in the bushes or grass for a host to come by. It is estimated that 80 percent of people infected with Lyme Disease do not remember being bitten. Anywhere deer browse or mice play, are likely areas for nymph infestation, which means that most homeowners with wooded lots and gardens could potentially be exposed. The ticks are active from spring through fall, with the number of reported Lyme Disease cases peaking in July.

Although Lyme Disease can be successfully treated with antibiotics, there are no standardized tests to diagnose it in its early stages. The disease has been called "the great imitator" because it mimics everything from the common cold to syphilis to Alzheimer's to Lou Gehrig's disease. Common symptoms include overall bodily weakness, fever, muscle and joint pain, fatigue, headaches, neurological and cardiac difficulties and arthritic symptoms. The one tell-tale sign of Lyme Disease is the rash that over 70 percent of all victims develop within two to 30 days after being bitten.

If you would like information on using insecticides to help rid lawns and backyards of the deer ticks, call my office at 334-1990.

Early and Late Blight of Potatoes

Blights continue to be a problem on our potatoes. If the weather continues as such, blight may even be worse this year.

You should begin your spraying program in mid-June or when the plants are about eight inches tall. Continue every seven to eight days. Some of the fungicides you can use are Bravo 720, Manzate 200, Dithane M-45, OLF, Ridomil/Bravo (late blight only). Make sure you follow directions on the label.

Colorado Potato Beetle

Late planted potatoes that are still small plants are at risk to the adult Colorado Potato Beetle, thus, should be monitored closely. For potatoes during the first 60 days of plant development, treatment should be applied if any one of the following levels of CPB stages per 10 stalks are reached: five adults; 20 small larvae, 15 large larvae, or a combination of proportionate numbers of each stage. When a population consists of all three stages, it is easier to think in terms of Colorado Potato Beetle units, whereas one adult equals one CPB unit, four early larvae — one CPB unit, and three large larvae — one CPB unit. Thus, treatment is recommended when a mixed population exceeds five CPB units per 10 stalks. Potatoes can tolerate up to 25 percent defoliation during the latter part of tuber development without yield loss.

James Stevenson Honored By GCC For Contributions To College Library

An award for outstanding contributions to Garrett Community College was presented to James Stevenson by Board of Trustees Chairman Wayne Hamilton at the recent college commencement.

Stevenson, who served as acting director of the Garrett Community College Library during the spring semester of 1988 while on a sabbatical leave from Frostburg State University, was responsible for bringing new technologies and better administrative procedure to the library.

Among the achievements during his tenure at Garrett, Stevenson created a circulating computer software collection, founded the Agri-Net on-line data base, set up on-line acquisitions system for material purchases, provided the Maryland author series for the college and the Garrett County public schools, and acquired state of the art computers for the library staff and student use, including the lap top computer for circulation. He also served as consultant to the Ruth Enlow Library regarding computer hardware and software.

Stevenson currently holds the position of supervisor of instructional media with the Allegany County Board of Education and serves as a member of the Telecommunications for Disabled Individuals Board, having been appointed by Governor Schaefer. Before coming to GCC, he was media librarian at Frostburg State University, a position which he held since 1983. Prior to that time, he held positions as special materials cataloger at Frostburg and as library coordinator for the Salisbury Elk Lick School District.

Stevenson has earned a bachelor of science degree in education and a master of science degree in management from Frostburg State University, plus a master of library science degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

The Resolution presented to Stevenson at Commencement read in part, "...Whereas Mr. Stevenson was a dedicated, spirited, and enthusiastic source of institutional vitality and creativity, the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees conveys its genuine gratitude for the exceptional contribution Mr. Stevenson made to Garrett Community College and the people of Garrett County, and...acknowledges Mr. Stevenson's efforts and designates him a recipient of the 1989 Award for Outstanding Contributions to Garrett Community College."

Legislature Passes GCC Endowment Matching Fund

The Maryland legislature passed a bill in the 1989 session that would result in the State matching fifty cents for every dollar contributed to Garrett Community College endowment fund, according to a release from GCC. The program applies to all Maryland colleges.

Under the terms of the program, GCC has three years to raise up to $250,000. If the college can raise this much toward an endowment, the State will give the college an additional $125,000.

A GCC Foundation was recently assembled, as community volunteers will help the college conduct annual fund-raising campaigns. The first objective of the Foundation is to take full advantage of the State's matching money, the GCC spokesman said.

"An endowment is a fund raised to support the work of the college," the spokesman said. "The principal cannot be expended. Only interest income can be appropriated on an annual basis. As a result an endowment fund is a lasting source of income."

GCC is the last of the 17 community colleges to activate a foundation to conduct local fund-raising. Monies raised will provide for student scholarships, library volumes, new equipment, professional development, among many other educational enhancements.

The matching program begins July 1, 1989.

GCC Offering Art Courses For Senior Citizens

Fundamentals of Applied Art for Senior Adults courses are currently being offered by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College.

Three courses focusing on ceramics are being offered at three locations throughout Garrett County. The first course will be held each Wednesday at Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, from 9 to noon. The second offering will be held each Tuesday at the Swanton Community Center from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and the third will be held at the Oakland Senior Center each Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon.

Maryland senior citizens, persons 60 years of age or older, may attend these courses tuition free, but must supply their own material. A tuition fee of $10 plus materials will be charged for others wishing to enroll. Even though these courses are currently underway, prospective students are encouraged to attend the class of their choice. For more information, persons may call 387-6666, ext. 169.

Green Shores Planting Completed At Big Run State Park

A Green Shores planting was completed recently at Big Run State Park by Green Acres Garden Center of Oakland, according to a spokesperson from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The Green Shores program was designed to create forest buffers along streams and lakes that flow into the Chesapeake Bay. It is a part of Governor William Donald Schaefer's "One Million Marylanders" campaign to help clean up the Bay. Forest buffers are strips of trees planted along the banks of a waterway. They are the most cost effective type of waterway protection.

The Green Shores planting at Big Run State Park is along Big Run stream, where severe bank erosion has been occurring. Two hundred forty seven balled and burlapped hemlock trees, five to six feet tall, were planted along the stream's banks. Shown above in the photo left to right are Jim Rogers, park supervisor, New Germany and Big Run State Parks, and Dave Taylor, owner of Green Acres Garden Center. The sign displayed in the center shows the Green Shores logo, with the tree planting in the background.

Green Shores plantings such as this one will reduce the soil loss, preventing rains from washing the soil into creeks and streams that feed the water courses leading into the Bay. The trees act as filters, reducing the sediment in our waterways and preventing the pollutants found in run off and sub-surface ground water from entering these water courses.

The Green Shores planting at Big Run State Park was one of nearly 70 that have been completed this year.

For more information on Green Shores, persons may contact the Green Shores coordinator for the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Jeff Horan, at (301) 974-3776, or your local project forester, Ernie Metz, at (301) 334-3296.

Local Student Awarded DeVry Inc. Scholarship

Lyle Madigan, a 1989 graduate of Southern High School, is the recipient of a 1989 DeVry Inc. half-tuition scholarship to DeVry Institute of Technology in Columbus, Ohio, one of the system's 11 postsecondary campuses.

Madigan is the son of Lyle and Elaine Madigan, Oakland.

The announcement was made by Richard Czerniak, president of DeVry/Columbus. The scholarship, valued at up to $9,952, covers tuition payments for the Electronics Engineering Technology program. Students earn a bachelor of science degree upon successful completion of all coursework.

Finalists for the DeVry scholarship competition were selected from a group of nearly 750. Scholarships are granted on the basis of college board scores (SAT, ACT, or WPCT), high school academic records, and an essay written by the students. Madigan's topic was "The Electronics Industry's Crucial Role in Keeping the U.S. an Economically Competitive World Power."

A committee of local high school principals, counselors, and DeVry/Columbus administrators evaluates the student's essay and high school records and makes final selections.

"DeVry is interested in identifying highly motivated young people with a strong aptitude and interest in electronics. Our annual scholarship program is a significant contribution to that end," stated Dennis J. Keller, chairman of DeVry Inc.

In addition to the 27 scholarships awarded at DeVry/Columbus, other DeVry Institutes in the U.S. are presenting a total of 31 full-tuition and 62 half-tuition scholarships to graduating high school seniors. Value of the 120 scholarships to be awarded in 1989 is approximately $1.42 million.

Power Demand From PE Reaches Critical Levels

Demand for electricity on Potomac Edison's transmission system reached critical levels last Thursday because of high electrical demand from other mid-Atlantic utility customers, according to a release from PE.

As a result, the company implemented emergency procedures and reduced voltage on its system to prevent voltage collapse or thermal overloads. The voltage reduction is part of a four-level Reliability Coordination Plan, through which Potomac Edison and its parent company, the Allegheny Power System, cooperate with other utilities in Virginia, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

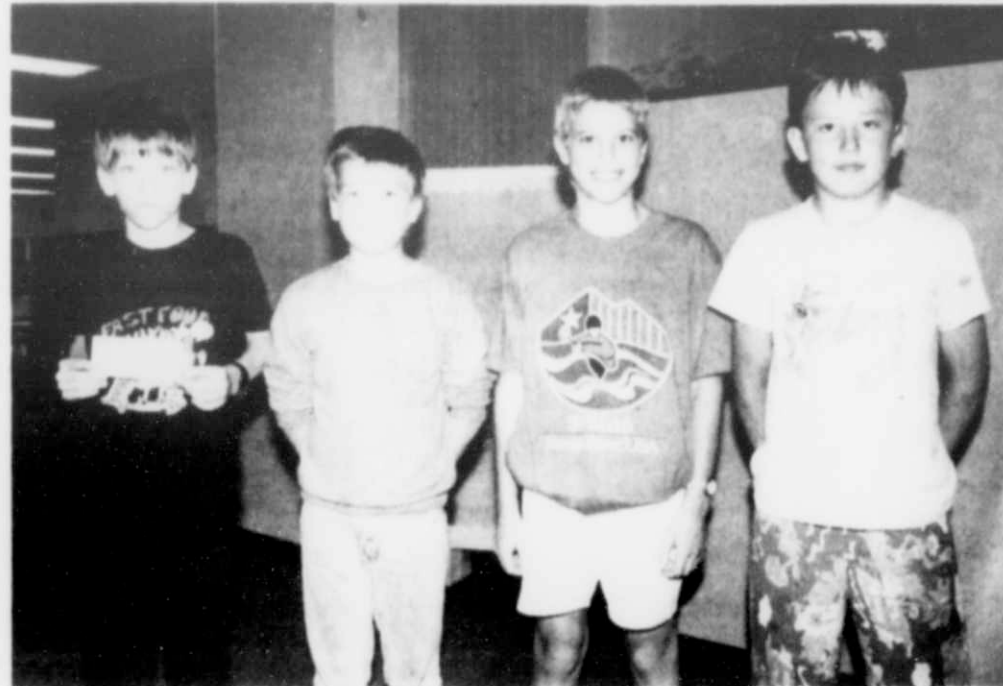

Thursday afternoon, these utilities were operating in level No. 4, in part because of the sudden loss of an 800-megawatt generator at Virginia Power's Possum Point Station. A five percent voltage reduction was put into place from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Potomac Edison's system, affecting about one-fourth of the utility's customers.

Most customers wouldn't notice a voltage reduction, said President Elmer Kaelin, because it's one strategy that helps maintain the integrity of the system without affecting customers.

"We're part of an interconnected system of mid-Atlantic utilities," Kaelin said, "so they, too, were reducing their voltage to maintain this total system. Each day, we use load forecasts and contingency analyses to seek solutions with our neighboring utilities and meet the demand of all of our customers."

As part of an interconnected transmission system, Potomac Edison is a partner with other mid-Atlantic utilities that maintain reliable service for all customers. The system is designed to meet the system's peak demand, many East Coast utilities don't have enough extra capacity to compensate for contingencies when generating or transmission equipment fails, Kaelin explained.

The transmission systems of interconnected utilities on the East Coast are especially vulnerable this summer, he said, not only because of the intense heat and humidity, but also because of increasing demand for electricity. Other factors placing additional stresses on the interconnections include the rapid population growth along the East Coast, a resurgence of industry due to a sustained economic boom, and major nuclear plants not coming on line as expected.

The next stage of operation in level No. 4, after voltage reductions, would be for Potomac Edison and its neighboring utilities to shed load. This curtailment of electricity for brief periods of time to industrial, commercial and residential customers would maintain the integrity of the entire system and help to avoid a blackout, Kaelin said.

Controlled voltage reductions or controlled curtailment of electrical usage would be necessary if electrical demand of the entire interconnected system exceeds generating capacity or if generating and transmission facilities suddenly go out of service.
